Biggest Undeveloped Business.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MRS. GLADYS FOSTER BEARDSLEE, young widow of Oliver Beardslee, aged 51, tells how the bullet killed him, says she didn't do it, and reveals the usual bootleg preface to the tragedy.

"WE WENT to Bridgeport to get some liquor, and walked from the trolley to Jim's place, where 'Deaky' (the husband) went in to buy liquor." That tells all you need to know about that killing.

JAMES A. WYNNE, good looking young flier from Curtiss Field, stood before the judge yesterday, expecting a 20-year sentence. A man and woman, poorly dressed, entered the court. The man said to the judge, "He didn't even know our boy. He did not know what he was doing when he shot and killed him. Nothing will bring our son back to life. We ask you to be merciful." The mother, wiping away the tears and turning her eyes from her son's murderer, approved her husband's appeal.

JUDGE MULQUEEN imposed a sentence of six and a half to thirteen years after Wynne told of a two days' drinking debauch, beginning in Long Island speakeasies, ending in drunken mania on Broadway and an unprovoked murder.

TWO murder trials in one day testify to the efficiency of bootleg whisky, but not to the efficiency of prohibition enforcement.

Will anybody attend to "Jim's Place" in Bridgeport, or to the Long Island speakeasies that caused a murder?

Nobody, probably, although the evidence is at hand.

YOU know from Police Commissioner Whalen that there are 32,000 speakeasies in New York City.

You know that drug peddlers carry on their trade inside the prisons.

You did not know that George Pozek, aged 74, was official bootlegger in the County Poor Farm near Joliet, Ill.

When accused yesterday, he could only say that his prices were reasonable. He was sentenced to six months on another poor farm.

INTERNATIONAL PAPER AND POWER COMPANY admits ownership in 13 newspapers, scattered over the country, including control of the Boston Herald and Traveler.

This news interes young newspaper men that would like to be in business for themselves.

Newspapers not owned by newspaper men usually come on the market at reasonable prices.

JAY GOULD owned the New York World. Pulitzer bought it at a bargain. Various interests, packers, dry goods, railroads, mail order houses, put five or six millions into the Chicago Herald. This writer bought it for a friend for less than half a million, just enough to pay off one creditor, the late Levy Mayer.

An able lawyer, far-seeing Mayer took a first lien, to secure his investment. Others got experience, in return for their millions.

IN EUROPE, police in many big cities are unusually vigilant today, fearing May Day rioting.

May first is Labor Day in Europe, and Russia, as usual, is supposed to be planning violent demonstrations. Berlin and Paris have forbidden open air meetings.

IN THIS thrice blessed country, our workers, with no thought of rioting, are working for the six-hour day and five-day week.

And many are wondering how high our Federal Reserve will force the price of call money.

MR. STIMSON, secretary of state, tells Mr. Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, "No change is under contemplation in the policy of this government with regard to recognition of the present regime in Russia."

THIS is supposed to mean permanent refusal to deal with Russia, because she refuses to redeem the Czar's and Kerensky's bonds, bought by foolish American bankers.

Nations and secretaries change their minds, however.

BRITAIN'S five important weekly reviews demand friendly business relations with Russia.

The Saturday Review, as conservative and anti-Soviet as the Wall Street Journal, says, "If we are to capture what must potentially be the biggest market still undeveloped in the world, we must at any rate, begin by renewing diplomatic intercourse with Russia."

SOME of our financial gentlemen will decide that part of the world's "biggest undeveloped business" should come here. When they make up their minds, it will come.

THE Mexican revolution, its back broken, has degenerated into guerilla warfare, intermittent sniping, here and there, attacks on passenger trains, etc.

The revolutionary cry, "Long Live Christ, the King," will be heard no more in pitched battles, unless the revolution's forces can be reorganized. Many of the ablest rebel generals have fled from Mexico to safety, over the United States border.

THE rebels fought with desperate courage. But men on foot, relying on escape from

NEWS GRIP EXPOSE PUSHED

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The Federal Trade Commission was to resume the hearing of testimony today in its investigation into publicity activities of public utilities which has brought forth the revelations of large investment by the International Paper and Power Company, or its subsidiaries, in 11 newspapers of the East, Middle West and South, in addition to the Boston Herald and Boston Traveler.

This sudden, secret and widespread campaign to buy control of a vital interest in American newspapers was revealed strikingly at yesterday's hearing.

This $800,000,000 hydro-electric, public utility and paper manufacturing organization having already obtained a financial grip on a dozen important journals, it is indirectly interested in two more.

OTHER DEAL ATTEMPTED

It has attempted two other newspaper deals, one involving $20,000,000, and failed. Negotiations are in progress for a $750,000 interest in still another paper.

All these facts were told the trade commission by Archibald R. Graustein, president of the International Paper and Power Company, at the most tense and crowded public hearing in the year-long investigation of power trust propaganda.

Chief Counsel Robert E. Healy heaped fact on fact tending to show that the giant corporation's wide-flung newspaper interests might be used to revolutionize public opinion on electric power utilities. Graustein clung tenaciously to a story he told at the outset, that this corporation was buying interests in newspapers to bind them in turn to buy its newsprint paper.

HOLDINGS LISTED

Its newspaper holdings, as Graustein revealed them in writing and in sworn testimony, are:

Brooklyn Daily Eagle—$11,954,000 in notes; 400 shares of common

Mr. Maurer, who captured Whoopee McGurk downtown today, as he turned Whoopee over to Patrolman Sullivan for safe keeping and for delivery to the Sun-Telegraph office, where the $100 reward was paid Mr. Maurer for the capture.

AIRMEN READY FOR DERBY

Preparations had been completed today for the aeronautic show which will open tomorrow at Pitt Stadium as a two-day preliminary to the 1929 national elimination balloon races Saturday. Arrangements to handle the race and the huge crowd it is expected to attract were complete and racers, officials and operation crews were on hand.

Lieut. Com. Charles A. Rosendahl, of the Navy dirigible Los Angeles, who will referee the race, arrived here today. With him came Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, Lieut. Jack Richardson, pilots, and Ensign Wilfred Bushnell and Maurice C. Bradley, aides, of the Navy team, and a ground crew of 10 men.

Maj. Gen. James A. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Service, left Bolling Field, Washington, in an Army plane this morning for Pittsburgh. He was to arrive at Bettis Field today and will attend the opening of the air show tomorrow.

BLIMPS EXPECTED

Upon the weather depended whether three blimps of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Company would fly here from Akron for the opening of the show tomorrow. If the blimps fly here tomorrow they will return to Akron tomorrow night, and one of them will return with P. W.

WHOOPEE M'GURK CAUGHT

Whoopee McGurk has been caught!

The insolent, daring suspect who has had the city on its elbows for 12 days was apprehended at noon today in the entrance to Donahoe's Fifth avenue store.

The captor was Frank D. Mauer, 26, an inspector for the Duquesne Slag Products Company.

Maurer outran an attractive young miss to capture the fugitive, who is suspected of having stolen Maggie's diamond necklace which Jiggs had loaned to Dinty Moore.

Several hundred persons collected in front of the store as Whoopee was taken into custody. A cheer went up, followed by another cheer. Everybody appeared to breathe easier.

By WHOOPEE McGURK.

ALL right, now, all right—quit the bragging.

I've been found, true enough—but I'm not the kind of a guy that takes a licking like a Democrat.

I'm not used to jails, but I'm on my way there now. A two-by-four palace with all the comforts and conveniences of a desert island doesn't make me laugh.

I'll tell the coppers this—don't leave any doors open.

HOW I CAUGHT WHOOPEE

By FRANK D. MAURER

I'M the lucky fellow who caught Whoopee today.

I was standing in front of Donahoe's waiting for my wife when I spied Whoopee walking into the store.

A good-looking girl saw him at the same time and neither of us had copies of Bringing Up Father, the comic strip.

We both started running for the corner newsstand. I beat her there and when we got back Whoopee was gone.

I stood there, the girl took the elevator to the second floor, because that's the way Whoopee appeared to have gone.

I stood there five minutes, and then I caught sight of Whoopee again. I walked up to him, said, "You're Whoopee McGurk," and

FIREMEN AWARDED DAMAGES

Stowe Township must pay compensation awards totaling $13,442.70 for the deaths of three volunteer remen and injuries to seven others despite the fact that the fatal accident occurred when the men were outside the township en route to assist the Heidelberg department.

This decision was handed down today by the State Compensation Bureau referee, L. E. Christley, at the local offices in the Fulton Building upon sending the report to Harrisburg after a series of hearings.

The accident occurred last December 26 on the U-curve of the Windgap road between Ingram and McKees Rocks, when fog caused the heavy combination pumper and hosecart to leave the road and somersault into the gully below. The scene was two miles from the Stowe township line. The firemen were members of volunteer company No. 2, who were called to fight the $500,000 blaze of the Carnegie Refining Company at Heidelberg.

"LOANED" EMPLOYES

The township filed an answer to the compensation claims through its insurance company, denying the men were in its employ at the time, classifying them as "loaned employes." An amended answer was later filed raising question as to the constitutionality of the workingmen's compensation law supplement of May 14, 1925, permitting volun-

JUVENILE HOME AID TO QUIT

Reorganization of the Probation Department and Detention Home of Juvenile Court has resulted in the withdrawal from the court's activities of Dr. E. Bosworth McCready, who for 14 years has been in charge of the mental health division of the medical staff.

It was revealed today that Dr. McCready withdrew as mental examiner two weeks ago, following a disagreement with Grace L. Stoakes, chief probation officer of the court on the policy to be pursued in conducting mental examinations. He has not tendered his formal resignation.

PROTESTS NEW PLAN

The new plan, which Miss Stoakes said is in accordance with the most recent practice in mental examinations of children, provided for examinations at both the mental clinic in the City-County Building and at the Detention Home in Fifth avenue.

This did not meet with Dr. McCready's approval, she said, and she was unable to convince him that the policy was preferable to his practice of making all examinations at the Detention Home.

"NOT ABLE TO AGREE"

Miss Stoakes' plan would "decentralize the work and result in confusion of record," Dr. McCready said. "It was simply a case of our not being able to agree on a matter of policy which resulted in my telling Miss Stoakes that I would not conduct further examinations of

BROWN REFUSED NEW TRIAL

Guy W. Brown, former state senator, banker and churchman, convicted of misapplication of funds, was refused a new trial by Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court today and ordered to appear Tuesday for sentence.

Brown was found guilty by a jury February 16 of misusing $125,000 of funds of the defunct Fayette City National Bank, of which he was vice president, and the First National Bank, of Webster.

Jesse R. Brown, a brother, and also a vice president of the Fayette City National Bank, pleaded guilty to misapplication of the bank's funds. He has not been called for sentence.

Part of the money Guy Brown is alleged to have misapplied consisted of funds of the Redstone Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church, of which Brown was treasurer.

Minister-witnesses testified at the trial.

Hearst $25,000 Contest For Temperance Closes

YESTERDAY was the last day of the $25,000 temperance prize contest, announced by William Randolph Hearst in January. It brought an inundation of competing plans in the last hours, many from persons of national and even international celebrity.

The contest is now closed, although plans postmarked up to last midnight will be received and filed in the competition as they arrive from the postoffice.

News of the contest and continued expressions from eminent persons throughout the country will be published in this newspaper during the period intervening until the board of judges can determine the winner or winners. This may require a month's time because of the overwhelming number of plans received. The total number received will be made public in a few days.

The judges in the contest are:

Former United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri; Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, former solicitor general of the United States; Congressman Florence P. Kahn, of California; Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., retired; the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass, pastor of Temple Emanuel, New York; the Venerable Archdeacon Joseph H. Dodshon, president of the Church Temperance Society, of the Episcopal Church, and the Right Rev. Mgr. John L. Belford, New York, representing the Roman Catholic faith.

GIRL WIFE'S INTRIGUE ANGERED MATE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 1.—(INS.)—Clandestine love that brought thrills to Mrs. Dorothy Peacox, whose married life was a kaleidoscopic maze of discord, was revealed today as the most logical motive for her murder and subsequent cremation by Earle Peacox, jealousy crazed husband, whose lilting young voice used to greet radio audiences with a genial "hello folks."

A romantic letter from a mysterious suitor, known only as "Gene from Baltimore," was brought into the open for the first time today although it had been in the possession of the talented radio instructor and writer for seven months.

STILL LOVES VICTIM

"I still love Dorothy, even though she be dead," Peacox cried in a moment of remorse in his cell here where he is held on a first degree murder charge.

The letter from the mysterious Gene is written in a rollicking college-boy style. It hints of love-trysts.

In the letter, Gene praises Mrs. Peacox as a "wonderful little hostess and homemaker," and speaks of his joy at being near her over a week-end.

Reference is made in the letter to a fraternity pin which the writer says he has snuggled "against my heart—it was so lonesome. The other Betas noticed it also, but said nothing, of course."

Meanwhile, Peacox enjoyed a comfortable night's sleep in the county jail, his mind apparently at ease. No qualms of conscience disturbed his rest, jail attaches said.

ENAMORED OF PEACOX

Miss Frances Newman is being held under $10,000 bail while authorities check up her story that although she visited ePacox in the same apartment where he killed his wife, she did not know the wife was dead and did not suspect that stains on the floor were bloodstains

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Provided the weather is dry the Pirates and Cardinals intend to get together this afternoon to wind up their first series. Yesterday's game was called off on account of rain.

Carmen Hill and Wee Willie Sherdel are down on the boards for a slab battle. Hill did the relief trick in Pittsburgh a few days ago and was in fine shape. He lost his first start of the season to the Reds through a late inning misplay after pitching masterly ball up to that point.

Burleigh Grimes' injured pitching hand is healing satisfactorily. Grimes, it is felt, will not miss more than one regular turn on the mound. He is having the sore thumb treated daily and hurrying it along.

The Pirates and Cards will speed homeward immediately after today's game on a special train of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The flyer is expected to make fast time to Pittsburgh to insure a battle between the clubs at Forbes Field tomorrow.

They're Coming Back!

Thursday the Pirates will be home. Today they're trying another comeback against the Cardinals in St. Louis.

SUICIDE FOILED BY DAUGHTER

Changing her mind, Mrs. Mary Fornof, 24, of 855 Lovitt way, whom police accused of having attempted to end her life by hanging last night, in Morals Court today accepted Magistrate A. D. Brandon's suggestion that she return to her family after he had discharged her on a disorderly conduct charge.

Mrs. Fornof was arrested last night by North Side police, who testified that they had arrived "in the nick of time" at the Fornof home.

"I'm sorry," Mrs. Forof told Sergt. Michael Dougherty, "Frances (her 5-year-old daughter) begged me on her knees not to do it. But I wanted to die."

The daughter, Frances, ran to a neighbor's house and asked for help and a call was made to the North Side Police Station. Wagonmen Christ Stahl and Henry Owczarzak reported that on their arrival they had found Mrs. Fornof dangling from a chandelier. She was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital for treatment, and then lodged in the police station.

Her husband, John Fornof, told police his wife had accused him of indiscretions.

Police said Mrs. Fornof had written this note:

"Goodbye, Daughter and God bless you. I'll meet you in the next world. Be a good girl. Mother will meet you some day. Kiss me before I get buried and pray for me.

"MOTHER."

POLICE IN ROW AT BRADDOCK

Braddock Police Station today was the scene of a brawl between Police Chief Michael Pipko and Lieut. Edward Goldstein. According to Burgess William Callahan, Piko struck the lieutenant after berating him before several other officers.

Goldstein, it is reported, overpowered the chief before Partol Driver Edward McDonough and Sergeant John Bradley managed to separate them.

Pipko is under arrest on a disorderly conduct charge, while the burgess investigates.

Burgess Callahan said he had been led to believe that Pipko was responsible for the affair.

Goldstein sent McDonough and Bradley home after the fight to "cool off," although Burgess Callahan said neither of the men took any part part in the affair except to try to separate the combatants.

KIDNAPED; DECLARES BOY SOUGHT IN W. VA. KILLING

The search of Morgantown (W. Va.) police for James Greathouse, 17, wanted for questioning in connection with the death of his friend, Charles Cassidy, 35, Morgantown landlord, ended today.

Greathouse walked into the Detroit Police Station this morning and told detectives there a weird story of abduction and murder.

He had, Greathouse said, gone for a ride with Cassidy last Saturday while the latter collected rents On the way back to Morgantown from a lonely farm tenant, they were held up, the boy declared. Cassidy shot and thrown from the car.

The robbers made Greathouse drive them to Morgantown, then to Pittsburgh and finally to Detroit, he said.

Today was his first opportunity to escape, Greathouse told Detroit officers.

Chief of Police C. W. Smith, of Morgantown, immediately wired the Detroit authorities to hold Greathouse until they can have him returned.

The boy's story fails to check with facts uncovered by police investigation, Chief Smith said.

REED AVERS MELLON NOT IN DEAL

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP.)—Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, testified today before the Senate Judiciary Committee inquiring into the right of Andrew W. Mellon to hold office, that treasury head did not sign a contract of the Aluminum Company of America for a Canadian development as the committee has been informed.

Two more hours of argument in the committee today failed to bring a vote on the report of Chairman Norris and adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

FIGHT ON OLD LAW

Norris has contended that Mellon as a stockholder in the Aluminum company and other enterprises is serving in violation of an old statute forbidding the Secretary of the Treasury to be interested in carrying on trade or commerce.

In this connection Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, cited the Canadian visit of Mr. Mellon in 1925 at the time the Aluminum company took over a power development from the Duke tobacco interests.

Senator Reed today produced what he said was the original contract for that transaction and declared it did not carry Mr. Mellon's name. The contract carried the signature of R. B. Mellon, a brother.

fleer firemen to be considered as employes of a municipality and thereby entitled to benefits under the law.

In making his decision, which is expected to set a precedent in similar cases, Referee Christley pointed out that the firemen were en route to Heidelberg and since they had not reached the scene and had not reported to the fire chief of that town, they were still in the employ of Stowe Township.

MAY APPEAL DECISION

Upon receipt of the decision by the state bureau at Harrisburg, Stowe Township has 10 days in which to appeal. The case would then be heard by the state compensation board either on a point of fact or law. In the latter appeal, if the board upholds the referee, the township can carry its appeal to the County Common Pleas Court and if necessary to the Supreme Court. This action, Referee Christley pointed out, can only be taken on an appeal on a point of law.

The awards made to dependents of the deceased follow:

Adolph J. Sennett's widow and children, $8,102.14; Thomas Carl Moyer's parents, $1,500, and Joseph DePerro's dependent children, $3,381.24.

The awards for injuries follow: Patrick Trapuzani, $10.71; Nick DeAngelis, $147.86; Gustave Galando, $10.03; John Caputo, $135; Mike DeAngelis, $15 weekly for indefinite period; Atillio Battista, $125.43, and Romeo Leo, $79.29.

State Adjustor F. J. Montgomery, of Crafton, handled the case through the local office.

SENATE DENIES HEFLIN 'BALM'

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP.)—The Senate refused today by a vote of 69 to 14 to aropt the resolution of Senator Heflin (Dem.), Alamaba, condemning the attack on himself at Brockton, Mass., after he had delivered an address there.

Senator Heflin had aroused considerable religious debate over his resolution after he had charged that opposition to it was influenced by the Roman Catholics.

Those supporting the Heflin resolution included two Republicans—Robinson, of Indiana, and Sackett, of Kentucky. At the time of his visit to Brockton to address a meeting of the Klu Klux Klan, Senator Heflin was assailed with missiles, one of them a bottle which missed him and struck a policeman.

children when the new policy was adopted."

Dr. MacCready's action, although no officials of the court would say so definitely, was indicated as a forerunner of sweeping changes in the probation and detention home departments of the court.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT

A quiet revolution of the home has been under way for two months since the appointment of A. L. Wills as superintendent of the detention home in March.

Wills was selected by the present board of directors of the home from hundreds of applicants for the job from all parts of the country on a competitive examination basis.

The final selection was made after searching inquiry was made into his qualifications and after he had submitted a thesis on juvenile court work in competition with several others who survived the preliminary weeding out process.

Soon after taking charge Wills began a program of "elimination of inefficiency and incompetency" which has resulted in the transferring of several attaches of the home to positions of lesser responsibility.

The numerous runaways from the home within the last few weeks have been pointed out by critics of the new regime as evidence that it is not working out smoothly. These are not indicative of anything, according to Wills, except the natural mischievousness of boys and girls under any kind of restraint. The buildings of the home are not fireproof and the doors cannot be locked, so it is easy for them to run off. Changes which are being inaugurated now to provide opportunity for healthful recreation for the children, and provision of lockers in which their street clothes can be locked, will almost entirely eradicate the runaway problem, he said.

Creek Yields Body Of Harmony Man

BUTLER, Pa., May 1.—The body of William Winnail, 48, who disappeared from his home in Harmony April 12, was found late yesterday caught in the roots of a tree in Connoquenessing Creek, three miles below Harmony. The discovery was made by a brother, Fred Winnail, of Salem, O., and a son, Paul Winnail, of Akron, who explored the stream in a skiff. A 10-day search by Chief of Police Thomas Quigley, of Zelienople, and County Detective Frank T. Wigton, aided by Boy Scouts, had been unsuccessful.

EUROPE MARKS MAY DAY WITH VIOLENCE

International News Service.

While America observed May Day with comparative mildness, violence flared up at many places in Europe, in which numerous persons were wounded and thousands of arrests were made.

More than 1,000 persons—Communists, radical Socialists and agitators—tried to storm police headquarters in Berlin. A Communist was shot and killed, five persons were seriously injured, scores were slightly wounded and 200 were arrested as the result of five serious and numerous lighter May Day clashes between the police and Communists. There was shooting on both sides.

FEAR TROUBLE TONIGHT

More than 18,000 Berlin police were on duty. They patrolled the streets and prevented large assemblages of Reds. It is feared there will be further clashes tonight. The police had arrested more than 150 persons up to mid-afternoon.

Thousands of police, gendarmes and steel-helmeted soldiers patrolled the streets of Paris. Seven taxicabs filled with Red literature were seized there. The Parisian police arrested more than 2,383 persons in the biggest roundup in the history of the city. Three members of the Chamber of Deputies, two aldermen and 100 foreigners were among the prisoners.

STRIKE DELAYS LINER

The liner Ile De France was held up in Havre by a May Day strike of stevedores and freight handlers and it was not likely that she would be able to clear before tomorrow.

Communists staged demonstrations and one-day strikes in Vienna, Belgrade, Budapest and London.

English Communists staged a demonstration in London, while a number of men and women workers went upon a one-day strike. Thousands of factory and office workers took advantage of the occasion to go picnicking in the country, and the trains to seashore resorts were crowded.

500,000 IN PARADE

Half a million men and women took part in a gigantic Communist parade in Moscow.

Rigid precautions had been taken by Premier Mussolini to curb demonstrations in Italy. Similar precautions had been taken by Gen. Primo De Rivera, the dictator of Spain.

May Day was celebrated throughout Spain without usual parades. The government forbade public gatherings, to prevent possible disorders. In Madrid, business houses were closed all day with the exception of restaurants, cafes and such establishments. In Barcelona, also, business ceased for the day.

Leon Trotzky, one of the great, if fallen, figures of the world of Socialism, celebrated May Day by breaking the monotony of his exile by receiving his first distinguished visitors, Sidney and Beatrice Webb, prominent British Labor party leaders, who are guests at Robert College, called on him.

No longer hopeful of admission to another country than Turkey, Trotzky has rented a villa at the fashionable resort of Prinkipo Island in the Sea of Marmora.

The first May Day in New York since 1916 was conducted by Communists.

In Kingston, N. Y., the plumbers went in strike.

A series of bomb explosions in the northwest side of Chicago wrecked three soft drink parlors.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis issued a signed May Day statement saying that American workers are contented and this was a day of rejoicing for them.

Grant St. Widening Assessments Placed

The Board of Viewers today announced a schedule of assessments against property owners for their share of the cost of paving the widened section of Grant street, between Second and Seventh avenues. The total cost was $88,618.33, of which $80,353.83 was charged against the city and $8,264.50 against owners of abutting property.

The improvement included the paving of Strawberry way, between Grant street and O'Neil way, and Fifth avenue, between Grant street and Wylie avenue.

LINDBERGH PREDICTS SAFE 'BLIND' FLYING

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(INS.)—A new era for aviation—an era in which pilots will make landings on fog-obscured fields in perfect safety and in which flights in multi-motored ships from Washington or New York to Buenos Aires or Rio will be everyday, commonplace events.

This is presaged for the near future by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who assured a joint committee of Congress that "within the next few years we will be able to fly through almost any kind of weather."

FOG A PROBLEM

"Fog flying will have more effect on air transportation than anything else," Col. Lindbergh told the committee. "We must develop air transportation to some accuracy comparable with land travel. For landing we will, I think, be able to use intersecting radio beams, sonic altimeters and other instruments. We will be able to land on a field we cannot see."

LIKES FLYING, BUT—

CLEVELAND, O., May 1.—(AP.)—Anne Morrow, fiancee of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, prefers to travel by automobile or train rather than by airplane, but for aesthetic reasons. Only on land, she says, can a journey reveal the scenic beauties of a landscape; the air traveler sees a map.

Miss Morrow, daughter of the ambassador to Mexico, leaves for the East tonight accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, and her sister, Miss Elizabeth Morrow.

They have been visiting with Miss Morrow's grandmother, Mrs. Charles Cutter, and friends of Cleveland.

Elizabeth Morrow confided to a friend last night that her sister and the famous flier have not set their wedding date, although it will be some time in June. She wears no ring.

Lindbergh to Lose Bet Unless Pal Weds First

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will probably pay a $1,500 wager after his marriage to Anne Morrow, Lieut. Donald Keyhoe, author and personal friend of the Flying Colonel, said in an address here last night.

Phil Love, old-time friend of the famous flyer, will collect the money, unless he marries before the Colonel, Mr. Keyhoe said.

Back in the days before he made his New York-Paris flight, the Colonel and Mr. Love made the wager, Mr. Keyhoe added.

CHURCH SPLIT THREATENS

Disruption of the congregation of the Hawthorne Avenue Presbyterian Church, Crafton, loomed today as a possible result of the forced resignation of the Rev. H. M. Eagleson from his pastorate there.

Rudolph Yanda, Crafton business man and influential member of the Hawthorne avenue congregation, predicted that many members would follow the pastor from the church if the Presbytery confirmed his resignation, accepted at a meeting Monday night.

Yanda pointed to the vote on the resignation in support of his prediction. The vote was 68 to 67 for acceptance. The congregation granted six months' salary to the pastor, who charged that he had been asked to resign because he had refused to cater to "rich" members of his flock.

At a business session tonight, with Lieut. Charles E. Bauch, general operations officer, presiding, pilots are to draw lots for place, and the rules of the race are to be announced. A banquet will follow the business session, and later the pilots and aides will be entertained at Sanders' Inn. James M. Magee, chairman of the sponsors' committee, is to be host.

All the balloons and their equipment have arrived and lighting and gasing arrangements at the stadium have been completed.

CROWDS TO ATTEND

That capacity crowds might be expected at the stadium was indicated in the heavy advance sale of tickets.

For the show and the races there will be many airplanes on hand. Three pursuit ships from Bolling Field, Army depot, are to come here, and there will be nine observation planes and a huge Martin bomber from Wright Field. Many private and commercial planes are expected to add to the aviation spectacle.

A concert by the One-hundred and Seventy-Sixth Field Artillery band will open the exhibition tomorrow afternoon. At 2:30 o'clock Joe Crane, parachute jumper, will drop into the stadium with a message from Mayor Charles H. Kline. Plane stunting, several addresses, a demonstration of the field lighting, and fireworks are scheduled.

MAY DAY BRIGHT WITH PROMISE, SAYS DAVIS

EDITOR'S NOTE — May Day in Europe is a day of nervous tension, of demonstrations by the proletariat, and sometimes of rioting and bloodshed.

In the United States it is a day of peace, and this May Day finds employment high and general conditions of the workers good, save in some portions of the textile and coal industries.

In the following article Secretary of Labor Davis gives his views on conditions.

By JAMES J. DAVIS,
Secretary of Labor.
Written for International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—May Day is a day of happiness and rejoicing for American labor.

When the next census has been completed, America will find she has nearly 50,000,000 of people gainfully employed, with the vast majority of them in steady jobs.

All our enlightened industrial leaders have come round to the policy of the liberal wage. Those employers who stand out against that policy merely put a sprag in the wheel of American prosperity.

MORE WORK, MONEY

Employment this year has so far shown reassuring improvements over the corresponding period of last year. Payroll totals are decidedly improved. Earnings are higher, while unemployment has been reduced.

Business conditions in general are such as to offer some guarantee that labor may continue to enjoy this improved state. Steel, barometer of the business world, stands in prospect of an unusually active year.

Except for conditions in coal and textiles, which have not yet yielded to efforts at stabilization, industry in general is in a sound and peaceful state. Relations between worker and employer throughout our national industrial system have never been more harmonious. Nothing is in sight to disturb this era of good feeling in industry.

The one cloud on the horizon to give labor the slightest uneasiness is the continued extension of automatic machinery with a tendency to displace workers for a temporary period. This problem is now receiving attention on every hand, at the hands of employers as well as by labor and by governmental agencies.

BUSINESS SUFFERS

The fact is recognized that such unemployment as results from the introduction of machinery is only temporary. Employers have seen the patent fact that business in general suffers when any considerable number of our people are reduced in purchasing power for even a temporary period.

Maximum employment for the maximum number of our people is at all times essential to our continued prosperity. The problem of labor displacement by machinery thus affects employers as much as it distresses labor, and because of this fact we may expect to see practical and effective measures to prevent serious disturbances to labor from this rapid extension of automatic machinery.

State Orders Bridge At Seward Crossing

HARRISBURG, May 1.—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission yesterday ordered the elimination of a grade crossing in the Borough of Seward, Westmoreland County, by the construction of a truss bridge and concrete viaduct to cost $134,884. The Johnstown Motor Club entered the complaint against the present crossing.

showed him the comic strip. A lot of people heard me—I must have yelled in excitement—and they cheered.

I took Whoopee up to Patrolman J. J. Sullivan and turned him over to the police, and all the time he was muttering about breaking out of jail.

I was pretty lucky. I recognized him by the hat and coat that I've been seeing in the Sun-Telegraph's picture for the last 12 days. And I wasn't any too soon, because on the way up two fellows stopped Whoopee and demanded the reward.

Those two fellows were H. C. Moreland, of 834 Nublock street, North Side, and Irving Schiffman, of Rankin.

I'm glad to have the hundred—but I'm sorry I had to beat out a pretty girl to get it.

DRIVE GAINS IMPETUS IN CITY

Pittsburghers in all walks of life are putting their shoulders to the wheel to move forward the load of evidence favoring downward revision of the tax on earned incomes.

With the completion today of the first week of the intensive campaign in enrolling signatures to petitions to be forwarded to Congress thousands of men and women, citizens of every district in the city and county, were eargely signing the documents which await the scrutiny of the authorities in Washington.

CANVASS ENLARGED

James Hammond, president of Gimbel Bros., Inc., praised the leadership of the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers in the movement for lightening the burden of income taxes on wage earners.

"I am with the Sun-Telegraph and this campaign," he said, "and feel certain that the authorities in Washington will heed the warning that comes to them in the millions of signatures on the protesting petitions which are now being signed by the people throughout the country. Western Pennsylvania should lead in this movement because the citizens of this district are perhaps the largest per capita payers of income tax."

Following the canvass in downtown office buildings and mercantile houses, the university students handling the petitions today invaded the lower Penn avenue district, "automobile row" in Baum boulevard, Wilkinsburg, the West End and the South Side hilltops. In each district they found the people ready to sign and gratified in having the opportunity to express their views in a manner that will draw the attention of Congress.

An automobile salesman who assisted the university workers in obtaining several pages of signatures to the petitions, said:

"It is time the people are waking up. We have believed all along that individual income taxpayers dependent on their daily toil for their living should have the burden lifted from their shoulders. It has remained for the Sun-Telegraph and the other Hearst newspapers to show us the way. Now that the campaign is on in full swing it should be given whole-hearted support."

FOR EQUITABLE TAX

Because a large number of persons do not pay income taxes themselves it is no reason why they should not exercise their rights of citizenship and join in the appeal to Congress to reduce the tax on those who are burdened with its payment," said a Penn avenue merchant. "If the income tax is made more equitable, it will benefit the entire community. I am exempt myself because I have a large family of dependents and my earnings are comparatively small, but I can readily understand that if salaried people and wage earners are less heavily taxed that they will spend their money in trade or will garner their savings and by becoming more thrifty will add to the prosperity of the entire community."

In Wilkinsburg many salaried persons were found. Nearly all are subject to income tax levies and all were anxious to go on record in their opposition to the present system of taxation. In the South Side districts are many mill workers who are subject to the tax. These workers said that the uncertainty of the wage earner in industry made the tax a burden. The per capita signatures obtained in this district exceeded that of any other section of the city.

HELD AS TORCH WITNESS

She is held as a material witness.

and, further, that the kerosene odor with which the apartment reeked did not arouse her suspicions.

Miss Newman, a slight, smiling blonde and self-admitted inamorata of the love-crazed husband, told police that Peacox had planned to use her as an alibi—she not knowing what the alibi really meant.

Peacock told her, she said, to tell anybody who questioned her that she had "passed out" in a drinking bout at his apartment the night he carried the body of his wife from the apartment and threw it in his car, the crux of the "alibi" being, police believe, to have possible suspicion diverted from himself.

PLANNED ALIBI

Peacox, police say, planned to make it appear as though the "large bundle" he carried from the apartment was Miss Newman, sodden with drink, and not, as was actually the case, the still warm body of his bride.

Authorities who are holding Peacox for the grand jury, which convenes May 6, expressed confidence that they can prove the prisoner guilty of technical premeditation, constituting first degree murder, for which death in the electric chair is the penalty.

21,000 FAMILIES ENTER NEW HOMES

A large slice of Pittsburgh's population today was in the throes of annual spring moving day.

At least 21,000 families in the district are changing their abodes, if calls upon public utility companies for service transfers give an accurate index.

VANS KEPT BUSY

Transfer companies reported sufficient business booked to keep their vans in motion for two weeks, and the streets this morning resounded with the rumble of trucks bearing almost anything, from can openers to grand pianos.

Apartment dwellers were most numerous among the itinerants. J. R. Brady, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, was of the opinion that the growth of apartment popularity would make this Pittsburgh's biggest moving day. He also believed that most of the moving would be to smaller apartments, of the two and three-room efficiency type.

SLIGHT REDUCTIONS

Brady asserted that prices for apartments under the $75 class had remained stationary in the last year. There has been a slight reduction, he said, in those which formerly rented for between $75 and $100, and considerable reduction for such as command more than $100 a month.

The Golden Triangle bore a heavy share of moving day traffic. The erection of many office buildings in the last year brought about many changes in location, it was reported.

CALL ON HOOVER GIVES RISE TO RUMOR

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Taking cognizance of reports gaining currency here following a visit to the White House yesterday, Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, in a formal statement today declared that he had no thought of entering into a compromise on the national origins issue.

President Hoover and the Pennsylvanian are at odds on the immigration question. Despite their differences, however, Reed called at the White House yesterday for a discussion on the subject. It was this fact that gave rise to rumors that he had expressed a willingness to compromise.

"There can be no compromise in the national origins fight," Reed said. "Reports to the contrary may be dismissed as without any foundation whatever.

HOLD WELFARE INVOLVED

"The issue is fundamental. Nothing could be more vital than the makeup of the future population of this country, and the decision of Congress with respect to the national origins law will affect the destinies of our country and the welfare of our people for generations to come. To abandon the principle involved would be to surrender to foreign blocs, and to discriminate in favor of some European countries and against others. It transcends in importance every other question which is before us, for if we change the composition of our population, then our democracy will change with it.

"We are an orderly, law-abiding people, to whom liberty does not mean the right to defy the government and flaunt the law, and means more than the opportunity to prosper. Unless we are to yield to the dictation of alien groups, whose first loyalty is to the land of their birth, rather than that of their adoption, we shall deal with this question as Americans have always dealt with their national problems, and hold fast to the good which has come down to us from the past.

SEE PERIL TO NATION

"We are not perfect as a people, and there are many things in our civilization which some of us might change if we had the power. But there is a wider diffusion of wealth and spiritual blessings in the United States than in any other country of this or any other age in the world's history. This condition is the product of economic opportunity plus racial character. If we change our racial character by admitting unassimilable aliens whose ideals and interests are foreign to ours, we will destroy in time one of the twin pillars of our national strength.

"All the national origins law attempts to do is to preserve our present racial balance, so far as this can be controlled by immigration restriction. To my mind, there is only one course open. To compromise with that issue is to invite destruction."

$20 Bellhop Tip By Wife 'Slays' Husband

PARIS, May 1.—(INS.)—Twenty dollars is no tip for a bellhop, even in a first-class Paris hotel—it's a fortune.

So, Monsieur Henry Deminy, a French citizen, wishes to divorce his wife, Mrs. Vera Schultz Deminy, said to be the daughter of a prominent San Francisco musician. Henry accuses his wife of being a spendthrift.

Monsieur Deminy charges that on one occasion his wife hired a taxicab, drove to the statue of Joan of Arc, a mile distant from her hotel, cursed the statue loudly and roundly, and then drove back home, giving the chauffeur a tip of $60.

A bellhop who took some biscuits to her hotel room, was rewarded by Mrs. Deminy with a $20 gratuity, the complaint alleges.

Fire Department on 'Part-Time' Strike

FOXBORO, Mass., May 1.—(INS.)—Foxboro's fire department was on a "part time strike" today. The veteran "smoke-eaters" modified their walkout ultimatum by stating that should a real fire menace arise they would turn out as volunteers. The "strike" was the result of a controversy between the town's 26 firemen and the board of two fire engineers. Foxboro selectmen meet tonight to act on the crisis.

'AIR TUTOR' AND 'CRASH WAGON' AT SHOW HERE

A stationary airplane known as a "flight tutor" and capable of executing on land all flight movements of a plane in flight will be demonstrated for the first time in public in connection with the national balloon races at the Pitt Stadium this week. The mechanical oddity is the invention of W. E. Hauffman, civilian aeronautical engineer of the Army air service. It was brought to Pittsburgh from Wright Field, Dayton, in the air service "crash wagon," a huge truck, recently developed by Hauffman to haul wrecked planes.

According to its inventor, the 'flight tutor" is to be adopted by all Army air training stations for preparatory and advanced pilot training. "It will revolutionize ground training in that an embryo pilot will learn how to use the controls with the 'flight tutor' in exactly the same manner as if he were in the air," Hauffman explained.

IT'S ECONOMICAL, TOO

"Other advantages of the invention are its economy and safety factors. A flying student, instead of making many costly and sometimes hazardous training flights, need only make a few actual 'hops' after having gone through his 'flight tutor' training."

Hauffman's invention consists of horizontal vertical revolving loops in the center of which is the "plane." With the exception of wings, the "plane" is equipped with regular air dynamic controls. When the pilot is strapped into the seat in the cockpit, the "flight tutor" is set in motion by a 15-horse power electric motor. He begins operating the "joystick" while the ship develops a relative speed of 65 miles an hour.

CAN DO DIZZY DIVES

Controlling the ailerons, the pilot is able to execute complete somersaults, dizzy nose dives, "skyrocket" ascents and every other flight movement of a regular plane. Master Sergeant William J. Bennett, who piloted the balloon "Pittsburgher" in last year's races, is assisting Hauffman in demonstrating the "flight tutor."

The "crash wagon" is said to be the biggest truck in existence today. It is to be used for transporting new planes as well as wrecks. It is equipped with a platform type body and an 18x7-inch wing rack. It is capable of hauling a complete observation or pursuit plane, or the fuselage and wings of a bomber. Some of its automotive features are 80-horse power motor, six-wheel drive, 42x9 pneumatic tires, eight forward and two reverse gears. The truck carries a wide variety of wrecking tools and cutting torches for rapid clearing of wreckage. It was built at a cost of over $9,000.

Democratic Baby Elephants May Lead G. O. P.

RIPON, Wis., May 1.—(AP.)—Regardless of how many people participate in this city's celebration in June to observe its claim as the birthplace of the Republican party, there will at least be plenty of elephants. And despite the common belief that all elephants are Republicans, the Democrats are likely to be represented at the head of the parade with one — and possibly two — baby pachyderms.

Organizers of the celebration, after canvassing circuses and zoos without success for an elephant, a few days ago said that following newspaper stories of their plight they had been deluged with offers of elephants for rent.

Today the owner of two baby elephants offered them to represent the Republican party. He said he was a Democrat, as were the elephants, but he had no objection to having them lead a Republican parade.

LEAKING SHIP STILL AFLOAT

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—(INS.)—With 22 men aboard, the schooner Kadiak was creeping precariously down the coast toward San Francisco harbor this morning and was in constant danger of sinking.

The 116-ton ship sent out distress calls late last night and asked for assistance, saying that she was sinking 10 miles off Point Reyes.

Mystery surrounded the accident to the ship, but the belief was expressed that the schooner might have struck on rocks in rounding the point and then pulled clear.

First messages from the Kadiak declared the schooner could remain afloat only a few more hours. Later Capt. Mattisen said that he would proceed south toward San Francisco under his own steam. Still later messages said that all hands were bailing water but their was no immediate danger.

The Kadiak belongs to the Alaska Packers' Association fleet, and left San Francisco Tuesday morning for Alaska.

Four other ships were in the vicinity as the Kadiak started for harbor. They were two coast guard cutters and two tankers, all in communication with the schooner.

WORKER ILL, THRIFT WINS BOOST FOR BANK ACCOUNT

Several years ago a German boy, Philip Wolf, of Darmstadt, came to the United States and settled in Pittsburgh. A skillful and industrious worker, he obtained a position with the Westinghouse company at East Pittsburgh and prospered.

PHILIP WOLF

One of the first things Mr. Wolf did after his arrival here was to open a savings account in the Polithania State Bank. He was given bank book No. 4,006.

Recently his health broke down. He had to give up his position. The physicians decided it would be best for him to go back to his home in the old country until he recovered.

Possession of a bank account was a great comfort to him in this emergency.

As a reward for thrift, the Sun-Telegraph has deposited $10 to the credit of Mr. Wolf's account in the Polithania bank. A cousin, Carl Benz, 221 Brownsville road, has promised to notify him.

The gift is one of hundreds totaling $6,200 offered by the Sun-Telegraph to savings bank depositors in the Pittsburgh district to promote thrift. The numbers of the bank books of those selected for reward are published daily. Ten thrift gifts of $10 each are announced today.

Il Duce Lowers Marriage Ages To 16 and 14

ROME, May 1.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini, "Il Duce," in the hope of increasing the number of Italian offspring, has caused the lowering of the legal marriage ages from 18 to 16 for the husband, and from 15 to 14 for the wife.

It is explained the governmental measure will have a certain sociological value as well, inasmuch as it will afford a means of combatting the practices of common-law marriage, or "free union," which is particularly prevalent in industrial centers.

Miss Purviance, formerly Charlie Chaplin's leading woman, and Harlan, film star, both named in the divorce complaint filed in San Francisco against Mrs. Helbush by her capitalist-husband, Herman. Sensational allegations of misbehavior are made against Mrs. Helbush.

N. Y. GUARDS AGAINST MAY DAY DISORDERS

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—Five thousand policemen, one-third of the city's force, have been assigned to special duty today to protect city officials, prominent persons and public buildings from possible May Day disturbances.

Policemen have been assigned to guard the homes of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., J. Pierpont Morgan, Mayor Walker, city, state and federal judges and public and municipal buildings.

Mass meetings were planned by Socialist and Communist organizations, the latter receiving a permit to hold a parade for the first time since 1916. The permit was granted by Police Commissioner Whalen on the promise that no incendiary placards would be carried and that the American flag would be borne aloft at the head of the procession.

WEDDED SUITOR SHOOTS GIRL AND IS SLAIN

WAXAHACHIE, Tex., May 1.—(AP.)—The refusal of Mrs. Lola B. Roller, a 19-year-old divorcee, to encourage the attentions of a married suitor, Dr. Harry F. Dowling, of Temple, Tex., a veterinarian, resulted in the deaths of the couple here yesterday.

Dowling fell before a bullet fired by H. L. Hempkins after shooting Mrs. Roller three times. Five hours after the tragedy Hempkins, Mrs. Roller's uncle, was exonerated by a county grand jury.

Mrs. Roller had been working in Temple, Tex., about three months, and came to Waxahachie several days ago, relatives said, to escape Dr. Dowling's attentions. Monday night Dr. Dowling drove by the Hempkins home, where Mrs. Roller was staying, but she was taking an automobile ride at the time.

SHERIFF AT SCENE

Yesterday he returned and, when he was refused admission, forced his way into the home. Hempkins immediately ran to his grocery, adjacent to the house, and returned with a pistol, and accompanied by Sheriff John Davenport.

The sheriff sought to wrest Dowling's revolver from his hand, but the doctor fired three times, striking Mrs. Roller in the head and chest. Hempkins, who was behind the sheriff, reached around him and fired once into the doctor's body. The two were dead when an ambulance reached the house.

Dowling, 45 years old, is survived by his widow, who lives in Temple. Mrs. Roller is survived by her mother, who lives in Childress, where Mrs. Roller made her home before obtaining her divorce 14 months ago.

ONCE JOCKEY

In Dowling's bill fold officers found a note reading:

"If anything happens to me notify Dr. Barnes, or Tom Wright, of Temple. I came after the only girl I ever loved."

Dowling had been practicing as a veterinarian in Temple for 12 years. Mrs. Roller was studying stenography before coming to Waxahachie several years ago. Before coming to Texas, acquaintances said, Dowling was a successful jockey on Indiana tracks.

N. Y. Drops Hunt For Missing Doctor

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—The district attorney's office in the Bronx yesterday announced it had dropped its investigation into the mysterious disappearance five months ago of Dr. Charles Brancati, wealthy Italian physician.

The announcement followed the failure to identify Luigi Romano, now under arrest in Utica, N. Y., as the Romano who drew large sums of money out of Brancati's account. Sylvester Ryan, assistant district attorney, said he was convinced that Brancati disappeared of his own volition.

Senator Has Fish Story to Explain His Black Eye

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP.)—Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, has a black eye and a cut on his face, but he has a real fish story to explain it.

When colleagues chided him, the Iowan told this story: He was fishing and slipped on a stone in the creek, falling and striking his head against a rock. The right eye is badly discolored, but the Senator says it doesn't hurt. The skin near the eye is cut and he admits that hurts.

QUEEN'S DEATH REPORT ERROR

DENVER.—"Second Isreal" was brought to the light once more here recently when its queen and only woman inhabitant was reported dead, but found herself very much alive.

The formal announcement of Mrs. Marie A. Threkelsen's death came about through a mistake. She visited a mortuary to record the death of her friend, Mrs. Katie Rohwetter. Her own name was recorded instead of that of Mrs. Rohwetter.

"Sir," she said, "I am very much alive," when questioned concerning her reported death.

Mrs. Threkelsen is the wife of Christine Albert Threkelsen, leader of "Second Israel," a colony of derelicts founded by the present leader's uncle, "Pete the Prophet."

"Pete the Prophet" founded the colony with the idea that "where there is a woman, there is trouble," so for more than 20 years the bachelors lived in their "Tin Can" colony in the Platte River bottoms of Denver without being bothered by women.

When "Pete the Prophet" died, his nephew took the throne. The younger man, a typical modern youth, disregarded the old custom and brought a wife to the "palace." The "palace" consisted of a dilapidated structure built of scraps of lumber, flattened tin cans and discarded brick. It had been built by "Pete the Prophet" in honor of the mythical wife whom he never brought home.

Signs Name of Dead Man; Forger Caught

ELKHART, Ind.—Dead men tell no tales, but a dead man's name on a forged check ended the criminal career of Ralph Fall, 28, Kewanna, Ill., when he presented it at a filling station.

The name forged was that of Charles Davidson, who died there years ago. On its face the check appeared good, but questioned by an attendant at the station as to the writer's address, Fall gave one which did not appear in the city directory and further investigation revealed Davidson's death.

Fall has confessed to 11 forgeries in seven northern Indiana cities, police announced.

WRECKERS MISS INDICTMENT IN STRIKE WAR

GASTONIA, N. C., May 1.—(AP.)—The Gaston County grand jury reported yesterday that thorough investigation of the wrecking of headquarters of the National Textile Union, which is conducting a cotton mill strike here, failed to produce evidence upon which to return indictments.

However, the jury, which was especially instructed to investigate the wrecking on April 19 of the strike headquarters and a relief store nearby, returned indictments against two deputy sheriffs, W. W. Bindeman and Joe Sarvis, who are accused of having attacked Legette Blythe, a correspondent of the Charlotte Observer. Blythe was struck unconscious as deputies guarding the mills broke up a parade of strikers and sympathizers on April 22. Trial of the deputies was set for Friday in city court.

The grand jury investigation was asked after Gov. Gardner instructed State Solicitor Carpenter to take action. The jury found that damage to the headquarters did not exceed $500.

At Bessemer City, near here, officials of the Osage mill reported a full complement of workers when the plant reopened yesterday. The mill closed last Tuesday because of a strike called by the National Textile Workers' Union. Mill officials said practically all those who struck asked reinstatement. The plant employs about 120 persons.

W. Africa Protests Underwear Catalogs

MANCHESTER, England.—Following protests from Europeans in West Africa, no catalogs containing illustrations of women's underwear will be sent to that territory by Manchester textile mills unless they are satisfied that applicants for them are white women.

In hundreds of huts on the Gold Coast and Nigeria pictures showing white women in various stages of deshabille from the catalogs are to be seen pasted on the walls with insulting epithets written beneath.

The matter has been brought to the notice of the British Government and drastic regulations are likely to be put into operation very shortly.

Huge Arch Proposed In Australian Bridge

SYDNEY, Australia.—The difficult task of building an arch nearly one-third of a mile long, without any ground support between its bases, is under way here on the new bridge across Sydney harbor.

The arch is 1,650 feet long. It passes above a deep-water ocean shipping lane into the harbor. The two ends of the arch now are creeping out over the water toward each other. They are held in position by a tangle of cables which keep their unsupported ends pointed slightly upward and rigid, much on the same principle as a gun barrel is held rigid against a rifleman's shoulder when he is about to shoot.

French Telephones Cheapest, Poorest

PARIS.—"The French telephone service is the cheapest in the world," says Germain-Martin, official of the Paris Telephone Company.

"And also the poorest," add many thousands of subscribers who are just beginning to grow tired of their daily tustles with the telephone.

If the telephone system in France were even one-half as good as one finds in all other cities of the world, they say they would not object to the proposed increase in rates. But since no improvements have ever been attempted, higher prices would be unfair.

ROCKEFELLER, FOUR OTHERS GET SOCIAL WORK MEDALS

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—The National Institute of Social Sciences last night presented gold medals to three men and two women for distinguished social services.

The recipients were John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Miss Rose Livingston, known as "The Angel of Chinatown," Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; Mrs. Valeria Langeloth, social worker and owner of Valeria Home, and James T. Shotwell, professor of economics at Columbia University.

William C. Redfield, president of the institute, said Mr. Rockefeller's medal was given him in recognition of his distinguished social service in "exemplifying and promoting high standards of business ethics and for widespread and fruitful generosity." The medal was presented by the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of Mr. Rockefeller's church.

Mr. Rockefeller, in his acceptance, laid all credit for any honor coming to him at the feet of his parents.

"I can only say that I lay it all to the training of my mother and the lifelong example of my father. I am deeply grateful."

Miss Livingston was lauded for her long fight against vice in the slums, particularly in Chinatown. Mr. Willard was given his medal for "wise and far-seeing management of great corporate interests committed to his care."

Mrs. Langeloth received her award for maintaining and developing Valeria Home, and Prof. Shotwell was given recognition of his efforts for the adoption of the Kellogg-Briand treaty.

Woman, 63, Guilty Of Chicken Theft

OAKLAND, Cal.—Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 63, faced a penalty of from one to 15 years in San Quentin as the result of her conviction of stealing 11 chickens.

The fowls, marked "Exhibit A," will be returned to their owners—if they are able to identify them.

ODD FOOTMARKS WILL BE SAVED

PIERRE, S. D.—Medicine rock, the huge limestone boulder in which strange footprints appear, will be preserved by the South Dakota Historical Society.

Mrs. Agnes B. Whitlock has given the 160-acre tract in which it stands to the state.

Indians believed that the footprints were made by the Great Spirit, and the Sioux frequently held ceremonies at the rock and buried gifts by it before entering battles. Some authorities say the tracks may have been made by prehistoric men. Others believe they were cut in the rock by some ancient Indian.

There are five impressions, each a good likeness of the imprint of a human foot.

Puyallup Indians to Register for U. S. Pay

SEATTLE.—Wandering braves, squaws and papooses of the Puyallup Indian tribe will have to pitch their teepees on the home camp ground and formally enroll with the tribe by May 15, if they hope to share in a $200,000 fund now on deposit for them in the United States Treasury, according to announcement here by F. A. Gross, special agent of the government Indian service.

It is expected close to 1,000 applications will be filed before the closing date.

LONE BANDIT KILLS BANKER, MISSES LOOT

POPLAR BLUFFS, Mo., May 1.—(AP.)—A man described as having been shabbily dressed, who shot and killed Cashier E. W. Cook, 60, in an attempted holdup of the Bank of Des Arc, Mo., near here, yesterday, was the object of a widespread search today in Southeast Missouri.

The robber-slayer was believed to be in hiding somewhere in this vicinity, as he fled without taking an automobile he left parked a block from the bank before entering the institution. Officers believe the car had been stolen.

Cook was alone and officers believe the elderly cashier was shot when he failed to raise his hands. The robber apparently fled without any loot, as a check failed to show anything missing.

Bloodhounds were used last night in an effort to find Dallas Sutton, 21, of Annapolis, Mo., sought in connection with the shooting.

Sutton is said to have been recognized by Fred Silvery, barber here, as he ran down the street carrying a revolver.

Suspects in Garage Robberies Arrested

Two youths were held today by Carnegie police as suspects in a series of garage robberies in the Pittsburgh district. The suspects, Edmund Brosky, of 144 Glenn avenue, Glendale, and John Hannisher, of 537 Ridge avenue, Carnegie, each 18, were arrested when, police alleged, they were found in possession of an auto tire and could not explain where they had obtained it.

PLANE MAKES ROUND TRIP AS TRAIN GOES ONE WAY

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—The turtle and the hare of modern transportation, the dependable train and the flighty plane, put on a race yesterday and proved something or other about Mr. Aesop, the fable writer. Anyway, the plane won.

Coastal Airways, to demonstrate the speed of the daily plane service between New York and Albany which will be inaugurated Sunday, started a plane from New York just as the Twentieth Century Limited was pulling out of the Grand Central Terminal.

The plane went to the capital city, made a stop there, and arrived back at New York eight minutes before the century got to Albany on its scheduled time of two hours and 45 minutes.

One of the passengers on the plane was 17 months old Dorothy Beckard, daughter of an airplane official. She slept through most of the journey.

CITY SPEEDS UP PLAN TO WIDEN SEVENTH AVE.

The city intends to widen Seventh avenue between Grant street and William Penn place before any large buildings are erected on that frontage, according to members of Council during a discussion of a pending ordinance authorizing the project.

The ordinance provides for the city paying owners of the land opposite the Koppers Building $70,000 for the ground necessary for the widening.

Owners of the land are said to have advised Council that they will have a skyscraper building on the site ready for occupancy and that they are anxious to know the city's intention on the permanent street lines to assist them in planning the structure.

SEIZE 2 UNDER MANN ACT

John George and John Sarodolas were held for court by the United States commissioner on a charge of violating the Mann white slave act. They were accused of unlawfully transporting Mrs. Catherine Magoulo, 27, from New Kensington to Sandusky, O., and then to Toledo, O., where the two men were arrested on complaint of the husband of the woman.

Mrs. Magoulo, on leaving her home in New Kensington on April 10 in the company of the two defendants, it is charged, took with her two of her five children, a boy of 3 and a 5-year-old girl. The husband directed a search and a week later found the three members of his family and the two men in Toledo, he said.

They were arrested by a constable and turned over to Federal authorities. Pending trial the men were released under $1,500 bond each.

EFFORT TO BAR ALIEN LABOR RULED OUT

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt has advised Mayor Charles H. Kline that two of the Mayor's proposals restricting the class of employes engaged by contractors for city work are unconstitutional.

Regarding Mayor Kline's suggestion that none but American citizens be employed on public work, the city solicitor said: "There is no law in Pennsylvania that would give the city the right to employ only American citizens as laborers."

In reference to a request from the Building Trades Council, as transmitted by Mayor Kline, that contractors on city work pay all skilled labor the union scale of wages, Waldschmidt declared: "I am of the opinion that an ordinance providing that union labor be employed under our contracts would be illegal and set aside by the courts."

ANTI-DOPE BILL DRAWN TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 1.—In a secluded committee room at the capitol, a small group of men will meet today to put the finishing touches on a bill aimed to reform and strengthen existing laws against narcotics.

The meeting was called yesterday by Representative Porter (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, and author of the proposed legislation. Legal experts of the government and officials of the treasury, state and justice departments will be present.

As soon as the final draft is approved, the bill will be introduced in House, probably late this week or early next week.

While the legislative agenda of th special session of Congress has been strictly limited by President Hoover and administration leaders, Porter will request immediate hearings before a House committee.

The chief purpose of the bill is to place all narcotic enforcement activities under an independent bureau in the Treasury Department.

Leaders of the House and Senate already have announced approval of the principles set forth in the measure. As officials of the government have assisted in drafting the legislation, the endorsement of the Hoover administration is quickly anticipated. Further, it seeks to accomplish a reform along the lines laid down in President Hoover's law enforcement speech recently in New York.

For a number of years she took an active part in the capital social life and her "Mondays at home" were always largely attended. Recently, however, ill health had forced her to curtail her activities and she appeared only at the White House receptions.

GLAND FOOD TO INCREASE STATURE, SAYS SCIENTIST

NEW YORK, May 1.—(INS.)—Dr. Oscar Riddle, of the Carnegie Institute station for experimental evolution, was on record today as declaring the increasing of the stature of human beings through scientific control of feeding may be a possible development in the near future.

Mr. Riddle pointed to the fact that salamanders and rats have been made to grow to double their natural size through feeding with the anterior pituitary gland of other animals.

"This same result," Dr. Riddle said, "has not been accomplished or attempted on human beings, and probably will not be attempted until the pure hormone of this gland has been found and prepared in a condition suitable for such use."

Dr. Riddle said there are good reasons for expecting this pure hormone to be obtained within the next few years.

"When it is obtained, it will be possible to treat human beings, during the period of normal growth at least, and thus increase their stature," the scientist concluded.

ASK SANITY QUIZ FOR SOSSONG

A petition asking a sanity commission to examine Leo F. Sossong, convicted of embezzlement from two Carnegie Building and Loan Associations, has been filed with Judge James B. Drew by Dr. Charles J. Ellis, jail physician. In January a parole was asked for Sossong on the grounds that confinement was undermining his mentality.

The petition was referred to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner along with another of the same nature in the case of John C. Schmitt, 60-year-old lumber dealer, was held by a coroner's jury for murder in the killing of his partner, Nelson E. Bell.

Attorney R. B. Ivory, Jr., was appointed permament receiver of the Pittsburgh Lumber and Builders Supply Company, of which Schmitt was president, in an order handed down in Common Pleas Court yesterday.

League Asks World Pact in Coal Crisis

GENEVA, May 1.—(AP.)—The economic committee of the League of Nations, which has made an exhaustive investigation into the world crisis in the coal industry, reported last night that international agreements between producers concerning output and markets must be made if there was to be hope for improvement. THREE SCHOOLS TO GET HEALTH CUPS TODAY

Intense rivalry existed among school children in all parts of Allegheny County as they waited to learn which schools had won the cups to be awarded as the feature of Child Health Day, being observed today. The cups have been presented by the Pittsburgh Child Health Council and will go to the three schools showing the greatest improvement in health during the examinations conducted early in April, compared with those which took place last October.

Child Health Day was originated a number of years ago to encourage the children to pay more strict attention to their health habits, the opening step of which was to establish eight rules for health.

DESIGN HEALTH POSTERS

Part of the preparatory work incident to May Day was the designing of health posters by the children of the grade and high schools. In the county school division two prizes were won by one school, the Myers School, of Port Vue, which took the prizes in the Junior High School group and in the first, second and third grade groups, the winners being John Kijowski and Mercedes Billy.

The posters in the other divisions were of such high merit that the judges had not made their announcement late yesterday. The board of judges for the county schools included Mrs. J. C. Heckman, Miss Caroline Eggers, Mrs. Carl E. Coslowski and Mrs. W. A. McMasters.

Practically every school in the county and city has arranged some celebration for some day this week in celebration of Child Health Day. District chairman in each community have co-operated with the school authorities in enlisting the interest of parents and the day's programs are expected to be witnessed by many persons.

MANY HELPED DRIVE

District chairmen who have been active in the Child Health Day activities include Mrs. Robert Laing, Duquesne; Mrs. L. A. Nichols, Clairton; Mrs. Howard White, Avalon; Mrs. H. H. Cahoon, Ben Avon; Mrs. L. A. Riley, Bradford Woods; Mrs. S. W. Patton, Bridgeville; Mrs. P. T. Black, Cheswick; Mrs. Ira M. Lawrence, Crafton; Mrs. Joseph Hughes, East McKeesport; Mrs. Henry B. CITY FURNITURE BIDS SPLIT UP

Council has ordered the Welfare Department to submit specifications to accompany requests for bids on $140,000 furniture and equipment for the City Home and Hospital at Mayview.

The specifications were ordered when P. J. McArdle reported that the Welfare Department was asking bids on the entire schedule which would prevent dealers in the wide variety of articles to be bought from making proposals because they would not be in a position to supply all the equipment.

Council also called for details of office furniture to be bought for the detective bureau when it was discovered that the schedule contained waste baskets at $11 each.

Man Fined in Police Court Gets $10 Back

Council has affirmed a resolution returning a $10 fine to John Latzo who paid that amount at a hearing in police court March 7 on a charge of disorderly conduct. Councilman P. J. McArdle, explained that Latzo was accosted while on his way to work at 4:30 a. m. in the produce yards by a policeman who used language that McArdle said he could not repeat. The policeman sent Latzo to the police station on a suspicious person charge but changed it later to disorderly conduct, McArdle said.

BAR'S AID ASKED IN RULINGS ON BANKRUPTCY

A committee composed of members of the bar of the Federal District Court was appointed by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to make a study of the bankruptcy rules of the court and other Federal courts, with a view of recommending to the court such revision of the present rules used here that will best meet the needs of the bankruptcy practice in this district.

The attorneys appointed were F. W. Stonecipher, Lewis M. Alpern, A. E. Kountz, of Allegheny County; Charles Haughney, of Erie County, and Carroll Carothers, of Westmoreland County. In a memorandum order of the committee appointments Judge Schoonmaker said.

"It having been brought to the attention of the judges of this court from time to time in the course of bankruptcy practice, that some revision of the present bankruptcy rules of this court is needed, and that in order to make a comprehensive study of the situation, it is desirable to have the co-operation of the bar of this court."

The committee was requested to make its recommendations to the court at its early convenience.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed, and they seldom have a new opportunity which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxts on Earned Incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

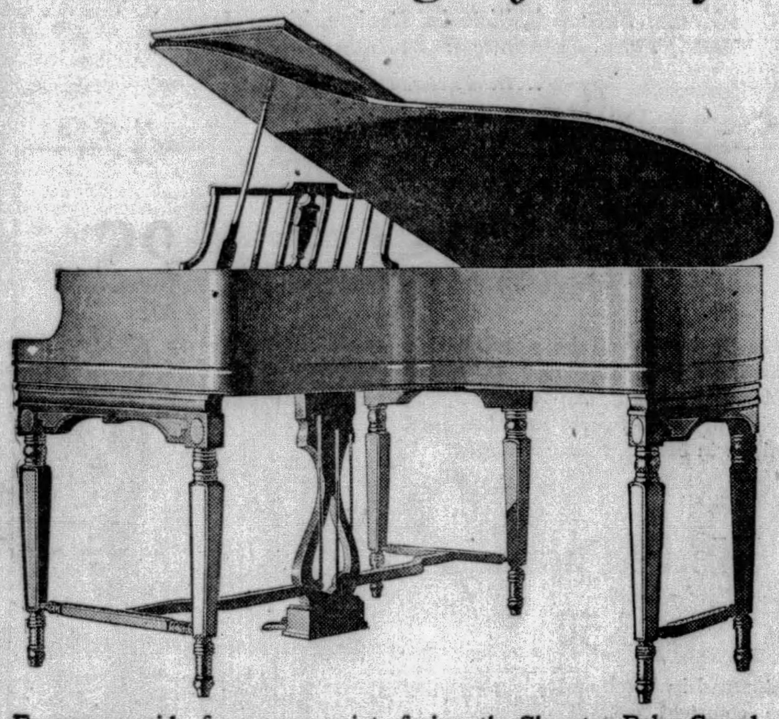
SHERATON MODEL CHICKERING

sends a message of beauty



From every side, from every point of view, the Sheraton Baby Grand seems slender and graceful and charming. In all the time since Jonas Chickering revolutionized the pianoforte over 100 years ago, we believe there has never been so handsome a piano. Of course this dainty grand was not made by Sheraton. But neither were the exquisite chairs and tables which bear his name, and which today command fabulous prices. Author, bookseller, scholar, Sheraton created furniture designs; he left it to others to make the furniture itself. And so this new model Chickering, made in the same way—from designs based upon sketches by Sheraton—marks a decided step ahead in piano beauty. That its tone is rich and mellow and sonorous will be readily understood by anyone who has ever heard or played a Chickering. If you are interested in making your living room a more pleasant place in which to linger, come today and see the Sheraton Model Chickering. $1275. Other models from $675 up.

only $127.50 down

Two years to pay the balance. Your old piano, no matter what its make, taken in exchange and a generous allowance made.

With the Ampico, the only instrument that exactly reproduces upon the piano itself the playing of concert artists, the Sheraton Model Chickering is $2175. Other new models include the Colonial and Florentine.

FLOOD OF ENTRIES AS TEMPERANCE CONTEST CLOSES

MILLS OFFERS PLAN AT LAST MINUTE

By FRANCIS J. TIETSORT.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Early last evening, six hours before the close of the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest, greatest of its kind in history, 3,128 plans had been received by the New York American alone since 8 o'clock in the morning, on the final day of the contest.

Many more plans entered in the competition to win the capital award offered by William Randolph Hearst for the best practicable plan as a substitute for prohibition were delivered in person or sent by messenger to the New York headquarters of the contest before midnight.

The end of the greatest contest of its kind in history came with a dramatic flourish. Two telephones in the office of the temperance contest committee rang incessantly all day in response to the queries of last-minute contestants. Scores of persons came throughout the day to bring their entries.

TRAVELER MAKES HASTE

One man who had just disembarked from a trans-Atlantic steamship rushed in a taxicab to the temperance contest office to learn the rules and announced that he had just completed a three months' tour of 20 foreign countries and that he thought he had acquired such comparative information on temperance conditions abroad that he could win the capital prize.

He then dashed off to his office to write his thesis, which he delivered himself in the afternoon.

Another last-minute entrant was Maj. Chester P. Mills, 351 Fifth avenue, who won the $25,000 capital prize in the Durant contest for the best way to enforce prohibition.

Maj. Mills, former Army officer and West Point graduate, who after the war engaged in the automobile business and later became federal prohibition administrator at New York, premised his plan on a law that shall represent the will of the majority.

MILLS DEPLORES EVILS

He said "that every decent citizen wants the law enforcement changed, repealed or modified," and that the trend toward nullification was "abhorrent."

Maj. Mills added that both the anti-prohibitionists and the dry element would welcome the chance to express their opinion at the polls free from political consideration. He believed that both national parties would "welcome the opportunity to take the subject of prohibition out of politics."

Among the final plans were many bound in leather, gold embossed and printed in beautiful typography, showing deep study of the problem of and the greatest care in submission of a legal and social formula.

From a knowledge of the substance of the great mass of plans submitted in the contest it has been possible for the editorial readers engaged in examining, indexing and classifying them to reach certain conclusions. Those interested in the subject particularly readers of the Hearst newspapers and contestants in the competition, may like to know some of the outstanding facts.

CHURCHGOERS ENTER

The number of avowed church members who protested the continued use of the pulpit for dry propaganda and who told of its effect on their church-going habits, proved astonishing. Hundreds declared against "rules of the church over the state" and indignantly resented "the boastful attitude of the church lobbyists."

The idea of a popular national referendum on the whole subject, which is what the prohibition forces have consistently opposed, was advanced by the vast majority of highly intelligent entrants.

As compared with the Durant contest, remarkably few plans entered in the Hearst contest have been tinged with fanaticism. Although the evils of bootlegging the disrespect for the nation's laws, the robberies and murders are invariably deplored, there have been no suggestions that hanging or boiling in oil are fit penalties for those engaging in a liquor traffic or purchasing from liquor vendors or speakeasies.

The most violent "dry" comment as received by the Hearst newspapers was from an evident ultra-prohibitionist, who said that anyone who even suggested the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment "should be lined up against a stone wall and shot down without mercy."

JONES LAW DENOUNCED

Nearly every manuscript submitted after the passage of the Jones act, or "five-and-ten" law, has contained bitter denunciation of that measure and has invoked protection against cruel and unusual punishments as guaranteed by the Constitution.

Although the vast majority of contestants have entered plans in full confidence they would win the capital prize, many thousands have expressed sincere conviction they had no chance of winning the capital award, but evidenced keen concern in any endeavor to save the nation from the curse of prohibition, and expressed their approbation of the contest.

Most of the contestants have observed the rules that actual plans must be limited to 1,000 words, but thousands have supplemented their plans proper with lengthy prefatory material in the manner of George Bernard Shaw.

A high percentage of the contestants took the opportunity to register a protest against prohibition and thanked the Hearst newspapers for an opportunity to register their views.

Other thousands frankly described the misery which prohibition had brought to them personally. One said, "My best friend was a teetotaler until after the passage of the prohibition laws, but recently drank himself to death."

WIDE RANGE

From nearly every hotel of note in the nation came the plans of peripatetic commercial travelers. One of the authors is a German baroness. Another describes himself as an unskilled laborer, father of nine. One plan contains but two words; another has an appendix of 5,000 words. About 500 plans were submitted in printed form and an equal number of dispositions are in lead pencil.

A lawyer of high standing enclosed an elaborately conceived and executed pamphlet, replete with legal references. He said that the information therein contained represented three months' research work in the Congressional Library at Washington. One contestant named Arthur Grant Hoover called attention to the fact that each of his names was that of a President of the United States.

William H. Talmage, of Columbus, Neb., who entered a plan, was the organizer of the Colorado State Anti-Saloon League and took over its duties as state superintendent. He was a friend of the famous Ben B. Lindsey of Denver and succeeded in electing him as a county judge in the face of the fierce opposition of the liquor interests. Mr. Talmage was formerly a Methodist minister.

Rear Admiral James H. Glennon, U. S. N., retired, of Forest Hills, L. I., entered a plan in the contest yesterday.

CANADIAN PLAN FAVORED

One last-minute plan was from Chesley W. Jurney, president of the league for the modification of the Volstead act, National Press Building, Washington.

Expressions from professional men and women, citizens and civic leaders evidenced disgust with the present prohibition laws and the futility of trying to enforce them as well as the cruelties perpetrated in their enforcement. Most professional folk appeared to favor the Canadian system of control.

Travelers usually mention that they have seen little drinking of hard liquors and almost no intoxication abroad except intoxicated Americans quenching their thirst away from home.

People in all walks of life constantly mention the increasing depravity of youth under prohibition.

A favorite line is, "America is the laughing stock of the world." All deplore the law-makers "who vote dry and drink wet." Many mention the supposed power of the Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations in influencing lawmakers to vote dry.

ALL WANT CONTROL

Six of the editorial readers engaged in reading plans for the temperance contest committee note that the percentage of alcohol considered intoxicating is in virtually every instance an individual conception, also that the quantity of beverage which should be allowable under a permit system is hardly the same in any two minds, but that control is most desirable.

One outstanding fact, as regards the diversity of opinion on such subjects is that the temperance and anti-prohibition element of the population can by no stretch of the imagination be considered as organized, excepting for such organizations as the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment and the Moderation League, of which only a small fraction of the public are members.

SALOON OPPOSED

There is a unanimous sentiment against the return of the unlicensed saloon and a majority sentiment in favor of light wines and beer with 9 out of 10 suggesting government control and licensed dispensaries where beverages may be purchased for home consumption.

The people as a whole who entered manuscripts in the Hearst contest are shown to be intelligent, tolerant and sane. Two expert readers who read manuscripts in the Durant contest found a great surprise in view of many of the wild plans entered in the Durant competition. The contest shows that many who write and talk in favor of modification disclaim any drinking themselves. Most communications reveal recent hope that conditions in America may be straightened out and do not indicate a personal desire for better drinks.

City Has Share In Final Rush Of Contest

The Pittsburgh district shared in the last minute rush of entrants in the Hearst $25,000 temperance plan contest as the deadline for manuscripts was reached last midnight.

A few hours before the contest closed almost a score of contestants were still working at their task of concocting a cure for the evils of prohibition. In the closing hours of the contest these plans were hastily rushed to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's office.

One Clairton man finished his manuscript at 11:20 o'clock in his home at Clairton. Then by auto he raced against the clock, and reached the Sun-Telegraph office at 11:55 o'clock, under the wire, as they say of the horses, by five minutes.

Kin of Auto Victim Balk Driver's Arrest

Struck by an auto at North Negley avenue and Broad street last night, Mrs. Elizabeth Nolte, 60, of 5610 Broad street, suffered fractures of the collar bone and left arm. At the request of the woman's relatives police refrained from arresting Harold Miller, of 1256 North Negley avenue, the alleged driver. Miller drove the woman to a physician's office and then to her home after the accident.

W. R. HEARST'S REPLY TO HOOVER COMMENDED

DETROIT, May 1.—The Detroit Times yesterday received a letter commending William Randolph Hearst's reply to the speech made by President Herbert Hoover in New York. Mr. Hearst, in the editorial printed Friday, April 26, declared "President Hoover's address on law enforcement at the Associated Press luncheon in New York was a shot in the air—a blank cartridge discharged against a blank wall."

The letter commending Mr. Hearst on his stand was written by L. E. Sutherland, of the Fargo Motor Corporation, and follows:

Reprint of the reply of Mr. Hearst to a speech of President Hoover that appeared in the Detroit Times Friday evening is, to my way of thinking, the most able and sensible answer to those who still believe in the possibility of the effectiveness of the noble experiment that I have read.

GRAFT INEVITABLE

"Surely the sensible minded people of this country have come to a conclusion that a law, enacted by a minority, will not convince a majority of its righteousness or add anything to the moral fiber of the nation.

"In the first place, just what has been necessary on the part of prohibition enforcement division of the government, to bolster its apparent effectiveness in the eyes of those who wish it to succeed?

"An army of enforcement officers has been employed at a remuneration that would not attract a successful ditch digger—and let it be remembered that the remuneration had been the first thought of those entering this branch of government service. In making this statement I have in mind the many financial possibilities not included in the pay check. The result is inevitable. Graft, rottenness and corruption.

GREAT MEN OF PAST

"Can it be possible that there is anyone so blind that he can honestly state that the Eighteenth Amendment functions? There have been men who have, no doubt, made this statement in all sincerity, but I am inclined to think that they have reached their conclusions through misinformation and lack of association with the present social whirl. Just what is there so demoralizing in the alcoholic stimlant, used in moderation? This country produced some pretty good men in the past who did not satisfy this most natural desire in secret. Are they to be commended or criticized, when they compare to many men of today holding government positions under a law they helped to create, but do not choose to obey?

"The prize offered by Mr. Hearst is going to do more than decide a winner. It is going to make known a lot of people who have decided that government autocracy is a failure. It is going to cement these people together in a common cause, to return to a sane and sensible way of living, without spying and trickery by their fellow men.

"I perhaps was one of the first to send Mr. Hearst, in care of the Los Angeles Examiner, my solution of this vexing problem. I am not able to express my opinions in the easy flow of language of the professional writer, but it is my aim to offer a solution that is workable.

"May we have the good fortune to alter the present conditions, that in the words of the illustrious Lincoln, 'This government, of the people, by the people and for the people, may not perish from the earth.'"

NEW SCREEN-GRID

ATWATER KENT

SCREEN-GRID NEW

announces

SCREEN-GRID RADIO

Your first chance to see and hear it—today!

HERE'S EXCITING NEWS! Today at your Atwater Kent dealer's this new set is shown for the first time. Greatest advance in radio since the coming of house-current sets two years ago. Go and see it—hear it—without fail TODAY! Always first with proved improvements, Atwater Kent now introduces Screen-Grid Radio.

It means the clearest flow of pure tone quality that you ever heard from a radio set. It means new power to reach far-away stations—new sensitivity—new needle-point selectivity to separate the stations and pick out the one you want.

New velvety depths and new heights of tonal perfection!

Only from Atwater Kent could the public expect to have this new principle of radio made available—now—at a price within the reach of every pocketbook.

Only from Atwater Kent, the leader in radio since radio began, with 27 years of engineering and scientific experience in making precision electrical instruments.

Only from Atwater Kent, with a factory of more than 31 acres—the largest radio factory in the world—now doubled in size—now doubly the largest!

No longer need you make the slightest allowances in listening to radio reproduction. The very sounds produced in the broadcasting studios are brought to you without mechanical distortions.

You need not separate the true flow of melody from the minor humming and disturbances which many radio listeners have come to expect.

It is as if the miles that are between you and the broadcasting studio have been reduced to nothing by Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio.

On view for the first time. The latest in radio—at your dealer's—NOW. Get all details, including price. See it! Hear it!

Magic of Screen-Grid

Through the magic of this Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio, the voice of radio in all its beauty comes to you clearer, finer, farther—with mighty volume, if you like, or with the intimacy of a guitar playing softly on a summer night.

The Screen-Grid principle may be brand new to you, but it has been tested for thousands of hours by our laboratory engineers. Before offering this new set, we made sure that it would be in every way a better radio. It is—infinitely better. Every test—all over the United States—proves it.

Every moment you spend with it will prove it again. A glance inside the set shows you why only Atwater Kent's fine workmanship can produce these results.

Cabinet or Compact

Do you like modern compactness? Have it! Do you prefer a bit of elaboration in a period design? Have it! Do you want your radio to blend with the appointments of your living room—or dining room—or a bedroom, perhaps? Suit yourself—at an Atwater Kent dealer's.

For not just one or two, but many of the foremost American designers are cooperating to give you the widest possible choice of beautiful cabinets for your Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio.

And—remember—the radio in the cabinet is an Atwater Kent, whose performance is as sure as the Atwater Kent reputation for engineering skill.

But no advertisement can tell you all that your eyes and ears will tell you at the nearest Atwater Kent dealer's. Go to his store and find out what Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio means—and what it will mean to you. Today!

IN CABINET

The best of American cabinet makers—famous for sound design and sincere workmanship—are cooperating to meet the demand for Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio in fine cabinets.

On the air—every Sunday night—Atwater Kent Radio Hour—listen in!

DAWES AND WILBUR TO SPEAK OVER RADIO TONIGHT

OHIO STATE GLEE CLUB, GEORGE SHARP ON AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

TONIGHT'S lineup is extraordinary, with such notables as Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Ray Lyman Wilbur as speakers, the Ohio State University Glee Club, the Westinghouse band, stars from "The Desert Song" and George Sharp in person, a Hill-Billie trio, Wilfred Glenn, the bass singer, and a thriller as the Show Boat attraction.

By an unusual circumstance the programs have been so arranged that these features do no conflict.

Phil Cook, the comedian, and Harry Reser, leader of the Eskimos, will help inaugurate a new KDKA stunt, the Flit soldiers, at 9 p. m. The other features will be found listed in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph daily schedule.

EDISON'S AIDS TO HONOR HIM

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Edison will re-enact the discovery of the incandescent light on October 21 at a dinner to be given by Henry Ford at Dearborn, Mich., in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of his great invention.

OHIO DRY AGENTS OUSTED FOR USING GIRL DECOYS

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—(AP.)—State Prohibition Agents Edward Little and John O. Cole were under suspension with severe reprimands from federal and state officials today for using two 18-year-old girls to obtain evidence in a liquor case, thrown out of Federal Court yesterday upon the girls' admission that they drank wine with the agents after the raid.

Little and Cole presented Miss Carrie Walton and Miss Catherine Gunlon as witnesses that they had bought liquor from Harry Poole and Amos Frankhauser in a hearing before United States Commissioner Joseph W. Horner.

When the girls testified that they went for an automobile ride and drank wine with the agents after the men were arrested, Horner dismissed the case, charged the men with "exceeding the bounds of propriety" and warned them to remain out of his court "unless your hands are clean."

Suspension of the two men at the office of State Prohibition Commissioner Rupert K. Beetham followed, with the announcement that an investigation will be made. Gov. Myers Y. Cooper issued a statement condemning the practice of using minors to obtain prohibition evidence, and declared it would not be tolerated among state officers.

Police Investigate Mystery Slashing

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 1.—Authorities are investigating the cutting Sunday of George Wilson, 63, of Dunbar, who is in a critical condition in the hospital here. His throat is slashed and he cannot talk.

The man left his home Saturday to go for a walk in the woods. He staggered in Sunday morning and collapsed from loss of blood.

BROTHER HELD IN SLAYING

WOODBURY, N. J., May 1.—(INS.)—Patsy Cicero, 29, was formally charged early today with the murder of his brother, Michael, 22-year-old Pitman auto race driver, who was found shot to death yesterday slumped over the wheel of Patsy's car at Glassboro.

Patsy was committed to the Gloucester County jail here without bail.

The brothers are reported to have quarreled over a girl.

Two brothers of the slain man, Dominick and Tony, and Mrs. Bertha Cicero, the five-months bride of the slain man, were held in $500 bail each as material witnesses.

The murder charge followed several hours grilling of the elder brother. He denied the charges, police said.

He was arrested within a few hours after Michael's body was found with three bullet wounds in the brain.

Look for this mark on every Radiotron

Another notable achievement of the associated Research Laboratories of General Electric, Westinghouse and the Radio Corporation of America.

The development of a 4-Element (screen grid) amplifier or detector Radiotron—for use in specially designed radio receiving sets operated by alternating current—marks a great forward step in the simplification of radio set design.

The Radio Corporation of America and leading radio manufacturers will use this Radiotron in their sets this year.

Superior resources of research and manufacturing guarantee to RCA Radiotrons the finest quality in vacuum tubes. They are the standard of the industry—and are so accepted by the trade and public.

When buying a new radio set make sure that it is equipped throughout with RCA Radiotrons.

And when buying a UY-224 look for the RCA mark on the red-and-black carton, and the RCA mark on the tube.

Measure the extra power in Atlantic Gasoline by the cars you leave behind on the Hills

HILLS

EXTRA-POWERED
NO EXTRA COST

A LONG, hard hill. Two cars—same make and model—and about the same mileage and load. Each driver "giving her all she has." Yet one easily outdistances the other. (Maybe you yourself have engaged in a friendly duel like that.) Why is it? Nine times in ten the answer is in the fuel.

It's tests like these—occasions when you call upon your motor to do its utmost—that bring home to you the tremendous differences in power of various gasolines.

Tests like these will show you that the extra power developed in the new-type Atlantic Gasoline is no idle dream.

...And yet, extra power isn't the only thing you get in the new-type Atlantic Gasoline!

...It is the most amazingly smooth—the most nicely balanced gasoline that has ever put rhythm in your motor.

It is so clean and complete-burning, you almost forget that carbon was once the great enemy of automobile engines.

It is easy starting, agile on pick-up...in short, thoroughly efficient in everything you expect of a motor fuel.

Extra-powered Atlantic fits modern motors and driving conditions as no other gasoline has done in all your experience.

It is available at every Atlantic service station and dealer pump. That means you can get it most anywhere, any time—through one of the most complete distributing systems in existence.

ATLANTIC Paraffine Base MOTOR OIL

Its high heat, wear and evaporation resistance is guaranteed by the high reputation of its makers. A perfect team-mate for Atlantic Gasoline!

MAN, 50, FINED AFTER 'AIDING' 2 GIRL HIKERS

The benevolence of David Brown, 50, of 6202 Sawyer street, to two adventure-bound New Kensington girls gained him a $25 fine in Morals Court today and gained the girls car fare home.

The girls, 15 and 17, testified that they had left their homes in New Kensington and, by walking, had seen as much of the world as there is to be seen between New Kensington and Blawnox when they met Brown.

Brown paid their carfare to Butler and Sixty-second streets, the girls testified, and there offered to take them to his rooming house. In Butler street Brown discovered that he did not have his key.

He suggested that the girls sleep for the night in the shop where he is employed, and was taking them there, he said, when a patrolman saw the three enter a vacant lot and arrested them as suspicious persons.

Because of the girls' youth the Sun-Telegraph withholds their names.

Dirigible Caught By Wind Is Damaged

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 1.—(AP.)—The naval non-rigid dirigible J-4 was caught in a gust of wind as it was being taken from the hangar yesterday and thrown against the steel door of the structure, ripping the envelope of the craft. Little damage was done aside from the loss of a considerable quantity of helium gas.

2 Glasses Water Help Kidneys!

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison; else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Drink at least two glasses every morning about an hour before breakfast. Add to one of the glasses a tablespoonful of Jad Salts. This makes the water doubly effective in cleansing and stimulating the kidneys. Try this for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink; which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders. Get about four ounces from your druggist to start with.

REVOLT BALKED IN SPAIN

PARIS, May 1.—(INS.)—A new revolutionary conspiracy has been discovered at Barcelona, long the seat of agitations against the Spanish government, according to a message received here today from Perpignan, near the Spanish frontier.

According to news brought over the frontier out of Spain, the alleged revolutionary plot was uncovered by Barcelona police.

Numerous arrests were reported to have been made.

Gen. Primo de Rivera, the Spanish dictator, is understood to be sending loyal troops into Catalonia.

A censorship has been established to prevent the details of the reported cabal from leaking out.

Government circles in Madrid are said to be agitated over the discovery.

Quiet had just been restored in Spain following an attempted revolt by artillery officers. Officers were tried by martial courts.

Since then the agitations against the government have spread to institutions of learning, and many of the leading universities in the kingdom have been closed.

Scalds Prove Fatal To Woman and Child

LAST OF REBELS FLEE; YANKEES ON GUARD

NOGALES, Ariz., May 1.—(INS.)—Surrender of the adjoining Sonora town of Nogales, last of the rebel strongholds, without a shot or gesture of protest, left the Federals in complete control today and apparently marked the close of organized Mexican revolution.

American troops here were standing to under arms in view of a remote possibility that trouble might break out afresh today.

The final hours of the revolt teemed with drama and came after a day of electrical tenseness that saw willing fighters left to shift for themselves by the desertion of tursted leaders, American troops hurriedly called to arms and finally a frenzied exodus of the rank and file to the United States.

FLEE TO MOUNTAINS

Shining through the rather ignominious finish of the revolt was the heroism of Yaqui Indian troops. Reviling the leaders who urged them to surrender, they made preparations to hold Nogales themselves and were finally driven by lack of food to give up the plan. Most of them fled to mountain fastnesses.

Panic and confusion seized the rebel troops when it became known that the leaders who had persuaded them to revolt had deserted and left them to face the consequences. It was then that the revolutionists flung down their weapons, gathered their pitifully few possessions and, with their families, swarmed over the border here.

1,500 FLEE TO U. S.

About 1,500 refugees who crossed the line are quartered under guard of American soldiers in stockades and warehouses here.

Mayor Juan Franco remained to turn Nogales over to a handful of Federals who cantered into the town when word was sent that it would be given up without resistance. About 1,000 rebels remained there to surrender to the loyalists. Two airplanes and a great quantity of ammunition were confiscated.

Fears were expressed that the Yaquis who took to the mountains rather than surrender or submit to interment in this country were contemplating guerilla warfare.

Gen. Lucas Gonzales, defender of Naco, Sonora, was on his way west to take possession of Nogales in strength.

Federal officials were here awaiting Gen. Gonzales' arrival before crossing into Nogales, Sonora.

Lure of London Beats Lucre And Luxury

LONDON, May 1.—(AP.)—The Rev. Joseph Shepherd, minister of Islington Chapel, announced today he has been unable to find anyone in his district who would accept the offer of a "rich American" of a luxurious home and an allowance of $15,000 annually to the woman who would leave London, marry him and live in the United States.

The minister said that he made the offer known to a large number of women and girls in his district, but while appreciating the offer all told the same tale.

"We would rather be poor in Islington than millionaires' wives in America."

Chicago Daily News—$250,000 in preferred and 5,000 shares of common stock.

Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, Columbia (S. C.) Record and Spartansburg (S. C.) Herald-Journal, published by William Lavarre and Harold Hall—$855,000 in notes secured by stock of these nawspapers.

Aids Purchase

Graustein offered the additional testimony that the stock purchased in the Chicago Journal had aided, indirectly, the Bryan-Thomson Newspapers, Inc., the Journal's owners, in financing two of the latter corporation's newspapers, the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune and the Greensboro (N. C.) Record.

The attempted $20,000,000 deal involved the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The International Paper and Power Company contemplated putting up $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 of this sum, according to Graustein, raising the rest through a debenture issue to be floated by Halsey-Stuart and Company, investment bankers. Negotiations were carried on, but "came to nothing."

The paper and power company, "stood behind" unnamed bidders for Il Progreso, a New York Italian language newspaper, Graustein said, but those the company intended to finance were outbid by other interests and failed to get the property.

Graustein's dramatic story of subsurface newspaper history was told frankly, bluntly, and for the most freely. Only where his company's acquisitions were spoken of as representing "control," and as bearing vitally upon the multitude of controversial questions surrounding public utilities, did he deny or show reserve.

Produces List

Under heavy fire from Legislatures, press and public in New England, for the secret acquisition of a half stock interest in the two prominent Boston dailies, he volunterred to testify after two other officials of his company had been subpenaed.

Short, rotund and forceful, he was hazy about some of the corporate directorships he holds, but knew exactly where his company's money was invested.

He admitted at the outset that he is chairman of the executive committee of the New England Power Association, operating as a paper and power company subsidiary a vast network of hydro-electric plants, transmission lines, and distributing lines in four New England states.

For nearly a year, he added, he has been a member of the National Electric Light Association's public policy committee, the electric industry's supreme authority on public relations and propaganda.

He produced a list of the paper and power company's newspaper interests, saying:

"It represents all our interests in newspapers directly or indirectly."

Cites Order Quest

The securities have been owned for "six or eight months," Graustein said, adding:

"I conducted the negotiations and we bought the stock."

"How did this come about?" Healy asked.

"I had a talk with Mr. Gannett in the fall of 1928, when we were conducting our campaign for the sale of newsprint in 1929. This is usually sold annually under a contract. If we lose a customer, we lose him for a year, and maybe for life.

"I went to see him and talked with him about our getting his order. He was rather discouraging. He told me he understood we maintained uniform prices. That is true.

"'What's the advantage of buying from you?' Mr. Gannett asked.

"I pointed out the advantage of dealing with a large corporation. I told him that we were also able and willing to assist our customers in every reasonable way. He was considering the purchase of these papers, he said. Perhaps we could assist. I told him we would be very glad to assist.

"As a result we came to the trade which is indicated here."

Graustein indicated the figures representing the Albany newspapers' deal.

$1,954,500 Deal

"This was always, you understand, with the agreement that he was to purchase our newsprint paper."

Regarding the Brooklyn Eagle securities Graustein said his company obtained them "less than six months ago," and paid for the notes approximately their face value of $1,954,500. Both the notes and the shares were obtained from Gannett, he said.

Gannett said he wanted the money, according to Graustein, in connection with the acquisition of the Albany papers and some other paper. Gannett did not disclose the identity of this other paper, Graustein testified, designating it instead as "the X paper." "The X paper" proved to be the Brooklyn Eagle, which Gannett acquired soon after acquiring the Albany papers, Graustein testified.

"Did you learn whether or not Mr. Gannett was acting for anyone else?" Healy asked.

"Oh, he was acting in his own behalf," replied Graustein. He added that he had no thought there was any other interest behind Gannett. Healy said he had wanted the question answered in justice to Gannett, and to complete the record.

The $300,000 "contingent interest" in the Ithaca Journal-News was described by Graustein as growing out of the purchase of notes of that amount by the paper and power company, and their subsequent sale to "one of our banks."

Financial Help

It represented "financial assistance" to Gannett, extended about the time Gannett bought his papers in Albany, Graustein said. The notes are in effect a first charge on the property, Graustein said, there being no mortgage.

As to the Chicago Journal, Graustein at first took the position that S. E. Thomason, of Bryan-Thomason Newspapers, Inc., had come to the International Paper and Power Company seeking help. He modified this when Healy read a statement by Thomason indicating that Joseph Fearing, a vice president of the paper and power company, had suggested the deal.

"Is that statement substantially correct, showing that the talk with Fearing preceeded the effort to get the paper?" Healy asked.

"That's quite possible," Graustein agreed, "although I have no knowledge of that."

The paper and power company holdings in Bryan-Thomason Newspapers, Inc., represent all the debentures and all the preferred stock so held, the 10,000 shares of common being stock in the Chicago Journal alone.

Secrecy Ended

Graustein began the negotiations for the Boston Herald and the Boston Traveler in May, 1928, with Sidney W. Winslow, Jr., of the United Shoe Machinery Company. The negotiations were concluded July 19, he said, but the actual passing of money and taking over of the shares did not come until January 2, 1929, Graustein said.

The deal was not disclosed, he admitted, until April 1, when the postoffice statement naming persons owning stock in the paper was published.

Daniel G. Wing, Boston banker, who had become a director of International Paper and Power Company about a year earlier, first introduced Graustein to Winslow, he said. Graustein talked with Winslow about how the earnings of the two papers should be capitalized in determining the purchase of the stock interest Graustein wanted to buy.

In 1927 the papers had earned $941,270, according to Graustein, and at the time of the negotiations, indications were that the 1928 earnings would be "about $100,000 less." Graustein said he did not consider this a permanent trend, that in fact earnings since had picked up and that if buying now he would "pay substantially more."

$10,000,000 Value

He said the deal was put through on a basis of the papers having a value of about 12 times annual earnings. The figures he gave, however, indicated a price better than 13 times earnings as indicated at the time of the negotiations.

For the 16,428 shares it bought, the Paper and Power Company paid the holders $525 per share. Each of the old stockholders sold the company half his holdings. The valuation put upon the entire property, as indicated by the stock sale price, was more than $16,000,000, Graustein said.

The Publishers' Investment Corporation was chartered in Delaware to take over the stock. It is another subsidiary, Graustein noted, of the International Securities Company, which in turn "is to be considered a part of our system."

The Paper and Power Company put up some of the money, and borrowed the rest from banks.

Graustein gave a brand new twist to the attitude of the power interests toward the Boston deal.

Frank Comerford, president of the Subsidiary Power Association, opposed it, he said. Comerford argued that the public would be suspicious of such ownership, and the deal would "hurt the good will the New England Power Association has built up."

Public Not Feared

"I told him I knew people would be suspicious," Graustein continued, "but I told him, we have to keep our newsprint business going, and the public attitude will depend upon the way we handle the papers."

Healy produced records representing that the value of the paper and power company's power and utility properties were valued at $292,000,000 in 1928, against a value of only $198,000,000 for its paper properties and securities. Graustein admitted the company had faced financial trouble some years ago and that its later development had accompanied its expanding business in the electric power field.

Through a mass of testimony along this line, Healy led up to the possible efforts of the Boston acquisition, and the company's other interests in newspapers on public opinion. He got Graustein to agree that there were great public questions coming to the front, involving possible federal regulation of utilities and the financial high jinks of the holding companies.

"Won't you agree," asked Healy, "that these newspapers in which you have an interest would be more apt to favor the view held by these utilities than some other view?"

"Not because of our ownership," rejoined Graustein. "I have never met the editors of any of these papers. I have met the publishers. I've had nothing to do with policies and I don't want to have anything to do with the policies."

Control Denied

Graustein refused to admit that a one-third stock interest held by his company would represent control. Even in the case of the 50 per cent stock ownership in Boston, Graustein asserted there was no editorial control because the paper and power company had expressly waived this and had vested control over the property, by agreement with Winslow, in three trustees.

It developed under Healy's questioning that two of the three trustees held directorships or other offices in power corporations. One, John R. Macomber, testified today that he is a director and member of the executive committee of the New England Power Association, a director of the paper and power company and a director of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company, operating on the Pacific Coast. Another, Philip Stockton, is a director of the paper and power company. Winslow is the third trustee.

Furthermore, Healy showed, the 50 per cent stock holdings are exclusive of an additional 873 shares owned by Daniel G. Wing, who likewise is a director of the paper and power company.

Graustein's only explanation of his theory that control was lacking, in the light of these disclosures, was that, if an issue were raised, Wing's banking associations would range him on the opposite side from the power interests.

Chairman Dubious

Chairman Edgar A. McCulloch, presiding, remained unconvinced about control. After Graustein had produced figures showing that the Herald and Traveler had bought only 10,000 tons of its newsprint from the International company in 1927 and 5,000 tons in 1928, whereas it would buy its full quota of 30,000 tons from that company in 1929, under an arrangement made with Winslow, McCulloch inquired:

"If you can control the papers in the interest of newsprint, doesn't that imply the possibility of your being able to control in the interest of utilities?" Graustein rejoined:

"If I have a horse and swap it for a dog, I can't take your cat and your automobile, too. The arrangement was that if I financed the properties they would give me the newsprint and I would leave them everything else."

"I think such financial interests would have some tendency to destroy the independence of the press," said McCulloch.

"I have made it deliberately a part of my policy not to control the newspapers," Graustein replied.

In defense of the newspaper deals Graustein turned to Great Britain, where he said, "a majority of both newsprint capacity and newsprint consumption is interconnected through a community of financial interests."

Rothermere Cited

Lord Rothermere, British journalistic giant, owns interests in at least three paper mills, he said, the Berry group owns some mills, and Harrison, the paper manufacturer, owns a chain of newspapers.

His testimony, however, revealed the International companies interest in power, as distinguished from paper, as having enormous range. The subsidiary New England Power Association serves a population of about 2,500,000 people in New England, Graustein said.

It generates about 1,300,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity annually. The association has hydro-electric plants on the Deerfield and Connecticut rivers and a four-state distributing territory. It is "about to buy Worcester," as Graustein phrased it, in referring to the acquisition of another utility plant, and is obtaining stock in another plant at Fall River.

Graustein confirmed figures showing his company got 54 per cent of its 1927 net earnings out of its utility properties, and only 35 per cent from newsprint paper. The rest came from other paper and miscellaneous interests. The Spartansburg, Columbia and Augusta newspaper acquisitions have been financed by the company in the last eight months, Graustein testified.

Hall and Lavarre, who bought them, have been reported busy in the South for some time. A southern newspaper quoted Lavarre as telling civic organizations that he was buying papers out of his rich takings in an African diamond mine.

'Mines' Give Aid

Graustein said the paper and power company's "mines" were opened to them, to the extent of $355,000, when they expressed a desire for help. Hall was a veteran newspaperman, he said, and Lavarre a man experienced in advertising.

"They were introduced to me by Mr. Fearing, our salesmanager, with the highest endorsement of the character and ability," he added. "We have advanced them the money, on the security of the stock in the four papers."

Denying that the company had attempted to buy the Boston Globe and the Boston Post, Graustein said someone had broached such a deal, pretending to speak for his company, but this was "not authorized."

The $750,000 deal still pending has reached the stage of contracts, similar to contracts made with the Brooklyn Eagle and the Knickerbocker Press, Graustein said. The company will get notes and stock for the money it puts up. To reveal the name of the paper or its location would "embarrass" the negotiations, he said, he promised to furnish the information when the deal was effected, or if it finally failed.

Fund Disclaimed

There was "no truth" in reports that the company had set aside a certain large sum for buying newspapers, Graustein said.

"Are any of your directors interested in newspapers?" Healy asked.

"I don't think of anyone on our board interested in newspapers except Ogden Reid," was the reply.

Reid is president of the New York Tribune.

Graustein caused a stir at the morning hearing by stating that the debentures of certain newspaper properties, owned by his company, were callable at any time. Later he corrected this, saying they could be paid off at any time, but had fixed periods of years to run and were not callable by the holders.

He was questioned by Healy about William A. S. Mulligan, described as a director of the Chicago Journal.

"I have a vague impression that he's an attorney who represented us and that it is our stock he represents on the board," Graustein said.

Graustein told so full a story that Macomber was put on the stand for only a moment and W. N. Hurlburt, a vice president of the company, was not called at all.

Robert Lincoln O'Brien, former president of the Boston Publishing Company, publishers of the Herald and Traveler, and James Garfield, secretary of that company, told of the change of ownership from the stockholders' standpoint.

Publisher's Story

O'Brien denied that he had "any pivotal relation to the transaction." He got exactly the same price and terms as other stockholders when he sold 868 of his 1,736 shares to the paper and power company, he said. Winslow presented to the stockholders the project to sell, he said, and gave as the reason the "paper selling alliance" wanted by the paper and power company.

By this time, O'Brien had retired from active interest in the company, he said, because of "incongeniality with the governing ownership." O'Brien had edited the Herald for 17 years.

He said there was no connection whatever between his retirement and the coming change of ownership, or any issue involving utilities.

O'Brien thought there had been no attempt to control Herald and Traveler policies in favor of utilities prior to the change. The papers were strongly opposed to public ownership of utilities, as he was, he said.

Healy produced an article by F. G. R. Gordon, a public relations "trouble shooter" in the pay of the power interests for four years. The Herald had published it as an editorial, with nothing to show its authorship.

"It was in line with my ideas about municipal socialism, or municipal ownership," said O'Brien, but he declared that he would not have printed it had he known that Gordon was in the pay of power companies.

Previous Offer

O'Brien said he had been approached previously, regarding sale of the papers, by B. Basil O'Connor, a partner of Franklin D. Roosevelt. O'Connor was "feeling around for a paper he could bring to the attention of Mr. Gannett," according to O'Brien, but he said it was not certain Gannett knew of this.

Graustein subsequently states that O'Connor had not been acting in the paper and power company's behalf.

Garfield, who is a trustee of the Choate estate, told the commission the price paid for the Herald and Traveler stock, instead of being excessive as had been intimated, was "less than the real value."

"Why did you sell it then?" demanded Healy.

"I thought the newspaper holdings were too large a proportion of the estate," replied Garfield. "I thought I had better take it. I couldn't get a purchaser for so large a share."

Both Garfield and O'Brien declined to name the sale price and it was obtained ultimately from Graustein.

Norris Sees Paper Grab As Free Speech Threat

WASHINGTON, May 1.—In commenting upon the testimony before the Federal Trade Commission revealing that the International Paper and Power Company has invested over $10,000,000 in 11 great daily newspapers, Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, said:

"These disclosures constitute another startling piece of evidence mighty important within itself, but still more important when we remember that it is only one gigantic step of the power interests to get control of the schools, churches, civic organizations, legislative bodies, the press and broadcasting systems.

"It is a gigantic scheme which startles the imagination. It is another disclosure of the progress made in gaining control of every means of communication that sways society.

"And the power interests are doing it all with the people's own money. Followed to a logical conclusion, it means that freedom of speech and even the right to think will be controlled by this—the greatest monopoly ever known."

Norris said he knew of nothing more that Congress could do at this time. Congress has acted, he said, and the matter now is in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission and the courts.

Saving is One of Life's Greatest Assets

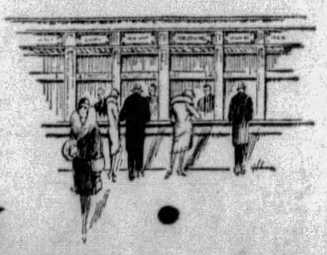
Hon. James Francis Burke

TO plant a seed and see it grow has been one of the chief charms of human existence. If it be a flower, it finally blossoms, and while we inhale its fragrance, its beauty pleases the eye. If it be a tree, its overhanging branches finally furnish a play-ground for our children and a shelter for us from the burning suns in old age. If it be a temple of art or a shrine of religion, it evolves admiration for man's genius as it reaches toward the sky.

But of all the plants in the world, the dollar, honestly earned and planted in a savings account, has borne more fruit than any other in history. It always invites another dollar to join it and it bears fruit in interest until the accumulation represents one of life's greatest assets against adversity.



After Mr. James Francis Burke was graduated from the public schools, he studied law at the University of Michigan and then started to work. As a struggling young lawyer he soon won recognition and became one of the most prominent members of the Allegheny County Bar. General council for the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh and representative of many large organizations throughout the United States, Mr. Burke also has a record of signal public service as member of the United States Congress from 1905 to 1915 and as U.S. War Savings Director during the World War.

According to the Honorable Mr. Burke, savings represent "one of life's greatest assets against adversity." Mr. Burke knows from experience how savings helped win the war.

In presenting this series of editorials by Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men, the Union Savings Bank hopes to show that preparedness by thrift and saving is necessary for success.

Today and every day, for the present and the future, it is important to be thrifty and to save.

The Union Savings Bank is always ready to help you with any banking service. Four per cent compound interest is paid on savings. Individual boxes in the Safe Deposit Vault $5 up per year.

Eight Men Saw Way Out of W. Va. Jail

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 1.—Making the second jail break within a month, eight prisoners sawed their way out of the Upshur County Jail at Buckhannon early yesterday. Several cell bars and a heavy door chain were cut through.

The escaped men are Loy Shipman, Asa Hoover, Clyde Hinchman, Abraham Marteney, Clovis Smith, Eldridge Gainer, Robert Ellison and Howard Deul, held on various charges.

Man Struck by Auto Asks $50,000 in Suits

Nick Karvonis filed two actions in Common Pleas Court each claiming $25,000 damages for personal injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile September 4 last as he attempted to cross Smithfield street at Second avenue, according to the statements. F. J. Pfendler, named as owner of the automobile, and Mary V. Johnston, alleged to have been driving the car at the time, are defendants in the suits.

NEWS CONTROL BY TRUST DENIED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 1.—(INS.)—Frank E. Gannett, of the Gannett newspapers, yesterday issued a formal statement concerning testimony adduced before the Federal Trade Commission investigating activities of the so-called power trust in the purchase of certain newspapers.

Mr. Gannett said this afternoon that the report that he had some financial assistance from the International Paper Company was correct, but carried an erroneous impression which he wished to correct. He said:

"The International Paper Company has no interest in any of the Gannett newspapers with this exception. Last fall, when the money market was in bad condition, I found it difficult to issue public securities and made temporary arrangements with the International Paper Company by which this company bought the notes and preferred stock of the corporation that operates newspapers in Ithaca, Brooklyn and Albany.

DENIES OBLIGATION

"International Paper Company has nothing whatever to do with the editorial policy of these papers or anything to do with their management. International merely asks that it be given consideration in the purchase of the newsprint supply tonnage. I was able to make very favorable terms with the International, both in tonnage arrangements and in borrowing money. It was a very satisfactory deal that really concerns no one but me.

"However, I have no objection to disclosing the facts. Every one knows that the amount of money I have borrowed from the International is only a fraction of my resources and that I am no more obligated to that concern than I would be to a bank in a similar transaction. I might add that I buy only a part of my newsprint supply from the International Paper Company."

TELLS OF PURCHASE

The Chicago Daily News securities, he bought himself, he said, early in 1926, when Walter Strong bought the property from the estate of the late Victor Lawson. He thought some assistance probably was needed in the financing, and Joseph Fearing, a vice president of the paper and power company and an old friend of Lawson's, suggested the acquisition.

Graustein said the securities stood in his own name, but they belong to the paper and power company and were bought with funds of its corporate predecessor, the International Paper Company.

The preferred and common stock of the Knickerbocker Press and Albany Evening News was bought for $450,000, Graustein testified. They are carried in the name of the Piedmont Press Association, Inc., which also holds the $1,954,000 notes and 400 common shares in the Brooklyn Eagle, Graustein testified.

"The Piedmont Press Association is a subsidiary of the International Securities Company, which is affiliated with International Paper," Graustein explained. "For practical purposes International Securities is to be considered the same as International Paper, although legally it is independent."

The $450,000 preferred stock is the entire outstanding stock of that class, he added, and the 2,000 shares common are 50 per cent of the total common stock.

Woman in Coma, Identified By Cut

Through a laceration on a finger, a woman found unconscious in the Pennsylvania Station last night was identified by North Side police as Mrs. Lena Conti, 40, of 7516 Hamilton avenue. At the Allegheny General Hospital Mrs. Conti was revived, but was unable to tell police her name. She remembered that she had been treated at the Pittsburgh Hospital yesterday for a lacerated finger and a telephone call to the hospital partially established her identity. A message to her husband established the identification as correct. He told police the woman had suffered spells of intense melancholy since the death of a child three years ago.

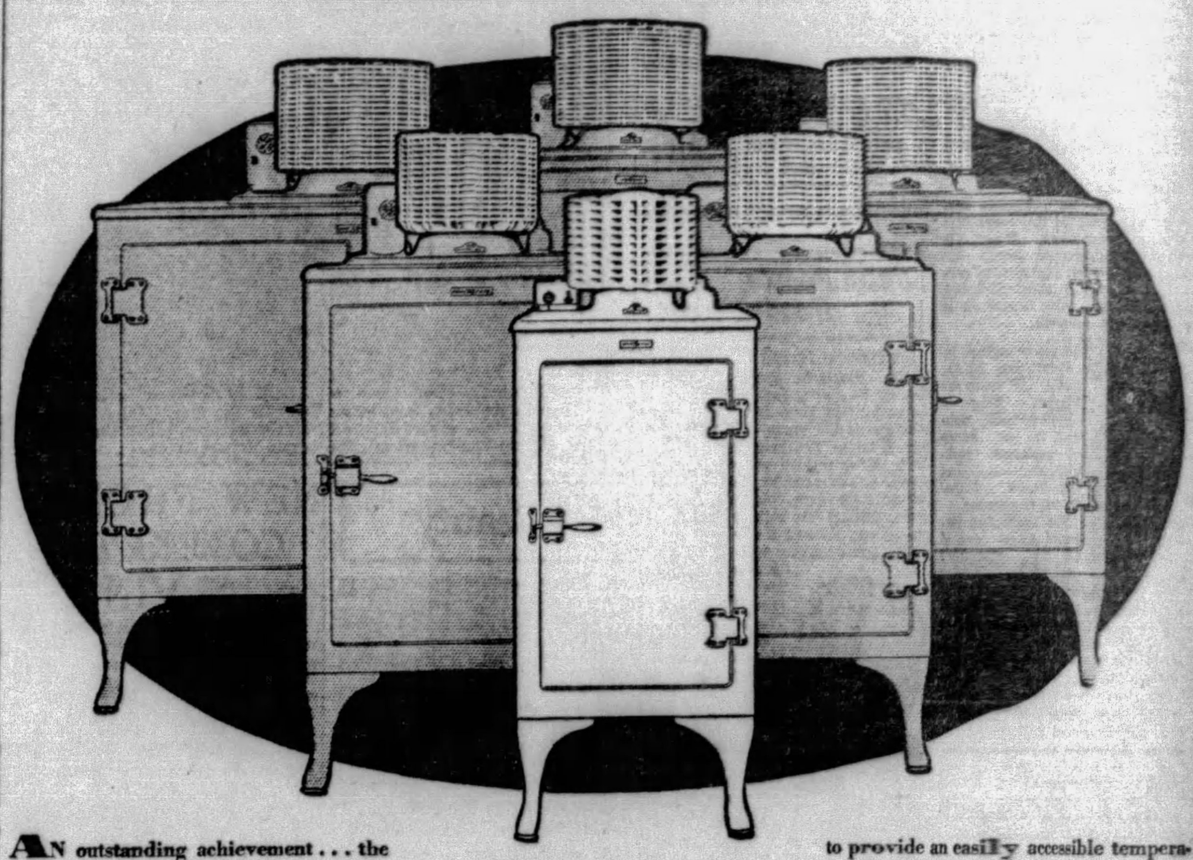
INTRODUCING STILL HIGHER STANDARDS OF EFFICIENCY



AN outstanding achievement . . . the first all-steel refrigerators. New low prices. The greatest values ever offered by General Electric.

This all-steel refrigerator development is another contribution to better living—made by the engineers and scientists of the General Electric Research Laboratories.

Now you can buy a refrigerator with a cabinet built like a safe. One with doors that will always fit perfectly. One which will operate on the least amount of current. One which shuts out the heat—keeps in the cold.

CAN'T WARP
STRONGER, STURDIER
COST LESS TO OPERATE

The hermetically sealed mechanism remains just as it always has been—sealed away from dust and difficulties, permanently oiled, quiet, unseen, untouched—one of the miracles of modern science. The General Electric, too, was the first to provide an easily accessible temperature control which speeds up the freezing of ice cubes when the user desires.

Because of mass production economies, prices now start at only $215. at the factory. There are six sizes. See them at our display rooms—examine them thoroughly—let us explain our plan of conveniently spaced time payments.

"My! you look lovely to-night"

SHE knew the compliment to be true—for the last pimple had vanished.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you must realize that the logical cause may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth, velvety skin bespeaks loveliness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. Hope, joy, happiness, and even love, may depend on the possession of a clear, unblemished skin.

On the other hand—skin eruptions are outward evidences of the condition within. Authorities state it is an indication that the body's power of resistance to disease and infection is low. Meaning, that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

Made from fresh vegetable drugs—

When you get your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to diseases.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for improving the appetite, building strength, and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, by increasing the red-cells of the blood.

S.S.S.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years. All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Amusements of Stage and Screen Heralded in Tales and Pictures

RONALD COLMAN MAKES TALK DEBUT AS HEROIC MR. DRUMMOND

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.

YEARS ago, when the motion picture was young and reckless and airily indifferent to its discrepancies, the critics were accustomed to seeing new offerings in the projection room.

The motion picture toppled into adolescence. It became sophisticated and aloof and sensitive to its discrepancies. Critics were no longer invited to projection room previews. They see each celluloider in the theater and profit by the audience's reaction!

Today, the motion picture presumes it has reached the mature stage of its development. And, like the majority of matured folk, has reverted with casual dignity to outstanding features of its childhood. Again critics are being invited to projection room previews.

M. G. M. led the procession by inaugurating p. m. showings at the studio. Famous Players, not to be outdone, ushered in a series of weekly midnight showings at the local Paramount theater.

Mary Pickford.

The talkies unreeled the cream of its product and the critics spread superlatives to the furtherest corner of the colony. Even Mary Pickford, cautious show-woman that she is, harked to the current preview fad and screened a pre-theater showing of "Coquette."

Sam Goldwyn Holds Preview

NOT to be outdone, the Sam Goldwyn forces invited the critics to a studio repast 'tother eve., after which they ambled to United Artists' comfortable projection room and looked-listened to "Bull Dog Drummond." This celebrates Roland Colman's stellar bow into the outloud race. The film debuts in New York tomorrow.

Some years ago, I chortled over a Broadway revival of this aged-in-torture melodrama. A British company crossed the Atlantic to give Manhattan a laugh. They played their roles with biting tensity and at the conclusion of the second act trouped across the stage in approved pre-sophisticate manner. We missed the heavies and were rewarded with sly grins and even slyer winks. Bull Dog Drummond bowed graciously to a salvo of applause, and winked at the audience. The heroine accepted her sympathetic greeting with wistful sobriety, only to succumb to the hilarity of the occasion and laugh with the applauders.

Villain Still Pursues Her

"Bull Dog Drummond" as an outloud is played seriously. Mr. Colman does succeed in tossing off stupendous deeds of a heroic nature with a twinkle in his eye. But a curiously reaction dominated the projection room when the film neared the halfway mark. One didn't want to rock with laughter. One yearned to be in on the fun with the players and chuckle knowingly. Their seriousness daunted but did not dim the mirth.

Ronald Colman

Certainly, Mr. Colman, Lilyan Tashman, Montagu Love, Laurence Grant and Joan Bennett portrayed their roles with an ability that won sincere felicitations. Certainly, Richard Jones directed capably. Certainly the production settings were rich.

The frail link in the chain rests at the door of those who whipped the story into talky form. The day of blood-curdling melodrama has yielded to comedy drama or stark drama. "Bull Dog Drummond's" box office triumph will be a tribute to those who vivify its characters and manage to ease over the frail link in the chain despite its tissue paper texture.

Irving Orders Norma Home

MORAN and Mack, the Two Black Crows, lolled on the studio set while sound experts tested the reproductive qualities of the orchestra for their initial talky, "Backstage Blues."

"I think the orchestra needs more wind instruments," one suggested.

Mack to Moran: "George, 'Spose you run over to our dressin' room and get that electric fan for the boys!"

It happened while Irving Thalberg was in New York. He telephoned Norma Shearer at her home only to learn she was at a dinner party. He telephoned her at the party. He seemed perturbed Norma was out without him. He stipulated he'd give her 15 minutes to get home and ring her there in that time. And Norma was home in 15 minutes! "Weren't you furious?" a friend queried. "No," smiled Miss Shearer, "I rather liked it!"

Film People Headed East

SCREENALITIES: Lillian Gish, Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Gloria Swanson, Joseph Schenck en route to New York and the consummation of the rumored United Artists-Warner Brothers merger . . . Jack Warner also en route or arrived. Jack raced to the train, with minutes to spare. And made it, bigosh, though 'tis safe to reckon the chauffeur suffered a nervous breakdown after getting him there. . . . Richard Barthelmess and wife also headed New York-wards. . . . An amusing incident marked Lillian Gish's departure. She "Ford-ed" to the train two hours before it pulled out. She had special permission to board the car in the yards. She did. With her maid. A process server was after her. She succeeded in dodging him even though it forced her to remain locked in her compartment for seven hours. Ah, mio, such is drama. . . . Prince Ferdinand, the ex-Kaiser's grandson, lunching tete-a-tete at Ye Montmartre with Lili Damiti, the French whizz-banger. And Lili a vivid blond study in red coat and red beret. That gal certainly corrals the princes. Recollect Prince George of England? . . . And—that's all.

Richard Barthelmess.

Two Children Save 15 Cattle from Fire

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 1.—When lightning struck their father's barn and set it afire, two small sons of John Walagory, of Leisenring No. 3, near here, drove 15 head of cattle to safety. One animal was killed. The father was absent.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and saved the barn.

SPOOFS HEROINE :-: ANOTHER PRINCE :-: COMEDY BOY

In this sequence from "The Voice of the City," John Miljan, as a gang leader, makes Sylvia Field, the heroine, think that he is trying to help her boy friend, the heroic Robert Ames.

The fellow in the derby is the latest prince to enter the life of Lily Damita, screen charmer. He is Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former Kaiser. Prince George, brother of the Prince of Wales, also had his name associated with Lily's in the news when he visited Hollywood last fall.

George K. Arthur continues the funny business. This time he appears with Karl Dane in "China Bound."

Beauty

Ethel Louise Wright, who can justly claim to be no strain on the eyes, is one of the principals of "A Night in Venice," new Shubert extravaganza coming to the Alvin for a week, opening next Monday.

Officials to Discuss Stadium Road Work

President James F. Malone has called a conference of Council and officials of Carnegie Institute of Technology and University of Pittsburgh at 3 p. m. next Monday to discuss the improvement of Stadium road.

NEW FROLIC COMING TO ALVIN

Seats for next week's engagement of the new Shubert extravaganza, "A Night in Venice," in the Alvin, will be placed on sale tomorrow morning in the box office. Ann Seymour and Ted Healy are featured. It has played several weeks in Philadelphia and comes here prior to a New York engagement.

"Skidding," the comedy announced by the George Sharp Players for the Pitt next week, has been one of the successes of the New York season, and is still playing there in the Nora Bayes Theater, where it opened in May a year ago. A road company played it in the Pitt recently.

The Nixon, it appears, is not done with professional amusement for the season. "Three Cheers," in which Fred Stone would be the star had he not got tangled up with an airplane, will be along the latter part of May, with Will Rogers and Dorothy Stone as the featured members of the company. It is musical, of course.

FRENCH SALON OPENS; 40 AMERICAN EXHIBITS

PARIS, May 1.—(AP.)—The opening of the salon of the French Artists' Society and the Fine Arts Society drew an unusual number of visitors, who seemed to agree in pronouncing it one of the best in recent years.

Of the 6,000 convases hung in two sections, those of the Artists' Society greatly outnumbered the showing of the older organization and seemed to dominate them in quality.

About 40 American exhibits showed up well, with one outstanding portrait by Mariette Leslie Cottin, of New York.

The exhibition on the whole showed the influence of current events. The Byrd Antarctic expedition was recalled by a magnificent marble of a giant Polar bear with cubs. Recent storms and tragedies at sea were recorded in the marines. Among the French pictures some of the most striking were portraits of notables in Algeria and the Sahara.

The late Marshal Foch appeared in full length marble with baton in hand, and again was portrayed in a most lifelike bust. An oil portrait of President Paul Doumer of the French senate led critics to comment that the artist had seemed to give his subject a smile at his prospect of succeeding President Doumergue as head of the republic.

Believing that the time has come for a RADICAL REDUCTION in PRICES, if the American Theatre is to continue to prosper, we are offering A NIGHT IN VENICE at a tariff unprecedentedly LOW, LOWER BY FAR in fact, than has ever been charged for an attraction of comparable magnitude and boasting a cast of such transcendent prominence. The very fact that A NIGHT IN VENICE is the largest and most expensive production during our long interest in theatricals, is in itself ample testimony of our sincerity in this drastic move. A lesser opus might confuse the mind of the public that lack of merit might have prompted this action. NOT SO with A NIGHT IN VENICE, chosen thus to inaugurate a policy long contemplated by ourselves, abetted by the press and which we trust will be welcomed by the amusement loving public. WE FIRMLY BELIEVE THAT THE ADDED VOLUME attending this departure will more than offset the 25% REDUCTION per capita.

7-DAY FEAST ON SPRING GREENS NEW HEALTH HINT

One grand and glorious feast for seven days.

That is the theory for good health advanced by Dr. Benjamin Hauser, young Viennese food scientist. It is the secret of "chemic-analysis," the modern way of selecting foods as explained by Dr. Hauser in a series of free lectures which opened last night in the William Penn Hotel ballroom.

And of liquor for the body, Dr. Hauser says:

"I prefer sunshine to moonshine, though the practice of drinking wine as it is done in France is of benefit. Drinking wine moderately is beneficial to all types as it helps to digest food.

BASED ON CHEMICAL NEED

"The new science, as I advance it, is based on the chemical needs of the body. These needs are entirely dependent upon type. There are 11 types of people, while there are three predominating chemicals in all. The body is what we make it. Just as in any building, there must be proper foods.

"In originating the seven-day feast as part of my theory, the purpose is to purify and sweeten the body by food. It works entirely different from the theory of fasting. This last practice generally causes a weakening of energy and in some cases causes the person to show advanced signs of age.

SPRING GREENS BEST

"The seven-day feast calls for the eating of young greens and fruits. The more you eat the more you benefit. But there is one time of the year for this feast. It must be in the spring of the year when the first greens or vegetables are available. You see, the early products get the fresh chemicals from the ground and thereby are more beneficial. As the season passes, there is less chemical value in the ground and the vegetable or fruit does not contain quite as much."

Autoist Caught by Cable, Asks $20,000

A steel cable being stretched between towers on either side of the William Penn highway in Robinson Township, February 9 last, tore the top from his automobile and seriously injured him, Tony Mercando alleged in an action against the Duquesne Light Company filed in Common Pleas Court. Damages of $20,000 are claimed.

MINERS STRIKE ON WAGE CUT

Three hundred miners are reported to have thrown down their tools today at Barking mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company following the posting at the mine of a reduction similar to the scale adopted recently by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Barking mine is three miles south of New Kensington, below Parnassus, on the Allegheny River.

The new wage scale announced in a bulletin posted at the mine this morning, reduced the day rate from $5 to from $4.40 to $4.80. Tonnage was cut from 53 cents a ton to 47 cents, it was said.

Supt. B. K. Ryan, when he learned of the men's decision to strike, is said to have urged them to return to work today while he conferred with company officials. They refused and were reported to be holding a meeting this afternoon in the Broad Hall, New Kensington.

Barking mine resumed operation last fall after being idle for nearly two years. Prior to the shut down the Jacksonville scale was paid.

Two Bodies in River, Identification Sought

Deputy coroners today were seeking to establish the identity of two men found drowned. The body of a man, about 45, was recovered in the Monongahela River near Lock No. 1 by Tony Wagner and Charles Marine, locktenders, last night. The victim's body was crushed, and morgue attaches expressed the belief that the man either had been struck by a train while crossing a bridge, or crushed against the lock by a boat. A Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railrad work check was found on the body.

The second body, that of a man about 50, was found in Ohio River near the Fleming Park Bridge. Papers found in his clothing bore the name of Felix Gonzales, believed a former employe of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, who lived at 2808 Carson street. He disappeared in January. There also was a small silk Mexican flag.

"And when the pie was opened—"

You'll feel like singing, yourself, when you sniff this juicy steam! Such racy richness smacks of the Mermaid Tavern—the lustier poets' feasts . . .

Tender, white veal and flavorous ham! Small, pearly onions, studding the thick sauce. Orange-colored carrots. Round, melting balls of potato. Tart bayleaf, crisp celery, lemon, chopped fresh parsley.

Flavors sharply blending—blending as patchwork colors do—separate, yet patterned harmoniously . . .

And all the bright medley, closed sizzling-hot beneath a golden, flaky pie-crust . . . A crust so tender that it crumbles beneath the blunt serving spoon—yet this is a pie that ought really to be opened with an Elizabethan dagger of shining silver! Try it this week on Pennsylvania dining cars—old-fashioned Veal and Ham Pie, Pennsylvania.

AIR-COOLED MOTOR

at the

Aeronautical Show

Pitt Stadium—May 2, 3 and 4

In the air and on the road the air-cooled engine proves the conqueror—the supreme power plant, where stamina, power, endurance and dependability are demanded.

The air-cooled type of motor—which Franklin pioneered—has now been generally adopted by Aviation. It is significant that when Airplane builders discovered the great advantages of the air-cooled motor, Aviation took a definite step forward. Flights which a few years ago almost unthought of have been made possible by the air-cooled power plant.

The air-cooled engine has made possible Franklin's tremendous power, its flashing acceleration, its long-sustainable high speed and its quiet smoothness—and is largely responsible for the Airplane performance of Franklin. When you drive the car you actually have the feeling of piloting an Airplane.

We cordially invite you to thoroughly examine the Franklin air-cooled motor at the Aeronautical Show. Then drive one of the new Franklins. When you experience the Airplane feel, you will enthusiastically say Franklin has the most thrilling performance you have ever known.

BALDWIN BACKS BRITISH-U. S. DEBT DEAL

LONDON, May 1.—(AP.)—The settlement of the British debt to the United States cropped up last night at a bankers dinner at which Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin was the principal guest. Lord Bradbury, former British representative on the reparations commission, alluded to the recent Labor attack on the Balfour note and said that although he personally thought the bargain with the United States had been a bad one it was too late now to rake over old ashes.

The Prime Minister, referring to the sea chanties which had been sung to entertain the diners, suggested that in order to show the pleasure with which Britain paid her debts the next time bullion should leave the vaults of the Bank of England led by the governor singing a sea chanty.

He then reviewed all the circumstances of his mission to America and reminded his hearers that at that time Great Britain was under bond to pay the United States annual interest of $250,000,000, which was interest in perpetuity and redeemed no capital.

"We funded the debt," he said, and instead of £50,000,000 we pay £33,000,000 for a decade and thereafter £38,000,000, and that covers both interest and redemption. I have always maintained that in the circumstances of that time it was not an unfair business and I will leave at at that.

"That there was any alternative to fulfilling our word, I have always denied. If we had postponed indefinitely in hope of getting a better bargain, we should never either, on the one hand, had made any progess in the restoration of the currencies of Europe or, on the other hand, have restored the credit of the city of London to where it stands today."

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 1.—Three Richeyville men, Ralph Hornbake, Bert Rohror and George Barch, paid $25.75 each for two 14-inch fish they caught in a small stream feeding a dam of the Citizens Water Company. Zediker, pleaded guilty and were assessed the provided penalty, $20 and costs of $5.75 each.

GRANDMOTHER SEIZED AS KIDNAPER OF TWO

DENVER, May 1.—(AP.)—A writ of habeas corpus was sought yesterday by Kenneth W. Robinson and Robert Stearns, Denver attorneys, for the release of Mrs. A. W. Lee, of Norfolk, Va., charged with kidnaping her two grandchildren, Gallis McClewski, 13, and Romauld P. McClewski, Jr., 9.

Mrs. Lee was taken off a train at LaSalle, Col., at the request of Norfolk authorities, who notified the police here that Lieut. Commander Romauld P. McClewski had preferred kidnaping charges against her, alleging she was taking the children to their mother at Reno, Nev. In his deposition the Navy officer declared the mother was in Reno for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

Held in a Denver hotel in the custody of a policeman, Mrs. Lee declared the charges of the children's father were "absurd" and that she merely was taking the children to visit her daughter, the mother of the boy and girl, who had been ill at Reno. She said she left Norfolk Friday, the day before the father was granted a divorce from his wife and custody of the children.

Lieut. Commander McClewski is attached to the Hampton Roads Naval Base at Norfolk. He was commander of the destroyer Pope in Chinese waters in 1927.

Mrs. McClewski was for several years prominent in social circles in Virginia and in naval society.

ROSS TOWNSHIP ACTS TO CHANGE ZONING

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

VILLAGE GOSSIP: John Green, of Maple avenue, Edgewood, went to the roof of his apartment to fix an aerial for his radio. . . . He was on the roof but a few moments when the landlord came along, and noting the door to the roof was open, he promptly closed it and locked it and there was Mr. Green, so to speak. . . . Mr. Green attracted the attention of some boys on the street and told them he was locked out on the roof, but the boys smiled back that no one could kid them and walked away. . . . Meanwhile, it was getting dark and the air was growing cold and besides Mr. Green was not dressed for a long stay on the roof. . . . It was not until Mrs. Green became suspicious that Mr. Green had consumed enough time to construct an aerial for KDKA instead of just a modest one that Mrs. Green began an investigation which led to the rescue of Mr. Green. . . . In a downtown restaurant where members of the legal guild gather daily the menu sets forth a Senator Marcus salad, named in honor of Joe Marcus. . . . Grant street will soon see the opening of a book store under a famous name, Brentano's. . . . All book stores are good. . . . There never was a bad one. . . . It is a thing apart from the commercial world, for the customer may look and browse, be assisted and helped, and still not feel at all guilty if he doesn't make a purchase. . . . And one of the best books they are purveying in Pittsburgh is Mr. Hackett's thorough and beautifully written life of Henry the Eighth, who made love and war with considerable zest and who was unmoved even when little Anne Boleyn felt her neck, just before the ax was to fall on it, and remarked her neck was so small for such a finish. . . . Thursday night is the night of the dinner for O. Hanlon, the baseball arbiter. . . . Jack Theobald, who all but caught Whoopee McGurk, is on the general committee, along with Dave Hillman, Tom Morgan and Ed Arthur. . . . Fred Sacher is down for a speech, along with Jim Malone, Dan Winters, Pie Traynor, Ellsworth Trott and a few others. . . . Bill Barnett posed as Count von Luckner while a reporter interviewed him. . . . He would not stand for a picture, although several times he pretended he would consent, but after the camera was placed several times, he changed his mind. . . . Mike Boyle, of Johnstown, was a Pittsburgh visitor the other day. . . . Arthur (Bugs) Baer in baseball reminiscing while here said the greatest hitter he ever saw was Gink Fowler. . . . Gink came to bat one day with the sacks loaded. . . . On third base was Enoch Arden, on second base was Rip Van Winkle, and on first base was Bill Bailey—and Kink brought them all home. . . . George (Barry) Shanahan is fully recovered from an attack of pneumonia. . . . He and Walter Kirley entertained Count von Luckner while the count was here. . . . Chick Fraser, baseball scout and a good bridge player, had a good time at the Amen dinner. . . . Norman Brown, by the way, says there isn't such a thing as an original two bid in bridge. . . . And adds that Work is a good writer of bridge, but there are many bridge players who can take him in a game. . . . Ye ed. wishes to mention Mrs. Fred Obley's name as Mrs. Obley maintains that she reads the column now and then. . . . And I don't know the name of the gentleman who in Orphans Court the other morning without a word of warning said: "Getting material for your column? Well, it's all right sometimes, and pretty bad other times." . . . Ye ed. didn't know how to handle that hot one. . . . Has anyone got a set of whiskers? . . . Jess Carver says he sat on the Pirate bench all through a game, although there is a strict rule against this. . . . Rosy Rowswell sometimes sits on the bench, but he gets disguised as a ball player. . . . One of the strangest men in town is the fellow who collects railroad schedules. . . . He doesn't travel, but he never passes a schedule stand in any of the depots without loading up. . . . He works in the Federal Building here. . . . One restaurant in town features all the coffee you can drink for a nickel. . . . Well in South Twelfth street many years ago they featured a three-cent glass of beer and you had to get Otis to lift it. . . . Charley Joseph, the advertising writer, recalled when he and ye ed. collaborated on a movie for Honus Wagner. . . . It had a good title, "Bingles and Bungles," but that let it out, although Honus was a good actor. . . . Mr. Joseph went for a bundle on the venture. . . . Ye ed. contributed only his art and time.

BILL IS GIVEN TWO READINGS AT SESSION

A large group of residents, interested in enactment of the zoning regulations was present at the meeting. TEAMS VIE TO SECURE RADIO CONTEST ORDERS

With a record of obtaining 92 orders for the Sun-Telegraph on the Radio-in-the-Schools campaign in a week, the Rostraver Township Junior High School, Pricedale, Pa., claims the secret of its success lies in an automobile race.

Fred F. Herman, principal, appointed William H. Maurer, a teacher, as the official organizer for the school. As soon as the preparations were complete for the school campaign, Mr. Maurer divided the entire school, numbering about 300, into five teams.

Each team chose the name of a popular automobile for title and a miniature track was laid out in the school, with toy automobiles indicating the position of each group every day.

TEAM CAPTAINS

The team captains, in their order on the track, are: Hilda Zollars, Belle Vernon, No. 1; Faye Zundel, Belle Vernon, No. 2; Abram Foster, Pricedale, No. 3; Evelyn Round, Pricedale, No. 4; Bernard Driscoll, Belle Vernon, No. 5.

The present standing of the team brings Evelyn, No. 4, in the lead with 26 subscriptions, while Hilda, No. 1, follows close with 24 subscriptions. The other automobiles are placing as follows: Faye, No. 2, 17; Bernard, No. 5, 13; Abram, No. 3, 12.

Bernard started in the lead with several subscriptions the first day, but Evelyn quickly rose to the head of the procession.

Mr. Maurer has arranged to give prizes to the individual members of the teams obtaining the largest number of subscriptions. Baseballs, bats, gloves, mitts, flashlights, brief cases, wrist watches, necklaces and brooches are to be awarded at the end of the campaign.

BUSINESS FIRM AIDS

Another large business firm in Pittsburgh will hereafter enclose order blanks for the Sun-Telegraph in delivery packages. The store joining the Haller Baking Company and United Laundries is Donahoe's, well known grocers of the city.

The campaign for installation of these $138.50 Atwater Kent radios by obtaining 125 new 13-week subscriptions grows daily.

Sez Roy in Say

BOSTON, May 1.

Did you see the figures issued by the Department of Commerce about the amount men spent on cosmetics to beautify themselves? Didn't I tell you they are getting vainer over their looks than women?

They spent over one billion dollars and there is more bald headed ones and more ugly ones and more funny looking ones than we ever had before.

They will try anything in the world that a woman does. They will have dresses on in less than 10 years.

Beauty parlors are thicker than filling stations, but more power to the people that run 'em, for they earn it for having to listen to people with nothing on their mind but wanting to look better.

Yours, WILL.

Disguised as Woman, Bobby Reaches Secret Hiding Place in Safety

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Bobby Doyle, framed by the Wilkes gang and sentenced to prison for twenty years for killing a policeman, is aided to escape from jail by his fiancee, Beebe Barrett, with whom Bobby's sister, Mary, lives. Beebe is assisted by Johnny the Hop, a dope fiend. Inspector Wilmot and Biff Myers, assigned to the case, are visited by Dapper Don Wilkes, leader of the gang, who offers to donate $5,000 to the family of the murdered policeman if they will fail to capture Bobby. Meanwhile Bobby has reached Beebe's apartment in safety, and plans to make his getaway disguised. While he is swearing to find out who framed him, the alarm is given. Bobby has hardly time to hide himself in the sofa before Biff Myers appears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER V.

FOR a little space of silence, Biff Meyers looked at the occupants of the room, his surly smile on his face. They knew he was, or guessed, though Johnny the Hop had had experiences on his own account with Biff.

For his part, Biff strove to conceal his disappointment. It was not that he expected to walk in and find Bobby Doyle there before him; he would, in fact, have been considerably astonished had this been the case. But as he glanced around, he felt that these people knew no more than he did concerning Doyle's whereabouts. If they knew anything, he trusted to his own powers to find it out, but he saw nothing to arouse his suspicion.

"Well, well, well," he got out with a hard laugh. "Everybody here but the guy I'm lookin' for."

"Do you actually think Bobby's coming here?" Beebe asked, amazed at her own steady voice. But something drove her now like an obsession. She felt she could do anything, conquer anyone.

The surety of her tones practically defeated Biff's last hopes, but he made a final bluff.

"Listen, Cutie," he said, "hate me—swear at me—call me whatever you like. But don't try to kid me! You know something I can tell by looking at you. Come on now—talk fast!"

"We don't know a thing about him, except that he ain't such a sap as to walk in here," Johnny blurted out.

"I'm not talkin' to you," said Biff, "and until I do, keep your trap shut!" He swung back to Beebe, feeling somehow that she was the leader here. "Now then! You got no idea where Bobby Doyle is?"

"No."

He gave a short, disgruntled laugh. "I think the whole bunch of you are liars. And don't forget something. There's a law about aiding and abetting. You may all do a stretch before I'm through." At that instant, as if for the first time, his eye fell on Martha. He knew the rest, knew Mary even, but this was a face that was strange to him.

"I'm Martha Haley," she answered in a stammer.

"You are, huh? What are you doing here?"

"I'm sitting down in this chair," said Martha helplessly. She looked frightened to death.

Beebe came to her rescue. "She's the girl who cleans up the rooms on these two floors," she explained.

Again Biff's hopes were dashed, though they were not strong at any time. Still he noticed how Martha was dressed, and it occurred to him that even among the Beebes of the world, it wasn't customary to invite the cleaning woman to come in for a social chat.

Yet he was so disheartened that if he hadn't recalled Dapper Don Wilke's astonishing offer he would have left before this. Only the memory of that kept him still trying, still hoping to force some admission, or discover some clue.

Had he guessed that he sat within 10 feet of the man he trailed, Biff Myers would have had heart failure, or died of shame. But the nervous tension in the air he dismissed as a tribute to authority. He swung around and stared at Beebe once more.

"What's this woman doing here at this time of night —all dressed up?" he demanded with unexpected sharpness.

She did not flinch, but before she could think a reply, Martha had broke out:

"I'm—I'm — waiting for my mother."

"Your mother?" Biff demanded.

"Yes, sir. She's upstairs visiting a woman that's sick."

Biff gave up. It was a waste of time to try to frighten these women and the little dope addict any longer. He ought to have known that Dapper Don's words concealed something shrewder than what he had suspected.

He rose to his feet, walked to the door, peered into the inner rooms, let his glance travel carefully around the place, and tried to go out with no loss of dignity.

He gave a final glance at Martha. "You could do a lot better for yourself than sittin' around with this mob," he growled. "Good night, the rest of you. Have a lot of fun while you can, because you're friend Bobby is going back to stir, and I'm going to take him—chained right to this wrist. Shoot that in your arm, Hop!"

The door banged behind him.

Mary, rising to her feet, swayed as if she were going to faint. Johnny caught her. His own face was a sickly white.

Beebe opened the door. There was no one there. She hurried back to lift the sofa lid, and Bobby Doyle climbed out.

No one spoke now. The visit of Biff had galvanized them into a sudden furious energy. They made their plans in whispers.

Beebe, peeping through the curtain, could make out the dim shape of a man in the doorway across the street. This time she knew it was Biff. He hadn't given up yet. She whispered goodby to Johnny as he started out, and saw him presently on the street. He hobbled off with his jerky, nervous stride, and was lost to sight.

Bobby had gone into the next room with the clothes that Martha had brought. He pulled on the old black silk dress, and drew the shawl down around his head. He stared at himself in the mirror set in the bathroom door. He was astonished. He knew he could fool nine people out of ten. Most of them wouldn't give him a second glance.

When he came out, Martha was waiting. He touched Beebe's hands briefly, nodded at Mary, trying hard to smile, but his face was grim. Beebe shook her head when he seemed about to linger. He turned and started down the stairs.

She watched now at the window with nerves that were like delicate wires. Mary, her head sunk in her hands, was on the sofa, scarcely breathing.

It seemed to take them a long time to reach the street. They were on it at last. Now Beebe's eyes focussed on the silent dark figure in the doorway. He was looking towards them. She could see that. But he stood where he was. They moved on down the street, quite slowly, and Beebe breathed a prayer of unutterable gratitude.

As for Bobby Doyle, it was impossible to describe how he felt. Tired from the long strain he had undergone, emotionally exhausted by this brief meeting with Beebe, he could not even think clearly. He put himself into Martha's hands and trusted to luck.

They had to pause for traffic two blocks away. Out of the gloom came a policeman. Bobby's fists tightened. He could hear his heart beating.

But the officer only halted traffic, helped them across, while it was Martha whose knees literally knocked together, who could not summon her breath to thank him.

The way seemed endless. Eighth avenue at last, then Ninth, under the dark elevated, and then, at last, Tenth itself. Bobby breathed easier now. There had been no mishaps, and there was less danger in this neighborhood of being spotted.

The dingy frame building loomed before them at last. Martha examined the address she had written down, to make sure. In all this time she had not spoken. They entered through the unlocked door, climbed up through the gloom with its stale smells, until they were on the third floor. Martha knocked. The door snapped open and Johnny the Hop stood before them.

It was Martha Haley's hour. She heard them praise her, was forced to take the $5 bill Johnny thrust out towards her, and went home in the obscurity with her poor head singing with its one memory of triumph.

Alone with Johnny in the disordered room, with its cheap bed, its ancient washstand and dresser, Bobby looked around.

"So this is where I'm goin' to live?" he inquired.

Johnny shook his head and grinned broadly "Not much! You haven't seen anything yet." He pulled the bed away from the wall quickly, and getting down on his hands and knees, fumbled at the dirty wall. Slowly he pushed up a small panel.

"Just look up there," said Johnny.

Bobby saw a ladder. He climbed it, found himself in a small attic with a mattress and some blankets thrown on the floor. Except for a few magazines and a half smoked pack of cigarets there was nothing in the room. Through a dormer window at the end of the attic the dim moon light struggled through.

"A bootlegger built this nearly five years ago," Johnny explained. "You can lie hid here without anything to worry you."

"I'm goin' to beat them all right!" Bobby declared, as he began to pull off the clothes that hampered him.

"Sure you are, Kid!" Johnny agreed.

Even Biff Myers could not have denied that. There was, however, in the big town of New York, one man who would have said the opposite.

The Girl Who Ran — By N. Florence Leech — Daily Short Story

"OH! Get away! Shoo—shoo!" Lois Coleman cried shrilly, as she scurried across the yard. The old white gander came close behind, emitting angry hisses, his wings half spread to hasten his awkward running.

The screen of the kitchen door slammed behind Lois, and the gander, frustrated, stopped and leered at her knowingly, then gave a final scornful hiss.

"Oh, cricky! Oh, cricky-gee!" laughed Cloud, wiping tears of mirth from his flushed face. "Lois, darling, are you safe?"

"You'd run, too, if a creature like that charged you," she replied indignantly.

Still laughing, Claud entered the kitchen. "I'll mend the fence where the gander got through," he promised, "and you'll get used to the pretty birdies and all the country curiosities in time."

Lois was silent. The honeymoon was over now, but she intended that its mystic silvery radiance should shine on her and Claud forever. Of course she would get used to living in the country. She loved it already—all except that darned gander!

Claud came closer, and apologetically kissed his wife. "Pretty good sprinter, I'll say," he declared, with masculine tact. "What was it you ran from yesterday? Oh, yes, the rainstorm."

"I didn't want my new hat to be ruined," she returned. "You hadn't thought to take an umbrella when we started to church."

"Some runner!" and he held her closely in his strong arms.

"Some protector," she replied, accusingly, but returning his kisses.

Next morning the Coleman's drove to Redford, fifteen miles distant, to see Mr. Barnes, from whom they were buying this farm. About dinner time they returned, Claud distinctly peeved, Lois secretly amused.

"The idea of that old codger insisting on cash," growled Claud.

"He's old and not used to modern business methods," Lois defended.

"But $500 in cash—it's absurd."

"Well, he's coming after it this afternoon. We won't have it here over night, if that's what you are thinking of."

"He's a fool!" Claud said bluntly. "There have been three robberies in this part of the country in a month."

"Let us hope he comes early," Lois said.

But old Mr. Barnes did not come early. He phoned at about 6 o'clock that he was starting, but had had trouble with his car, and would not arrive before 7.

"Incidentally informing everybody between here and Redford that the cash is right here," Claud growled.

"Let's make some ice cream and have it ready for him," suggested Lois. "We want to be friendly, you know."

"Good idea. I'll go get the cows now; want to come along?"

They were gone over half an hour, and Lois set about the preparation of the cream as soon as she returned. Claud expertly separated the milk and carried great foaming pails to the pampered hogs, and poured out a big panfull for the sleek white cat.

The phone rang, a short and two longs. "Cricky!" he exploaded, turning from answering it. "Tim says that heifer of ours is in his corn again."

"Must you go now?" Lois asked, slightly dismayed.

"Won't be gone long, Tim'll help me."

"But—Mr. Barnes."

"He can wait for me. But you'd better keep this pocketbook, I might lose it, threshing through the corn field." Seizing his hat, Claud was gone.

With a feeling of trepidation Lois watched him striding across the yard. Suppose something did happen? She looked out at the pastures, the deep ravine, the strip of woodland, the rustling corn fields. A man might be hidden in any of those places, and seeing Claud leave—she refused to finish the thought.

Instead she poured the junket thickened cream into the freezer, and prepared to pack ice and salt around it. But first she must gather the eggs. She got her egg basket and, being a city girl still, at heart, paused at the sideboard to powder her nose. But her fingers stiffened in midair, as if frozen by an icy breath. Then with both hands she clutched the edge of the sideboard for support, her wide, terrified eyes staring in fascinated horror at which the mirror imaged.

The sideboard stood across one corner of the dining room, and its long mirror reflected one side of the bedroom, including an old-fashioned dresser. The mirror of the dresser, in turn, faced the clothes closet. Its door was half open, and crouching just inside, in a listening attitude, was a man—low, swarthy, heavy-set. He was peering into the dining room, and so did not see her terrified reflection. With fierce, hungry eyes, he was staring at the pocketbook, which she had just placed on the table.

Time seemed to stand still while in imagination Lois saw herself choked into insensibility, perhaps killed. If she could get out of the house without his suspecting, perhaps she could escape and save the money, too! But she must act quickly. Dared she pick up the pocketbook with those evil eyes fastened upon her? Shaking inwardly, she stepped back to the table, picked up the egg basket, and nonchalantly placed the pocketbook in the bottom of it. "I'll take this along while I gather the eggs," she remarked aloud, and laughed.

Out the back door, across the yard, out to the chicken yard beyond. Was he watching? She dared not look back. Around the barn she hurried, and with it between her and the house, climbed awkwardly over the fence, and began to run across the pasture toward the nearest neighbor.

Sobbing with excitement and terror, she stumbled through the high alfalfa. Now the boundary fence. Clumsily over the post, recklessly tearing her silk hose and thin garments on the barbed wire. A glance back. Merciful heavens! The man was following had covered half the distance! But it was not far, now, through the high corn, crouch- so that she was hidden from sight, swerving far to the right, which would put her nearer Reed's house.

Her heart seemed bursting, she seemed to have been hours groping through the corn. Then, suddenly she came in sight of the house.

"Jim Reed," she screamed with her last serve of breath, and fell.

The lanky overalled man at the pump looked up, startled, then ran to her. "What's happened?" he cried, lifting her to her feet.

"Thief — after Claud's money—coming in corn—!" she gasped, then fainted.

"Mamie," shouted Mr. Reed, "bring my gun, and ring the alarm."

Quickly armed, he ran toward the road, knowing that the thief, hearing the alarm bell, would probably attempt to escape that way. Presently the man dodged into view running desperately. As he started down the road a speeding car appeared over the rise. The car and Jim were swooping down on him from one direction, Claud and Tim approaching from the opposite. He wavered an instant, then cut across into the woodlot directly ahead. And here he was presently captured, cursing and reviling his bad luck, and especially the girl who had cleverly escaped him.

The chase ended, Claud hastened to Lois. Tightly he crushed her to him, as though he would never let her go. "Some little sprinter," was all he said in a choked, muffled vocie, but Lois understood and was content.

THE END.

The Film that is found by dental research to discolor teeth and foster serious tooth and gum disorders

Yes, teeth lighten when you remove dangerous film

Film, too, is the source of serious tooth and gum disorders. Dentists urge special film-removing dentifrice.

FOR years thousands thought their teeth naturally discolored and dull. Then they made a simple test that brought a glorious surprise.

Every 9 in 10 found teeth were "off color" merely because a film coat covered them. When it was removed, teeth grew white and sparkling. The special dentifrice called Pepsodent is compounded solely for that purpose.

Film—its dangers

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth dull. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It is the chief cause of the commoner tooth and gum disorders. Film hardens into tartar, germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Film must be removed each day. Ordinary brushing fails to do it successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

First, Pepsodent curdles film, then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago. Or ask your druggist for full-size tube. Find out how white your teeth really are.

FIRM TO DEAL IN CALL MONEY FORMED

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—Formation of the first Call Money Company of America was announced by John H. Allen, president of the American and Foreign Bank Corporation, as an effort to stabilize the call money situation.

Mr. Allen, who formerly was vice president of the National City Bank, announced that the company had been formed with 100,000 shares of no par value stock, all of which had been subscribed.

Calvin A. Owens, originator of the company, said:

"The records for the past six months show that the average yield of call loans has been at the rate slightly in excess of 10 per cent. Unless one was possessed of at least $100,000 in available cash, he was excluded from enjoying this high rate of interest.

"First Call Money Company of America is the first organized effort to stabilize the call money situation and at the same time permit the public to participate."

New Ordinance Sets Rules on Fireworks

Council has affirmed an ordinance regulating the storage and sale of fireworks. The measure supplements an existing law by placing rigid restrictions on the type of building for storage, by increasing the permit fee to dealers from $50 to $100 and by forbidding the sale to any but persons authorized to explode the fireworks.

KONJOLA ENDS FOUR YEARS OF CONSTANT PAIN

Stomach Trouble and Neuritis Had Baffled Every Other Treatment Put to Test.

"What is there about this new Konjola that it triumphs when all other medicines and treatments tried have failed?" This question has been asked times without number by sufferers who, hearing about this master medicine, seek to learn what it means to them in their search for health.

MRS. FILLEMANN

The wonderful story of this wonderful medicine is being told daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, meeting those who are ill and who would get well again. The Konjola Man does not deal in promises, claims, nor boasts. Rather, he points out case after case in which Konjola has conquered. He shows how the 32 ingredients of Konjola—22 of them juices of roots and herbs—penetrate to the very source of the ailment, and give battle to the very causes of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. There is no room for health when organs do not function properly; there is no room for health when the system is filled with unexpelled poisons and impurities. Konjola works quickly in cleansing and invigorating the ailing organs, and soon comes new, abundant and glorious health to take the place of suffering. Learn what Konjola has done for tens of thousands; learn why it is the most talked-of medicine in America. Hear of countless cases like that of Mrs. Fillemann, 305 Beltzhoover Avenue, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"I was ill for four years, and suffered constantly from indigestion, neuritis and my nerves. I was discouraged and disheartened, too, for only disappointment and failure followed by ceaseless attempts to find relief. In fact, I was about ready to give up. No matter how little I ate, it would not digest, and my stomach filled with gas. Bloating and heart palpitation followed, and in this condition a real night's rest was an impossibility. I was so nervous that I was startled by the least unexpected sound. The neuritis in my shoulders not only pained me terribly, but I could not raise my arms to my head.

"My attention was attracted to Konjola by the many sincere indorsements I read in the papers. Surely, I thought to myself, there must be something to this new medicine. Well, Konjola quickly proved to me that there is a lot to it; that there is no medicine like it under the sun. Four bottles of this amazing compound restored my digestion, calmed my nerves and put the neuritis to flight. I can—and do—eat anything I like, and I am feeling better than in years. I indorse Konjola with all my heart and soul."

The records of Konjola fairly overflow with such splendid experiences. It means much to all who suffer that more than a million bottles of Konjola have been sold in four months. Such demand is because Konjola makes good despite what else has failed.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and totally different medicine.

G. O. P. REBELS FORM LEAGUE IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—(AP.)—A permanent organization of independent Republicans, to be known as the Republican League, was formed yesterday at a meeting of more than 300 men and women here.

Thomas Raeburn White, chairman of the Committee of Seventy, was elected chairman of the new organization, and Thomas J. Walker, secretary. It was decided to raise a fund of at least $100,000 and appoint an administrative committee of not less than nine members. The league plans to put a ticket in the field for county and magistrates' offices at the September primary.

Saamuel B. Scott, who acted as temporary chairman of the meeting, predicted "real uprising" of independent voters and declared that the leadership of the Republican city organization had "abdicated" or had become "weak and foolish."

FIGHT AT PRIMARIES

Mr. White, who was nominated for the chairmanship of the league by Charles E. Fox, former district attorney, declared that alleged political interference with the police was responsible for lax law enforcement. He suggested that no fight be made at the general election, but that the result of the primary should be accepted as final insofar as Republican candidates were concerned.

"The control of the Republican party in Philadelphia by those who use it for selfish purposes," said Mr. White, "must be broken before conditions can be substantially bettered, and this can only be done by contests in the primaries.

"The Republican organization is not united. Its leadership is uncertain. Its prestige has been badly damaged by public disclosures of the extent to which it has maintained itself in power by election frauds and by its sinister connection with the criminal underworld. Its power can and will be broken if we but respond to this summons as to a call to arms."

CITIZENS' LEAGUE JOINS

The invitation to the meeting was signed by Mr. Scott, Mr. White, Mr. Fox, former Mayor J. Hampton Moore, Percy H. Clark, Arthur G. Dixon, William D. Disston, Joseph H. Ragedorn, Clarence L. Harper, Arthur H. Lea and Harris S. Morris.

Harry A. Baxter, chairman of the Republican Citizens' League, said his organization would withdraw from the field and merge its activities with the new body.

Pittsburgh-Butler Airport Progresses

BUTLER, Pa., May 1.—The Wimer Contracting Company of Butler began work this week on laying the concrete foundations for two hangars at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport in Penn Township, which is being developed by the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation. Each hangar will be 80x100 feet, with a double lean-to. Trees on the tract are being converted into lumber, after which the ground will be graded. Acreage already seeded is being rolled and placed in condition for landing uses. It is expected to have the field ready for landing by June 1. The tract consists of 410 acres.

'DON'T CHASE 'EM! SHOOT!' BUTLER'S CURE FOR CRIME

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—(INS.)—"Shoot 'em. Stand up and fight.

"Anybody who's running around the streets with a gun in his pocket ought to be shot anyway. Make up your mind to grab a lot of these half-breed bandits and throw them out of town."

That's the advice the fiery Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler offered Philadelphia policemen as a solution for the present bandit problem.

The former safety director and recent commander of the Marine forces in China gave his advice last night at the annual dinner of police, firemen and park guard members of the League of the Sacred Heart. In a typical Butlerian outburst he had praised the police force as among the best in the world. Then came the fireworks.

"You've got a bad mess here," he exploded. "The last I heard of it, it was nine dead cops to no bandits. That's a terrible situation. Shoot 'em. What's the use of catching a bandit with a smoking gun in his hand."

Round after round of applause followed.

EX-KAISER'S KIN IN ROMANCE

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—(AP.)—Romance and business have led Prince Louis Ferdinand, second son of the former Crown Prince of Germany, to live here.

The Prince has been taking flying lessons and announced today that he probably would become associated with the aviation department of the Ford Motor Company.

The other attraction is Lily Damita, motion picture actress, he said. Miss Damita declared that they fell in love in Germany two years ago.

Ferdinand expressed pride in the fact that he had won a degree as doctor of philosophy at the University of Berlin, where he was graduated two months ago.

CUTTING PLANT RAIDED

Federal prohibition agents reported raiding an extensive whisky "cutting" plant at 533 Woodbourne avenue, early today, seizing 31 cases of whisky, two 50-gallon barrels of whisky and three bags of corks.

"Patty" J. McBride, 31, was arrested and held in $1,000 bond before Justice of the Peace W. S. Edwards, of Glenfield, on a charge of violating liquor laws.

Protest Condition Of Bebel Street

Joseph E. Nath has forwarded to Council a letter complaining of the condition of Bebel street.

WOMAN SLEUTH OUTACTS ACTOR; LANDS TRIO IN JAIL

Three self-styled Shakespearean actors police assuced of having included larceny in their repertoire played a command performance before Magistrate Thomas Jones in Central Police Court today.

Three self-styled Shakespearean actors police accused of having included larceny in their repertoire played a command performance before Magistrate Thomas Jones in Central Police Court today.

Charles Pope, of Hartford, Conn., was held for court and his fellow thespians, Robert Montana, 26, of New York, and Jerome Fairbanks, 28, of Chicago, were fined $50 each or 30 days in the workhouse.

Miss Marie Henry, department store detective, testified that Pope approached her in a store yesterday and invited her to make a purchase. Pope was hatless and pleasant, Miss Henry testified, but she did not recognize him as one of her floorwalker acquaintances.

She pleaded indecision, and Pope walked away, she said. Later Miss Henry followed him into Fifth avenue, trailed him to another store and there saw him attempt to carry off a suitcase, she alleged.

Miss Henry called male detectives and they followed Pope to his hotel, where he was arrested. Fairbanks and Montana were arrested in Pope's room.

The three told police they were troupers and had recently played roles in "Hamlet" and "Macbeth," but the present was an off-season for Shakespeare.

MARSHAL CHANG SEEKS REFUGE

TOKIO, May 1.—(AP.)—Press dispatches from Bairen, Linotung (Japanese territory) said that Marshal Chang Tsung Chang, former Shantung war lord, appeared off Port Arthur in a native junk this morning and was prevented from landing by Japanese police. He was in disguise.

The Japanese authorities of the Kwantung leased territory denied the defeated war lord refuge, charging he had abused his former asylum there with his coup in Shantung.

Since Chang Hsueh-Liang has ordered Chang arrested if he enters Manchuria he is now in the position where if he lands anywhere along the Chinese littoral he faces almost certain execution.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Two Important Weddings Scheduled for Early Part of June

ONCE upon a time in "merrie England" the first day of May brought queens of the May and dancing on the green. Today some children, feeling that the initial day of the month of flowers still needs special observation, leave May baskets on the doorsteps of the folks they like the best.

Grown-up folks are more prone to welcome May as a prelude to June, the month of brides. And throughout this month we shall be hearing of most attractive plans for weddings and bridal entertainments.

Early June will bring two remarkably important weddings to the social world. Both the brides-to-be are exceptionally popular members of the younger society set, and, of course, came out here.

THE first of these two girls to be married in June will be Margaret Wallick McClintic, daughter of the Howard Hale McClintics, of Beechwood boulevard, whose engagement to George Hutchinson Love, son of Joseph K. Love, of Johnstown, was announced in February.

Margaret has named Monday, June 3, as the date for her marriage. The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Calvary Episcopal Church.

CATHERINE LONGENECKER, daughter of Mrs. Ralph Longenecker, of St. James street, has named Thursday, June 13, for her marriage to James Bennett Walker, son of the junior Hay Walkers, of Edgeworth. The ceremony will take place in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Catherine's betrothal was made known last summer, in July, I believe.

A REAL "society" audience filled Carnegie Music Hall last night to see the Stage and Play Society's closing performance of the season, and the folks who were there seemed to think that their friends on the stage did excellent work. They did, too—all three plays were presented in a manner that seemed more professional than amateur.

"The Mountains of Bether," written by the president of the society, Carroll Fitzhugh, was presented by a cast including the author and Mrs. George P. Bassett, Jr., Mrs. Percy G. Kammerer, Mrs. Howard J. Burgwin, Honora Kammerer, daughter of Dean and Mrs. Kammerer; James W. Macfarlane and George C. Burgwin, Jr. Mr. Fitzhugh directed the play himself, and Mrs. John H. K. Burgwin "held the book." Essex Dane's "The Wasp," was also presented, those taking part including Mrs. Bennett Oliver, Chester Wallace and George Edward Dickson. This play was directed by Mr. Wallace and Miss Margaret Heckert held the book.

The third play was Arnold Bennett's "A Good Woman," the cast including Mrs. Thomas Mabon, James W. Macfarlane and Alfred E. Smith. Theodore Viehman was the director and the book was held by Miss Eleanor Grier. Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby and Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner were in charge at the door last night.

Between the second and third plays, the annual business meeting was held with Mrs. J. H. K. Burgwin acting as president, and all the officers were re-elected. In addition to Mr. Fitzhugh as president, these include Mrs. Burgwin, Harold Geoghegan, Mrs. Elizabeth Vermorcken and Walter B. Edmundson, vice presidents; Fielder Clark, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Jacoby, assistant secretary and treasurer. Harmar D. Denny, Jr., and C. W. Dahlinger were in charge of the election.

MANY of the debutantes of last winter and the season before, and a few who will come out next season will be out of town this week-end attend the annual spring house party at Princeton.

A few days ago I mentioned four or five girls who were planning to go to Princeton, and now I hear that Nan Bunton, daughter of the C. C. Buntons, who came out season before last, and Rhoda Gamble, daughter of the W. K. Gambles, of Oakmont, who made her bow last winter, also will be guests of the Princeton undergraduates for the house party.

Rhoda spent the latter part of the winter in Miami and Nan in Washington and New York.

G WEBBER BARNES and his daughter, Priscilla Barnes, stopped in New York a few days on their return from Boston, where they went to attend the wedding of Priscilla Rhodes, daughter of Mrs. Fred F. Rhodes, of Boston, and Robert Coburn, of Boston, which took place Saturday in Boston. Priscilla was one of her cousin's bridesmaids.

* * *

THE marriage of Miss Leah Minnie Mathias, daughter of Mrs. D. W. Mathias, and Dr. John Ruben Bailey, both of Pittsburgh, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Mathias, in Mellon street, by the Rev. Dr. George W. Englar, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church. Mrs. George H. Mathias was matron of honor and George H. Mathias was best man. Miss Dolly Hardwig played the wedding music and Marguerite Mathias was flower girl. Only the immediate families were in attendance.

THE marriage of Miss Helen Louise Cousley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cousley, of Dennison avenue, and James Irwin Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Martin, of Wilkinsburg, was solemnized last night at 7:30 o'clock in the Third United Presbyterian Church. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon with a veil of Belgian lace, and she carried Calla lilies. Her sister, Miss Jane Cousley, as maid of honor, appeared in shell pink chiffon, while frocks of spring green chiffon were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Cousley, Miss Elinor Martin, Miss Eleanor Brown and Miss Helen Blackmore. They carried spring flowers. Constance Cole, the flower girl, wore rosebud pink georgette. Dr. H. Bruce Sisler was best man, and the ushers included Stanley Cousley, Robert G. Eckhart, Edwin C. Robinson and Frank H. Fisher. A small reception in the Cousley home followed the ceremony, and later, Mr. and Mrs. Martin left for a Canadian trip. They will be at home here after May 1.

JUDGE and Mrs. William N. Appel, of Lancaster, Pa., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily K. Appel, to Joseph M. Salisbury, of this city.

MISS EDWINA PETTAY is general chairman for the card party to be held Wednesday night, May 22, in the Fort Pitt Hotel by the Alumni Association of St. Mary's Academy. Miss Irene Ferguson is sub-chairman.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE LANGDON BALLOU, of Avalon, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jean Gertrude Ballou, to Lawrence E. Irwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Irwin, of Coraopolis. The engagement was announced at a bridge luncheon given Saturday in McCreery's.

Foster Fund Drive To Be Continued

ALTHOUGH the Tuesday Musical Club's campaign for the Stephen C. Foster Memorial is officially at an end (with more than $150,000 as the closing sum) the work will be carried on until the necessary figure is attained. At the concluding campaign meeting held yesterday in Memorial Hall, Mrs. W. C. Dierks, president of the State Federation of Music Clubs, reported several benefits for the fund proposed by eastern music clubs, plans for which had been detailed to Mrs. Dierks at the state convention in Warren last week.

Tuesday Musical's fortieth anniversary was celebrated yesterday and marked with a reception, a three-tiered candle-lighted cake, a specially prepared program, and a printed souvenir program as the outstanding features. The program was chosen from works that had been given during the four decades of the organization. Mrs. Frank Moore told something of the very earliest days when the club met at Mrs. Christopher L. Magee's home, "The Maples," and sang two songs which she had given during that period. Mrs. Elmer W. Flaccus and Mrs. Charles M. Clarke gave the 1899-09 music, the former singing a contralto group and the latter giving two Chopin numbers. Mrs. Jessie Yuille Yon's soprano group and the two piano compositions of Miss Kathryn Brose completed the short but delightful recital. Mrs. Martha Meyers Murdoch was accompanist.

In the receiving line with the president, Mrs. Will Earhart, were the oldest members and past presidents, including Mrs. C. C. Mellor, Mrs. Christian I. McKee, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, Mrs. Dierks, Mrs. T. C. Donovan, Mrs. Arthur B. Sivlter, Mrs. Edward B. Lee, Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Miss Elizabeth Davison, Mrs. George H. Wilson, Mrs. Henrietta Hibbard and Mrs. Sidney Chalfant. Of these Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Earhart, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Marsh, Miss Davison and Miss Emilie McCreery were chosen to preside at the tea tables, where small candle-lighted cakes and clusters of spring flowers made most attractive decorations.

J. S. TIPPETT will speak on "The Principles of a Progressive School" at the regular monthly meeting of the Colfax Parent Teachers' Association next Tuesday evening. Miss Alice Parker will discuss "The Unleavened Bread" and music will be furnished by the Trumpet Club. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

DEPARTMENTAL and committee meetings of various kinds will make a busy month for Aspinwall Women's Club members. This evening's meeting of the Saturday evening dance hostesses with the other club members will start the round of events. On Friday comes the musical department's annual program, which will be a varied one, under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. W. Munsell. Monday of next week brings the drama department's bridge luncheon at the Food Craft Shop; Tuesday, the literature and arts department's program luncheon and a meeting of the legislative department, at which the Metropolitan Plan Charter will be discussed. An executive board meeting is scheduled for the afternoon of May 13, and a meeting of the evening department on the same date; the home economics luncheon is set for May 14, and the regular club meeting for the sixteenth. For the latter the program will include music and a lecture on "History and Our Lives," by John Gies. The meeting of the choral will be held the night of May 20, and the calendar will be concluded with an important meeting of the school committee, at which election of officers will take place and plans made for a dinner dance.

THE Boys' Welfare League has issued invitations to the associate members and their friends for a musical tea at the home of Mrs. Edwin Ruud, South Graham street, on Thursday afternoon, May 9. Assistants at the tea will be Mrs. C. Elmer Bown, Mrs. Rinehart Mayer, Mrs. E. A. Nisbett, Mrs. C. S. Rush, Mrs. F. M. Timmins, Mrs. W. A. Crawford, Mrs. J. Barry Diven, Mrs. S. A. Martin, Mrs. James D. Holt, Jr., Mrs. R. H. Wilson, Mrs. R. C. Schanck and Miss Alice Rogers Ablett.

NATIONAL PARLEY URGED ON CHURCH UNIFICATION

HARRISBURG, May 1.—(AP.)—Continuation of the efforts to merge all Protestant churches in the state, and the calling of a national conference to discuss unification, was recommended yesterday by the Pennsylvania State Conference on Church Unity.

The conference, representing 18 denominations, adopted the report of its committee on findings, which included the state and national amalgamation recommendations. Others suggested formation of groups in cities, counties and other communities to study the question locally and determine the extent of differences and indorsed the actions of the world conferences on life and work at Stockholm in 1925 and on faith and order at Lausanne in 1927.

Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, the conference represents the second statewide discussion of Protestant churches. The Church Council was commended as "the effective medium through which we may work in solving our common problems and accomplishing our common tasks."

Bishop John C. Ward, of Erie, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, struck the keynote of the meeting when he told the other delegates, "we should proceed slowly to make certain that we don't make any mistakes." The Episcopal Church, he said, favored a united church.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

'Spring Cleaning'

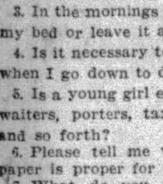
AS LONG as a man confines his conversation to flattery and baby talk, he need never worry about being "misunderstood by a woman.

* * *

At twenty, a man is convinced that he'll begin to decay in about five more years; at forty, he figures that he can relax and begin to LIVE in about five more years.

* * *

Most of a man's "spring cleaning" consists in clearing out the corner of his heart, dusting off his conscience and throwing out last year's flirtations so as to make room for a few brand new ones.



HELEN ROWLAND

In the modern love story the heroine always finds that the most effective way to make a man love her is by ASKING him to. But in real life, men and dreams still "go by contraries" and the surest and quickest way to make any man love you is to ask him NOT to.

* * *

Love may live on hope longer than on gratitude; but it positively thrives and FLOURISHES on a judicious mixture of doubt, curiosity and suspense.

Trying to make some husbands look ornamental in evening clothes is like dolling up bath towels with an embroidered monogram. The word "useful" is written all over them.

The average married man's idea of heaven is probably a place where nobody will call him for breakfast, tidy up his desk or tell him how to drive the car.

When a man marries the right woman it is not his fault. It is just one of those lucky little accidents, which sometimes happens to one, in spite of everything he may do to prevent it.

* * *

A man always hates to admit, even to himself, that late parties, early strawberries and new spring love affairs no longer agree with him.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Her First Trip

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a girl 18 years of age. This summer I am going to take a trip to New York alone. I have planned to make eight stop-overs. As I have never stopped at hotels before, I wonder if you will help me with some questions that occur to me.

1. How should I register at hotels? Should I use the "Miss" before my name, and should I write my first name, too?

2. Is it proper to pay my hotel bill on leaving or on entering a hotel?

3. In the mornings should I make my bed or leave it as it is?

4. Is it necessary to wear a wrap when I go down to dinner?

5. Is a young girl expected to tip waiters, porters, taxicab drivers, and so forth?

6. Please tell me what kind of paper is proper for a girl to use.

7. What do you think of my handwriting? Y.

I SUPPOSE that I am not minding my own business and that I am being over-fussy, but it does surprise me that a girl of such tender years is making such a trip so casually and alone, and especially with so many stops. But if it must be done, do promise me that you will wear every minute a manner of special dignity and reserve and that you will be most circumspect in what you do and say.

1. Yes; use the "Miss" and the first name: Miss Mary Youngiady, Portland, Ore.

2. You pay your hotel bill when you leave, not when you arrive. When you begin to pack, leave word at the desk downstairs (or telephone to the desk) that you wish to have your bill prepared. Then, when you go downstairs, you can pay it. In this way you will save time.

3. Leave your bed for the chambermaid to arrange.

4. No; but you should wear a hat.

5. Yes; these people who serve give just as much service to a guest, no matter what the age, and they naturally expect the same rewards.

6. The conventional two-sheet letter paper of a size proportionate with your handwriting and of white or very light gray, outlined, is best. Never use lined paper.

7. Your handwriting is fair, and when it "jells" it will be excellent. Now it calls for greater care in the formation of the individual letters, notably your r's and e's.

And may happiness accompany you every step of your trip!

Don't Wear Black

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please advise me whether it is proper for a bridesmaid to wear a black evening dress?

2. Also, is it proper for my fiance to choose his unmarried brother for best man or his married brother? I would like to have his married brother's wife as my matron of honor, as she is my best friend, and my fiance is also more friendly with his married brother, but people tell us that it is not proper to have married people for matron of honor and best man. L. B.

IT is not in good form to wear black. Such a lugubrious color seems out of place at a wedding.

2. It is nowadays quite proper, and very customary, to have married people for bridal attendants. Under the circumstances this plan of yours would be ideal.

Pan Pipes the Tune -:- -:- By Madge Geyer

©1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

SPRINGTIME! Lovetime! When all Nature dresses in her newest and best to further the romance that springs eternally to life with the coming of Spring. When Daniel Cupid takes it on himself to masquerade as that adorable Pan whose thin, thrilling song lures all to the altar of Love!

And when he pipes the tune, everyone of his subjects dance. Not, perhaps, literally, but they do dance right onto Love's rosy path and you'll see them, two by two, man and maid, in every adorable spot that Nature has prepared as the setting for Romance.

True, one may sit alone and dream, but her dreams are filled with the song of Pan and she listens fearfully, yet hopefully, wondering if at last Love is coming her way.

Never worry about that, for Mr. Pan Cupid will see to it that you aren't alone in this wonderful Spring time. And when he starts piping the tune, you'll dance to it, every step of the way and love not alone the dancing but the partner who has been chosen for you.

The Prince Wants to Bribe Owen to Keep Silence

MY romantic speculations concerning the emotions of Prince Georges and Princess Olina came to a sudden stop when the young prince halted in his pacing of the room and drew a deep breath as if he had reached a solution of the problem which had been troubling him. With a little whimsical smile upon his lips he clicked his heels and made me a formal little bow.

"I thank you for your room—and your patience," he said. "May I trespass upon both yet farther?"

"You are most welcome to both," I told him cordially.

"Then I would like to talk to this—Mr.—Owen in here for a little," he replied—"alone, if I may."

"No, no," Prince Olina interrupted vehemently. "He is dangerous, that man. Remember, Georges, what he did before! He might—"

He uttered an expressive French expletive and put up a protesting hand.

"His fangs were extracted, you remember," he said, as silenced but patiently unconvinced she shrank back into her chair. "There is no danger—to me—whatever. I do not know that I shall be able to keep from knocking him down if he shows any of his old impudence. Please, do not take that seriously, Mrs. Graham" — he turned to me boyishly. "I shall not turn your library into a prize ring. But if you will take Olina back to the others now, I will ask this —Mr.—Owen—to come in here."

He stooped abruptly, lifted a warning forefinger and slipped noiselessly to the door, swinging it open suddenly upon the rapidly retreating back of Mr. Owen.

"Ah! I thought so," he said, and his voice suddenly was a snarl. But Charles Owen's face, as he swung round and faced us, was imperturbable.

"I was commissioned by the young ladies to find you," he said suavely. "They want a 'Paul Jones,' I believe. But I was about to report a failure. I've been knocking at all the doors, but as there was no answer I thought you were not to be found."

"We will go back to the living room at once," I told him and, slipping my hand through Olina's arm—she had come close to me at her first glimpse of him—I swept past him into the hall. I saw Prince Georges make an imperative gesture and utter a single word in a language I did not know as Mr. Owen fell into step with us, and the man halted as if he had been shot.

"Please to tell them to delay the 'Paul Jones' for a few minutes," Prince Georges said deferentially to me. "Mr.—Owen—and I will join you presently."

He stepped back into the room and the other man followed him. As the door closed, Prince Georges again spoke in the language I did not know, but which I guessed to be Greek, and astonishingly there came a response from Charles Owen in the same language. Then the door closed, and Olina, who had pulled me to a halt, uttered a passionate protest, no less fervent because the men inside the room could not hear her.

"Oh! he must not!" she said. "Georges is not rich enough to bribe him for me."

"How do you know he means to do that?" I asked quietly, although my pulses were pounding with excitement.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Devote This Day to Children's Welfare

ONCE in a while Congress aside from its ordinary performances devotes a few minutes to the discussion of matters having to do with the health of the people. When in one of these happy moods is passed the following resolution:

DR. COPELAND

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States is hereby authorized and requested to issue annually a proclamation setting apart May 1 of each year as Child Health Day and inviting all agencies and organizations interested in child welfare to unite upon that day in the observance of such exercises as will awaken the people of the nation to the fundamental necessity of a year-round program for the protection and development of the health of the nation's children."

By authority of this act of Congress, the President proclaimed Child Health Day this year. May Day, which has always been given to the children, will this year and each year following be observed as National Play Day. Recreation and playground associations and all lovers of children have applied their every effort to make Child Health Day this year the best celebration of the sort we have ever had.

President Hoover has always been interested in children.

He is really the founder of the practice of devoting a day each year to the welfare of the youngsters. If I remember correctly, he is the author of what we call "The Child's Bill of Rights." Just as Mr. Jefferson is the author of the Political Bill of Rights, the present President proposed a national standard for the protection of child life. We shall be happy when there shall be no child in America:

"That has not been born under proper conditions.

"That does not live in hygenic surroundings.

"That ever suffers from undernourishment.

"That does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection.

"That does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health.

"That has not the complete birthright of a sound mind in a sound body.

"That has not the encouragement to express in fullest measure the spirit within which the final endowment of every human being."

I have never failed to be thankful that I was born in the country. There we find the open spaces and room for the many activities so dear to the child's heart. In the city there is a real problem when it comes to recreation and play. Apartment houses and great hotels take all the space that might be given over to ball fields and playgrounds. But there are children problems everywhere and they must be solved.

In every sense the child is the cornerstone of the nation. Unless we can guarantee to our children that the Bill of Rights shall be something more than a proclamation, we have not gone far in solving the problem of the future.

To my mind, good health is fundamental to spirituality, to education, to prosperity, to good citizenship, and to the welfare of the nation. Whatever we can do on Child Health Day to awaken an interest in the physical welfare of the children, will mean that we have done our part to lay broad and deep the foundations of America.

Thursday, May 2

ACCORDING to the lunar aspects for this day it is enjoined that every effort be turned in the direction of safeguarding the employment, averting friction, and placating those in authority. Not only employers, and superiors, but officials, magistrates and others in places of power and position may not be kindly disposed. In other directions there may be singular experiences of moods of exaltation or inspiration, inciting to poetry, music, art, mysticism, or unique gestures of companionship or association.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of fluctuating fortunes, with critical conditions in employment or disagreeable encounters with those in authority, unless they are particularly careful to maintain harmony. In their personal relations there may be peculiar experiences, or else a turning to art, music, poetry or probably mystical reflection or adventure.

A child born on this day is likely to be more given to affairs of culture and inner development than to sordid activities of life, which may find it running counter to the dictates of authority or employers.

Happy the man who sees a God employed in all the good and ill that checker life.—Cowper.

Household Hints

When tieing up pudding, put a pleat in the top of the cloth. This opens out as the pudding swells, and prevents the cloth from splitting and allowing the water to get into the mixture.

A few drops of vinegar added to the water in which eggs are poached will help them to set well. Care must be taken not to put too much, or the eggs will be flavored.

Wash rubber hot-water bottles every two months in water to which a little soda has been added. This prevents them from getting hard or perishing.

For the past four-and-one-half weeks Loew's Aldine Theatre has been showing a new marvel of the living screen that is destined to revolutionize all previous conceptions of the talking picture to amaze and entertain. It has been an honor and a privilege for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company to present to Pittsburgh simultaneous with the New York, Los Angeles and Cleveland showings at $2 a seat—the first All-Talking, All-Singing, All-Dancing drama, "The Broadway Melody." During this presentation, at which more than 285,000 Pittsburghers have been present, the Aldine Theatre management has made no advance in its usual "Loew" prices.

"The Broadway Melody" has caused the sensation predicted in these columns nearly five weeks ago. More than 30,000 Pittsburghers have thought so much of this Wonder Picture they have seen it TWICE!

This picture has broken every record for attendance the city of Pittsburgh has ever known! To do all these things it MUST be GREAT!

We predict again, that a last minute rush to see "The Broadway Melody" will cause a jam at the box office and lobby, the like of which has never been seen before! So HURRY and come early, because

GAME BLOCKED IN EVERY BUC SERIES

REPORTS from St. Louis say that Coburn Jones is already showing improvement at shortstop for the Pittsburgh club since Manager Donie Bush rejoined the outfit there and started in to give the youngster the benefits of his personal coaching. Bush is well-qualified to do that, as the shortfield was his position during his entire playing career. It wasn't because Donie couldn't make a shortstop of Pie Traynor in the spring that Pie was eventually sent back to third base, but because nobody else could be found to take Traynor's place at the hot corner.

Hugh Jennings

Bush learned his own shortstopping stuff from a past master at the job. The late Hugh Jennings, one of the greatest of all time, was manager of the Detroit club when Donie went to the Tigers from Indianapolis in the fall of 1908, and it is what he learned from Jennings that the Pirate skipper is passing along to Jones. Of course, it is still a question if Jones will come through. He doesn't know it all yet, by any means, and there is some doubt as to whether he has the throwing arm required to make long throws successfully from deep short, but if he has the goods there is no doubt that Bush will be able to teach him the trade.

DONIE once told of his own hardships in learning his lessons under Jennings. "During the first four years that I played for Detroit I couldn't do a thing right, and after that I couldn't do anything wrong, so thoroughly did Jennings drill me in everything," he said. "Hughey hounded me every day. He criticized me unmercifully.

"According to Jennings I was the worst fielder that ever played baseball. If I had any success as a ball player I owe it to Hughey. He was hypercritical, but later on I realized that he was doing it all for my own good. His 'riding' developed me, forced me to try to perfect myself in everything that he pointed out to me as having a flaw."

LOU GEHRIG steamed ahead of his team mate, Babe Ruth, in home runs for the season when he cracked out his third four-baser yesterday. Ruth had only two to his credit, up to today. Last year on this date his total was four, but he had played in a larger number of games.

In 1928 Ruth made exactly twice as many homers as Gehrig, 54 to 27. Pittsburgh fans will get a chance to see the famous sluggers in action here on Friday, when the Yankees play an exhibition game at Forbes Field. The leading home-run hitters of the majors after yesterday's game were Lou Blue, of the Browns, and George Harper of the Braves, who turned in their fourth round trippers. Blue led his club in homers last year, with 14. Harper made 19.

Lou Gehrig

THE Pirates have not played through a complete series without being interrupted by the weather man. Yesterday's postponement in St. Louis marked the fourth time the Bucs have been kept idle—once in each series played to date. Unfavorable weather knocked out the fourth game in Chicago, the second contest in Cincinnati, the second event of the series here against the Cubs, and the third number of the St. Louis string yesterday. The Pirates' Mound City postponement was the twenty-ninth of the spring in the big leagues. There have been 17 in the National Lague and 12 in the American.

SOME of the decisions of the New York Boxing Commission ought to be printed among the comic strips instead of in the sport news columns. For instance, that tribunal yesterday refused to designate the Kid Chocolate-Fidel LaBarba bout on May 21 as a bantamweight championship engagement, but at the same time ordered the principals to weigh in at the bantam limit of 118 pounds, and "let matters take their course," hinting broadly that "the winner could gain recognition as bantamweight king if all requirements are met."

Perhaps the commission is keeping an eye open for the best interests of the business end of the game. The New York board will not permit the champion of a class to compete for a title in a heavier division. Andre Routis, featherweight champion, is signed to defend his crown at the Yankee Stadium on August 22, probably against the winner of an elimination bout between Chocolate and Al Singer. If Chocolate were to win the bantamweight championship officially in the meantime the commission could not consistently let him go after the featherweight title against either Singer or Routis and at least one big show would be lost.

SO the safest way is to keep the "Keed" from becoming bantamweight champion by ruling that the title is not at stake on his

COMMISSION NOW RULES SUPREME

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The State Athletic (Boxing) Commission now has the law on its side.

The State Athletic Commission now is bigger, mightier and everything-elser than the Amateur Athletic Union.

For the war for control of amateur boxing in the state is definitely at an end, and the rebellious A. A. U. forces have been knocked dead and counted out.

This, in short, is what the signing of the Wheeler amendment to the McBride boxing law by Gov. Fisher yesterday means.

Henceforth the state boxing law has teeth and it calls for unrestricted domination of the sport, professional, amateur, semi-pro, sandlot, or what have you, by the commission. And anybody defying that law is guilty of a misdemeanor and is liable to a fine of upwards of $5,000.

That ought to settle definitely all quarreling about who is and who isn't boss of the amateur mitt-swingers.

AMATEURS TAXED

And, furthermore, the A. A. U. authorities must fork over the state tax of 5 per cent, the same as the professionals, on all shows to which admissions are charged. This really was the big point of contention between the A. A. U. officials and the commission. The amateurs contended that they could not operate with the 5 per cent cut of the gate going out for tax. Now they'll either operate under the tax or quit. Or they have the option of running the shows on a strictly amateur basis, with no admission being charged, if they wish, which, of course, they will not do.

The fight was ridiculous from the start. In no part of the state except Western Pennsylvania was the issue over the tax raised, nor was the authority of the commision, constituted by law, flouted. In two test amateur shows at Uniontown, backed by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., the commission was defied to interfere and make arrests. Through a weakness in the law as it stood, no penalty was provided for violations of the spirit or the letter of the law, and arrests were impossible, but that has been changed now and there likely will be no further "test cases."

"PERMITS" PROVIDED

The Wheeler amendment, which knocked in the head the Harris amendment, sponsored by the local officials of the A. A. U., which would have taken control of amateur boxing definitely out of the hands of

WESTMINSTER NETTERS TOP DUKES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

The Westminster racquet host, age-old jinx for Grant Siverd's Duquesne varsity netmen, ran true to form on the Bluff courts yesterday and trimmed the Hilltoppers by a 6-1 count. Andy Smeaton, rangy Red and Blue ace, garnered the lone local triumph, his three-set comeback to out-stroke Clark, brilliant visiting number one performer, providing the only bright spot in a disastrous Duke exhibition.

Schaffer, blond New Wilmington driver, grabbed off starring honors of the day, his strong, sound all-around game accounting for Sam Keller, home veteran, and contributing the lion's share of the dynamite that blasted the hopes of the hard-hitting Smeaton duo in the doubles. Robinson and Mansell of the Lawrence Countians likewise participated in a brace of victories apiece, but the exceptionally pretty work of Schaffer was by all odds the feature of the day, with Harry Groezinger, Blue and White newcomer, also copping credit for pulling out a 13-11, 6-3 success over Bullion, Homestead Duke, in a protracted engagement characterized by extremely light stroking.

DUKES RAGGED

The Bluffite doubles combinations fell far below the form displayed against Bethany in the inaugural last week. Ragged team play and decidedly poor judgment and tactics cost both the Smeaton-Smeaton and Collodi-Keller outfits dearly at vital stages of close battles.

Yesterday's tilt was a Tri-State Conference affair and from the tennis flashed by Westminster it would appear not at all improbable that the Blue and White is headed for another title. This afternoon on the Bluff, Capt. Billy O'Loughlin's Duke Preps tangle with Crafton High School, while tomorrow the varsity aggregation will entertain Allegheny College. The summary:

Singles—A. Smeaton, Duquesne, defeated Clark, Westminster, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4; Schaffer, Westminster, defeated Keller, Duquesne, 6-4, 6-3; Robinson, Westminster, defeated Collodi, Duquesne, 1-6, 75, 6-4; Mansell, Westminster, defeated W. Smeaton, Duquesne, 6-4, 6-4. Groezinger, Westminster, defeated Bullion, Duquesne, 13-11, 6-3.

DUKES STAGE GRID FRACAS TODAY

By JESS CARVER.

Spring football practice will be written off the books at Duquesne University this afternoon at a profit with the playing of the annual spring game between the varsity and all-star elevents. This game wouldn't be worth much in the ballyhoo line were it not that Coach Elmer Layden, of the Duke squad; Jimmy Crowley, another former member of the Four Horsemen backfield, and lanky Bob Regan, line coach and one-time Notre Dame guard, will be in the lineup for the all-stars.

Elmer Layden.

The Dukes have been at it for five weeks, the longest period of spring practice ever served a Duquesne gridiron squad. The men have profited by it, for they have gained so much in experience that when fall rolls around the coaches will be able to give the boys advanced work sooner than has been the case in seasons past.

The lineup for the all-stars will not definitely be known much before game time, for, as is the case with most all-star teams, you can't pick 'em till you see who shows up.

SIMMS PROMISING

Young Paul Simms, of Monongahela High School, an all-around track and field star, figures to cut a bit of ice in the annual Tech interscholastics here Saturday.

Simms took one second place in last year's meet, finishing in the runner-up position in the high hurdles to Vance of Greensburg. He didn't get into the finals in any other event in which he was entered.

This year, however, Simms has been showing exceptional form. He has broad jumped further than the winning distance at the Tech meet last spring, which was 19 feet, nine inches. In a triangular meet last Saturday, Simms went 19 feet, 11 inches. He ran the century in this same meet in 10 9-10, which is just 2-10 of a second slower than the winning time made at Tech. He is high jumping well and cleared five feet, 6 inches last week. This height should win him a place on Saturday.

EXPECT BIG ENTRY

Tech officials are planning to handle an entry list of 1,000 on Saturday. A number of last year's winners will be back seeking to retain their laurels, with a host of younger stars primed to take over the spotlight.

Following is a list of last year's victors, their times and measurements:

LARRY FRENCH EXPLAINS BLUNDER

By Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Far from being sour on Larry French on account of his streak of wildness in the eighth inning of Monday's game, Manager Bush today had a compliment for the youngster. Bush, of course, did not miss the exemplary work shown by the Coast League star, after he entered the contest. Larry saw runners on third and first with only one out and Frisch and Bottomley due to swing, when he entered the game. He made Frisch pop up and fanned Bottomley. On Bottomley's next visit to the barrier there was a runner on third and he fanned him again. When Bottomley came up for the third duel with French he had two strikes and three balls, the next pitch being inside for a ball. A lot of Buccos think Jim might have whiffed again had the recruit caught a piece of the plate with the offering. Three were on at the moment.

French today explained his move in throwing Mitchell's bunt to second base with the idea of nailing Wilson, the head man. His idea was good, but the inexperience of the boy put him in a hole.

EXPLAINS MORE

"I did not know that Wilson was such a good base runner as I never saw him play ball before," said Larry. "As a rule one can generally force a catcher or a pitcher on a bunt and that was my feeling when I dashed in for the ball. I lost no time, but Wilson beat the toss. Jimmy showed me plenty as a base runner in that one round. I thought he was going to try to steal home after he reached third when he made a wild dash up the line as I prepared to pitch."

French is entirely right about Wilson's base running skill. If Jimmy had swiped the plate it would be the first time. He runs the sacks like a star, he being exceptionally

Lou Brown New Manager of Jack Zivic

Jack Zivic is going back to New York for a manager.

The former bearcat of the local welterweight boxers recently began training for a comeback campaign after a layoff since last June and with his long-time friend, Byron Foutts, of Midland, acting as his manager. The pair received many offers for Jack's services, but none of them approached the figures Zivic figured his record of achievement rated, so he turned down all of them with the exception of one with Dick Ramies at Canton, O., recently. The best offer received from any of the promoters was for $750.

Jack and Byron talked the situation over a few days ago and came to the conclusion that what Jack needed if he was to get back in the big money again was to resume a New York connection, and to this end they negotiated an arrangement with Lou Brown, of New York, formerly associated with Jimmy Bronson in the management of Jack, whereby Brown will handle Jack's fistic affairs in the future. Jack and Byron part on the friendliest of terms, with Byron's only thought that of not standing in Jack's way to bigger and better purses.

The betting on Mr. Jinks was 5 to 2, on Cragadour, 4 to 1, and on Gay Day, 20 to 1.

BUCS READY FOR OFFERINGS OF SHERDEL

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—With the four western contenders all on edge for the impending invasion of the East, the National League race, with the arrival of May, may be said to be almost ideal. The Pirates and Cardinals today discussed the healthy condition in the Heydler circuit, Pie Traynor, Pirate captain, sounding the proper note as he commented on the situation:

Pie Traynor

"The play of the Braves and Phillies since the season started has made the race a corker," remarked Traynor. "Lots of people feared that the Giants would be able to get one of their running starts, but the two clubs picked for the last position have kicked in with a surprise that is bound to have a good effect on the league."

Traynor's comment is timely. Pie seems to think that a whole flock of teams will be in the running over a long stretch in view of the present condition. In a few days the first intersectional battles will be under way and the fortunes of the western teams as they invade the seaboard will be watched with unusual interest.

Instead of being out in front with a commanding lead, the Giants, reckoned as the only flag contender in their section, are right at the .500 mark of mediocrity after taking part in eight battles.

Ol' Dazmarine hung a nice shanty on the rivals' eye yesterday and the Braves showed Dazzy how to go about it as they engaged the men of McGraw earlier.

TRIBE SURPRISES

If they didn't know better from reading the daily papers, a lot of fans might think the standings were up-side-down after glancing at the position of the lowly Braves. Winning seven of their first nine games, the Tribe is to be complimented and the Bushwhackers wish to be among those tendering the congratulations.

The Cubs and Cardinals this morning were in a deadlock for second place with seven successes and four setbacks each, with the Giants in the fourth place and the Reds right below New York. The sixth notch shows a deadlock featuring the boys from the grand old Keystone State. The Pirates and Quakers each have dropped six, while winning four. That's all right for Philadelphia, but perish the thought when you refer to Pittsburgh. We cannot afford to get onto the same social level with our eastern contemporaries. Something will have to be done about this, and the Pirates are making plans in that direction right now.

The Dodgers are in the cellar, but Vance yesterday showed them a good way to get out of the coal hole. In all events, the standing of the teams after two weeks of interrupted play holds a big promise for the future.

EAST NEXT

The Pirates will begin their big excursion in Boston Saturday. The Freebooters will hustle home from St. Louis immediately after tomorrow's game here. With them on a special train will be the Redbirds, who will be on their way east. The two clubs will stop in Pittsburgh tomorrow for a single contest, the Cards to continue on their way, while the Pirates remain at home on Friday to take on the Yankees in an appealing exhibition game featuring Babe Ruth and the rest of the world champions.

At the conclusion of the scrap with the Yankees, the Buccos will hustle to Boston, they being set to make their bow at the Hub on Saturday afternoon. The first Sunday game to be participated in by the Pirates in that city will be staged on the following day.

The visits of the Pirates to Boston in recent years have been drab to some extent, but everything is changed now, what with Johnny Evers, Rabbit Maranville, Hank Gowdy and others wearing the spangles of the Boston entry. Provided the weather is good, the Pi-

ARMSTRONG NINE APPEARS FORMIDABLE

By TOM BIRKS

Lining up the best sandlot talent on the low-grade side of the Allegheny River, the Armstrongs of Cheswick loom as formidable contenders for the West Penn League pennant, which race starts next Tuesday when Universal and North Bessemer clash at the latter's grounds.

The club that Armstrong is sponsoring will not swing into action until Thursday, when the Cheswicks cross the Hulton Bridge to Community Field to clash with Bill Bright's Verona club.

NEW CATCHER

At the present, Armstrong figures on starting the league race with Osman, Adamsen, Charley Murray and George Fiering playing leading roles in the infield. In the outfield, Jim Lockerman, Howard Lockerman, Martin Osmann, Yeager, a new man, and Tommy Bruner will fight it out for the three positions.

Clifford Marcy, a new man to Allegheny Valley baseball, will be the first string catcher, and Jimmy Armstrong and Demoore will help in the receiving end. The only pitchers left from last year's squad are Jake Ring and Saigers. It is expected the Temple boys will be available again. These brothers, the only two Pittsburghers on the squad, are expected to show up-river fans a lot of stuff.

BIG CARD PARTY

Next Tuesday evening is the date set by St. John's City League club for the big dance and card party at Joseph's Garden, Pearl and Liberty avenues. Thomas Mooney, president of the club, is general chairman of the affair, and several committees have been formed by Bill McGrady.

The dance committee will include Charles Winsel and Bill Nolan. W. A. Welsh will have charge of the card arrangements. The genial secretary, Ray Kennedy, will be in charge of prizes and refreshments. R. Goodendorf and C. J. Burns will oversee the bingo game.

All of the ball players will serve on various committee. With splendid prizes donated by friends of the club, sandlotters and their guests taking in the affair, should have an enjoyable time. The committees will be on hand at 8 o'clock to welcome everyone, so sandlotters looking for an enjoyable time Tuesday evening should drop in at St. John's party. Everybody is invited.

CLAIRTON ORGANIZED

The Clairton Steel Works nine again has organized for this season. It will represent the Monongahela Valley with a good club. Clairton wishes to book games with the leading clubs of the tri-state district. Managers wishing to book this attraction write Finley Gillingham, 803 Vankirk street, Clairton, Pa.

A twilight league, composed of four teams, will open a schedule May 28, and a junior league of six clubs will open May 13. The winner will be taken to Forbes Field to see the National Leaguers in action. Clubs wishing to book the Y. M. C. A. team should write Halley Willison, at Sewickley 668-W.

Being entered in the Pittsburgh Central League, the Soho Board of Trade is rounding into shape, and Manager Hornyak is booking a big independent schedule around his league games. Soho wants to meet the best clubs in the tri-state district. For games write John Hornyak, 2 Seneca street, or call Grant 0304-R, in the evenings.

BOXING LAW GIVEN TEETH

the commission, yields little to the A. A. U. moguls. Under its terms, all amateur as well as professional shows must be sanctioned by the commission. This applies even to smokers and benefits. A concession is made, however, which relieves the amateurs of the onus of paying for licenses for such shows. A distinction is made for their benefit between licenses and permits. Whereas a professional club must pay for a license to operate, a "permit," for which no fee is exacted, is granted the amateur clubs staging shows or tournaments.

Another concession is that the amateurs do not necessarily have to use referees who are licensed with the commission. Their own officials, if capable and offering their services gratis, are given permits, but if they receive any money whatsoever for their work they must pay $25 to the commission and become licensed the same as the referees who handle professional bouts. In other words, the commission is going to make the officials as well as the contestants in amateur shows be amateurs in the strict sense of the word, since the A. A. U., in the midst of the heated battle before the Wheeler bill was passed in the Legislature, claimed its clubs could not afford to pay referees for their services and for this reason objected to being forced to use commission referees.

BOND INCREASED

Another provision of the Wheeler amendment is that professional clubs hereafter must post a minimum bond of $3,000 instead of only $1,000 to guarantee their integrity. This rule is not retroactive and clubs now licensed will not have to post new bonds until their old ones expire.

Still another provision empowers referees to order held up the entire purses of boxers whose work is unsatisfactory in bouts, pending a hearing by the commission. In the past the law was so worded as to read that the referees could order withheld any part of the boxers' purses as a fine.

The gist of the law as it now stands is that (and this is for the information of everybody, promoters, boxers, managers and fans) no boxing gloves may swish through the air anywhere in the state without the consent of the commission. There will be no bootlegging of battles, either amateur or professional, without punishment following. The commission's rule is absolute, which is as it should be, or there would be no excuse for having a commission. All applications for either licenses or permits to stage bouts must be made to the offices of the commission and will be immediately acted upon.

LAW STRENGTHENED

Havey J. Boyle, who is a member of the staff of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, is the Western Pennsylvania member of the commission. He recently was reappointed for a new term and is the only member of the original commission named by former Gov. Pinchot in October, 1923, still on the job. The McBride law was signed by Pinchot in June, 1923, and became effective December 21 of that year. The Wheeler amendment act marks the first changes in the original code and merely strengthens its weak spots and places the commission in an impregnable position by giving it, for the first time, real authority through rendering any violation of the law, by amateurs as well as professionals, a misdemeanor punishable by arrest and fine.

Incidentally, the attorney general of New York State a few days ago ruled in favor of the commission of that state against the amateur authorities in a controversy almost identical to the one that has just been threshed out in Pennsylvania with the signing of the Wheeler amendment.

WALTER PALMER

This Negro heavyweight, who also is known as Pedlar Palmer, being thus tagged after the old English fighter, is now located in Pittsburgh, training at Flynn's gymnasium, and will box here under the management of Luke Carney. He has boxed all over the country and recently knocked out Roleaux Saguero, the Cuban southpaw, of Chicago, at Columbus, O.

rates expect to be greeted by banner crowds.

RAINED OUT

It is no secret to state that the Bucs think they will hit their stride on the coming jaunt, the players feeling they will return to Pittsburgh with mere games won than lost. Well, it's a nice thing to dwell on, anyhow.

But before that trip begins, the Buccos realize they have two important games with the Redbirds on their hands, one of them being set for this afternoon at Sportsman's Park. The Cardinals and Pirates were rained out yesterday, but they will make an attempt to stage the final game of the series before heading for Pittsburgh.

Carmen Hill and Wee Willie Sherdel are slated to mix in the last clash. The spectacled righthander from Corry and the little southpaw from Hanover had the slab tickets yesterday and the assignments are likely to hold over, at least it will be this way on the Pittsburgh side as Manager Bush stated today that Hill will perform.

That the "rubber" scrap will be exciting goes without saying. The members of both clubs appear to feel that these early games will have an important bearing on the positions of the flag contenders in late September and with that thought in view there will be no foolin'.

M'DONALD TO PITCH

Manager Posey of the Homestead Grays has definitely decided to send Webster McDonald, his sweet pitcher, to the mound when the Grays inaugurate the American Negro League season at Forbes Field Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Followers of the Grays will doubtless get a great kick out of this announcement as McDonald has proved to be the most popular player Posey has acquired since "Smoky Joe" Williams was obtained five years back.

The Carnegie Tech Plebe net squad nosed out Peabody High School in a warm tussle on the Plaid rectangles yesterday afternoon, the four singles contests being divided evenly and the decision going to the Tartans only after a bitterly-fought extra-set doubles joust. The summary:

Lott Aids Chicago Cop Net Match

CHICAGO, May 1.—(AP.)—George Lott, third ranking tennis player of the United States, making his first start as a member of the University of Chicago team, helped the Maroons yesterday to defeat Northwestern, eight matches to one.

In his singles match, Lott smothered Northwestern's ranking star, Riel, by racing through two sets, winning 6-0, 6-0. Lott and his partner also won their doubles match with ease.

ANOTHER FOR PAUL

NEW YORK, May 1.—(INS.)—Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight boxing champion, has made good in his first two starts as a professional wrestler. He scored his second victory in Brooklyn last night by throwing George Zaharis, of Greece, with a wrist lock in 22 minutes 21 seconds.

MACKS, GIANTS, CUBS, TIGERS BEATEN

By LES CONKLIN.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The big league sluggers have broken out with a violent attack of the home run rash again, yesterday's 14 circuit clouts bringing the April total for both leagues up to 96.

George Harper, of the Boston Braves, is setting the pace in the National League with four homers, and Lu Blue, of the St. Louis Browns, the leader in the American League derby, has the same number. Incidentally the batting of these two veterans has been an important factor in the ascent of their respective teams to first place.

Five of yesterday's homers were made in the Baker bowl bandbox as the Braves outslugged the Phillies in a 14-to-12 nightmare. Four more were hit in the St. Louis-Detroit game, the Browns winning, 6 to 5, and jumping to first place. In this game Emil Yde, the deceptive Dane who once pitched for Pittsburgh, was knocked out of the box by the Browns.

GEHRIG HITS THIRD

Gehrig's third homer of the season featured the Yankees' 10-to-3 victory over Washington, a typical Yankee slugging match that lasted 10 innings. Fred Heimach, relief pitcher, won his own game with a double.

Rogers Hornsby hit his third homer for the Cubs, but the Bruins were nosed out in the tenth, 5 to 4, on a wallop by Pinch Hitter Joe Stripp. Jakie May and Sheriff Blake did the throwing.

In sharp contrast to these slugging bees was the New York-Brooklyn contest, in which Dazzy Vance, of the Robins, strikeout king of the National League, won a 2-to-0 decision over Billy Walker and Dutch Henry. New York got only three hits and Brooklyn four. Gilbert drove in Brooklyn's runs.

MORRIS IN FORM

Another fine pitching performance was contributed by big Ed Morris, of the Red Sox, who held the Athletics to four hits, one a homer by Simmons, and won, 4 to 1. Earnshaw was the losing twirler.

You pay for KELLYS—
why not have KELLYS?

SOME people buy "mail order" tires under the impression that they are saving money. Others buy Kelly-Springfields—and don't have to pay any more for them.

Contrary to general belief, Kelly-Springfield tires are not high-priced. Their reputation has given many people the idea that because Kellys are so good they must cost more.

If you'll drop in and see us the next time you are in the neighborhood, we believe you'll be surprised to learn how Kelly prices run.

Besides, we can make you a trade-in allowance on your present tires—and put the new ones on for you.

When you can buy the best for the same price, why be content with less?

SYRACUSE SOLD

SYRACUSE, May 1.—(AP.)—Joe Lechich, of Utica, and P. H. Jergensen, formerly of Syracuse and now in the hotel business in Miami, Fla., yesterday purchased the Syracuse franchise from the New York-Pennsylvania League, which bought it at a bankruptcy sale recently. They will operate the club here and keep Kaiser Wilhelm as manager.

BOUT FRIDAY BUCK'S FIRST 10-ROUNDER

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, will be making his first appearance in a bout of more than six rounds when he makes his main bout debut against Mickey Solmen, classy and hard-hitting welterweight, of New Castle, Pa., in the Moose Temple Friday night, but he is not worried about his ability to go the route.

Speaking today about the battle, Buck said he felt better at the finish of each of his last three bouts than at any other stage and he was confident he would have no difficulty travelling the windup distance. He is training daily in Flynn's gym with a string of sparring partners and going on the road each morning. Solmen is toiling just as diligently at New Castle, where he has a fine stable of boxers with whom to spar.

A recent six-round bout between McTiernan and Solmen, at Motor Square Garden, resulted in a draw.

IOVINO NOT DISQUALIFIED

Johnny Ray, manager of Al Iovino, of Swissvale, denies reports from Steubenville, O., that both Iovino and Bobby Burns were disqualified in their bout there Monday night. "Burns was disqualified for stalling after Iovino had floored him," Ray said, "but Iovino received his purse and $10 extra for his good efforts and will box back there again within a few weeks."

Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, who boxes Steve Smith, of Bridgeport, Conn., in the 10-round windup of the opening show in the Meyers Brothers bowl, in North Braddock, May 20, is one of the busiest topnotchers in the ring these days. He bested Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, in a hard-fought bout at Philadelphia last Monday night and next Monday boxes Petey Mack at the St. Nicholas Arena in New York. He will rest up after the latter bout until he goes into training for the fuss with Smith, who already has given him two stirring bouts and recently defeated Andy Martin at New Castle.

ZABISH AT JOHNSTOWN

Young Zabish, of Beltzhoover, who has been going great guns in his comeback campaign, has been signed by his manager, Mike Harding, for another 10-round main bout, to be fought at the Point Stadium, Johnstown, May 23. His opponent will be Al Rammey, of New York, a stablemate of Max Schmeling. Andy Stahura, of Braddock, and Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, will box in one of the six-round preliminaries.

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Al Leary, of Philadelphia, will headline a boxing show in the Smith Theater, Barnesboro, Pa., tomorrow night. In other bouts on the card, Eddie Mack will oppose Joe Trippe. Battling Lennie will meet Mickey Dowtock, Joe Hipps will box Bob Bamfield and George Eleas will sock with Al Spiegg.

One of the finest games of the local scholastic baseball season yesterday saw Westinghouse taking the measure of Allegheny Vocational High, 5 to 2, in a Section 1 contest. Misplays and mediocre support behind the excellent hurling of Bobby Sproul proved costly for the North Siders.

The little southpaw pitcher, who wore Schenley High's uniform last season, worked splendidly for Vocational, but to no avail. In seven innings Bobby struck out 12 Silver Lakers, but five errors, of which four were wild throws, made his effective mound work go for naught.

In other games, Schenley walked away with Fifth Avenue High, trampling the downtowners under an 11-to-3 score. Six runs in the first frame virtually settled the issue in favor of the Bellefielders. Ralston High was no match for Peabody in the third Section 1 embroglio, losing by an 8-1 count to the East Enders.

The one Section 2 game of the day saw Oliver High and Langley battling to a 9-6 outcome, with the North Siders on the bright end of the tally. It was Pinky Freeland who set down the Corless Station outfit, his superb form in the pinches swaying the battle in his team's direction.

YOUGHIOGHENY OPENS MAY 11

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The Youghiogheny Country Club announces it will officially open the season on Saturday, May 11, with a varied program of golf and social activity. The McKeesport club's golf links are in splendid shape, Tom Bennett, veteran and popular professional there, reports.

Medal play events at 18 holes each have been scheduled at Youghiogheny for its opening day. Cards and refreshments for the ladies will be on the books for the afternoon from 2 o'clock until 4:30.

A dinner dance will be held in the evening, and Frank Ward's orchestra will provide the music. Reservations for the dinner must be made on or before Thursday, May 9.

Merle Mesta, Pittsburgh Field Club golfer (or what have you?) plans on playing with a five foursome at the South Hills Country Club tomorrow afternoon. George Abdou is to be one of the favored members.

Jack Dillon won the first Hotel, club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association tournament. And now the boys are blaming it on the official handicapper—who was John Dillon.

C. C. C. (Three-C) Stotler, popular Stanton Heights player, more than likely will be getting the Real Estate gang together one of these days to outline several tournaments.

Hayden Gentry, Buddy Overend's little pal, is said to have gone down to Baltimore to visit the "folks" on a little vacation, and, while he's there, to get in a few rounds at his favorite course—Sherwood Forrest.

Steel B. St. Clair of the Latrobe Country Club made a hole-in-one on the second hole of that club's links recently while playing with D. T. Sipe, B. B. Boyd and John Howard, Jr.

SHERROD VICTOR

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 1.—(AP.)—Johnny Sherrod, 157, of Chicago, won a newspaper decision from Shuffle Callahan, 156¼, Chicago, in an eight-round no-decision bout here last night.

AURORA OPENER OFF; STRIKE UNSETTLED

AURORA, Ill., May 1.—(AP.)—The opening day's program of the Illinois racing season, scheduled to open today at the Aurora track, was definitely called off late yesterday because of a strike of turfmen.

Clifford I. Trimble, general manager of the track, announced the postponement. He said, however, that he expected differences would be settled in time for an opening program tomorrow. The turfmen demanded that the purses for each race be raised from $800 to $1,000. The horsemen also demanded that the management deduct 1 per cent of the winning purses and place the amount to the credit of the Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association.

The strike was called by L. D. Jones, secretary of the Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association. Jones called a similar strike at Hawthorne and also at Tia Juana last season. In both cases the strike failed.

The Aurora program calls for six purses at $800 and one for $1,000 daily.

General Manager Trimble said he could not afford to raise the purses, and that the horsemen had shipped their horses to Aurora knowing the amount of money to be offered for each race.

bout with LaBarba. It strikes outsiders that the New York Commission might help the game more by devoting less time to handing down joke decisions and paying more attention to protecting ring patrons from such absurd matches as that between Chocolate and Tommy Ryan, pulled off at the Broadway Arena Monday night.

Ryan, as everyone knew, was no match for Chocolate, and lasted less than two minutes. If a promoter in this region had attempted to stage such a match he would have been lucky to escape arrest.

Henry Canby

THE Penn and Drake relay carnivals each with six of the best records, have won early season honors in a big track and field way, honors which the Ohio State carnival, scheduled for Friday and Saturday of this week in Columbus may take over. There have been five big track and field events staged so far in the East, Middle West and South. The Georgia Tech and Texas relays are the big southern carnivals, though the Tech meet does not come up to the three other affairs in class or caliber of entrants. In the Middle West, the Kansas and Drake meets have attracted the big and "de luxe" entries, and in the East, the feature has been the annual University of Pennsylvania Relays.

IN a total of 19 events, 16 of which have been on the program at all four of the larger carnivals (at Penn, Drake, Texas and Kansas) Penn and Drake have carried away six best marks each. Texas is next in line with five and Kansas brings up the rear with two. Drake took honors in the college mile relay; the 480-yard hurdle shuttle relay; the university distance medley relay; the 880-yard college relay; the discus throw and the college sprint medley relay.

Compared with Penn, Drake had seven best marks to the eastern meet's nine. Penn winners were high in the century dash, the two-mile university team relay, the 880-yard university relay, the pole vault, the high jump and the hammer throw. In several other events, only a fraction of a second difference in time was noted between the Penn winner and the victor in the same race at Drake.

TEXAS, with its five high marks, leads in the 120-yard high hurdles; the four-mile university relay, the university mile relay, the javelin throw and the shot put. Kansas' two best marks were set in the 440-yard university relay and in the broad jump.

In all of these competitions the East took a terrific licking, placing men in only four of the 19 first places. That is something that is not to be laughed off by eastern college athletes. There does not appear to be a really good relay team of any description east of Columbus.

Vic Pickard

FOUR of the 19 best marks are held by Illinois, Ohio State, Chicago and the Kansas Teachers hold two each and the remaining nine are held singly. No one athlete holds any two records. It is possible that a dozen or so of these marks will be shattered at Columbus this week. About the only records that stand a good chance of holding up are those for the shuttle relay and the discus. With most of the present leaders entered at Columbus, along with several stars who have not yet struck their strides, marks may fall like fall leaves this week-end.

HENRY CANBY, Iowa's fine vaulter, Warne of Northwestern, McAtee of Michigan Aggies, and Vic Pickard, of Pitt, will all set sail for the Pitt star's carnival record in the vault, which is 13 feet. Pickard set this record in 1927, clearning the height in his first attempt and without removing his sweat trousers or jersey. On his next jump, in which he tried for 13 feet 6 inches, he suffered a severe strained back and was not able to clear 13 feet again that year.

At least the Ohio carnival bids fair to break up the 6-6 tie now existing between Penn and Drake by copping as many firsts, and taking away several now held by one or other of the two carnivals named.

DAZZY VANCE hung up his second victory of the season and thus produced exhibit B toward proving that he is worth his $25,000 salary by shutting out the Giants yesterday with only three hits. Guy Bush, of the Cubs, is the only other major league hurler who has pitched a three-hit game this year.

Ed Morris, of the Red Sox, yesterday joined the list of flingers who have turned in four-hit games. The others are Sammy Gray, Ted Lyons and George Uhle. Meanwhile things were breaking the other way yesterday for another chucker whom Pittsburghers are watching with interest. After shutting out Cleveland in his first start, Emil Yde, former Pirate, with the Tigers, was hammered off the hill by the Browns in the third inning of his second venture.

INEXPERIENCE IS COSTLY

fast for a receiver. Nevertheless, Donie Bush has a catcher who can outrun him in Rolly Hemsley. The Pirates would back Hemsley in a match with any catcher, including Mickey Cochrane.

Burleigh Grimes may be able to pitch by Saturday or Sunday, although his thumb last night was giving him the dickens. Grimes will not lose the nail, but the spot is very tender and sore. As the thumb is a very important part of the pitching hand, he will have to give it the benefit of the doubt as regards rest.

Burleigh will hardly miss more than one turn on the slab as a result of his injury. He is in good shape every other way. Other veterans are beginning to look better, by the way. Jess Petty was in fine fettle as he turned back the Redbirds in the opener here, while French was great in spots. It would not be surprising to see Manager Bush start the youngster before the race progresses far. Bush likes his aggressive spirit.

Millions of smokers say, "I'd rather have a Chesterfield"—for that one reason.

They know little about the millions of pounds of choice tobaccos put away to age... they know nothing of Chesterfield's CROSS-BLENDING method... but they do know how Chesterfields taste!

And rightly enough, taste is the one thing smokers want!

WEARY advertisers, tired of hearing "I got it all" and "I got as much as he" solicitations, may find a ray of light in this brief discussion of when is a blanket not a blanket in its relation to newspaper coverage.

On our left is an advertisement of the Pittsburgh Press that covers a great deal of territory. Below it are a couple of charts on circulation percentages of Pittsburgh's two evening and Sunday newspapers. Somebody's wrong!

"One newspaper—the Pittsburgh Press—blankets the great Pittsburgh market—" Fine, if it were not for the fact that about half the market is left out in the cold.

"The Press has overwhelming leadership." May we be so bold as to ask, in what? Is 53% of the evening circulation overwhelming, or 45% on Sunday, anything to brag about for a newspaper that once had the lead, and lost it to a competitor less than two years old?

The daily Press and Sun-Telegraph are pretty close to even. The Sunday Sun-Telegraph is so far ahead of the Sunday Press there is no comparison. Circulation statements, published by both papers, prove that. And they can't be juggled.

It's the privilege of the Press, if it wants to, to take a "That's my story and I'll stick to it" attitude. But advertisers when investing their hard earned dollars should insist on facts rather than fiction.

POOL REVIVAL LIFTS STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, May 1. (AP.) — Easing credit conditions and favorable trade news provided the background for another broad advance in prices in today's stock market. Revival of pool activity, and a new period expansion in public participation, was reflected in an increased volume of trading. Extreme gains in the active issues were from 2 to nearly 16 points, with at least 30 stocks pushed to new high levels for the year.

Call money renewed at 11 per cent, as against 14 yesterday, and dropped to 10 around midday. There appeared to be a plentiful supply of funds at the lower figure, and the rate is expected to work lower within the next few days. There was no quotable change in time money and commercial paper rates although an easier undertone was apparent.

RUMELY BREAKS

The market was temporarily unsettled after mid-day by a break in the Advance Rumely issues, which recently have been soaring to new high records under what appeared to be pool manipulation. The common broke from an early high of 102 to 97¾ and the preferred from 119 to 108½ before sufficient buying support was forthcoming to stem the tide of selling. International Telephone and American Telephone each fell back about 4 points, Union Tank Car 3½ and Corn Products 2, but all rallied.

The weekly steel trade reviews continued optimistic in character. Iron Age states that "despite record shipments, the inflow of steel business shows little reduction in volume, pointing to well sustained mill operations through most of the remainder of the quarter." United States Steel common apparently had discounted the record-breaking first quarter peace time report, and failed to make much headway.

Violent fluctuations were resumed in the United Aircraft issues, the common soaring 15½ points to a new peak at 162 and then dropping to 153¼. Union Carbide soared more than 10 points to a new high above 255.

Motor Accessory shares again gave one of the most impressive demonstration of group strength. New high records in that group were established by American Bosch Magneto, Borg Warner, Murray Corporation, Stromberg Carburetor, Wilcox Rich A and B, and Electric Auto Lite, most of the gains running around 5 points.

Other issues to sell at new top prices for the year were Columbia Carbon, Mathieson Alkali, Commercial Solvents, Marmon Motors, International Business Machine, Electric Power and Light and Air Reduction.

RADIO HEAVILY BOUGHT

Radio was heavily bought, running up six points in the early afternoon to 109¾, duplicating the year's high. Revival of activity in Willys-Overland was associated with reports that new interests were buying into the company. Wall Street also heard that the Childs Company was acquiring the Waldorf System, the common stock of the latter touching a new high.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 1.—Despite big deliveries on May wheat contracts both here and at Liverpool, wheat values today developed firmness in the early dealings. May deliveries in Chicago totaled about 6,000,000 bushels and were also of record volume at Liverpool, but went into strong hands. Opening unchanged to ⅞c off, Chicago wheat later scored gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting unchanged to ⅞c off, and subsequently holding near the initial figures.

Helping to promote firmness, which showed itself at times in the wheat market, were assertions by a Chicago trade authority that if the Senate acted favorably on the farm relief bill it may be the first step toward world-wide agrarian relief movements, which will affect Argentina, Australia and other important agricultural countries. Forecasts of frosts tonight in Kansas, Nebraska and various other states tended further to give an incentive to wheat buyers.

Complaints of seeding delays to spring wheat in the American Northwest also were current today. North Dakota advices said that owing to wet weather, only about 30 per cent of wheat has been seeded in the Red River valley compared with a year ago. Crop advices today from Hungary and Jugo-Slavia likewise were unfavorable.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 1.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 8 to 16 points, which was considered only a partial response to weakness in Liverpool. Liquidation or reselling by recent buyers appeared together with considerable selling against purchases in Liverpool by both local and foreign houses, but the offerings were not heavy, and after showing net losses of 17 to 25 points, prices steadied on trade buying and covering. By the end of the first half hour July had rallied from 18.26 to 18.44 and December from 18.61 to 18.75, but the market was still rather nervous and unsettled, with fluctuations irregular. Private cables reported heavy continental and Bombay liquidation in Liverpool and tenders of 17,000 bales on May contracts there.

The weekly weather report was referred to by some traders as a standoff. Others considered it slightly bullish and there was some buying on rain reports from the South. While the failure of the early break to go further promoted covering. Prices held steady later in the morning, with July selling up to 18.55c and with active months at midday showing net advances of 2 to 10 points. A private report was issued pointing to an increase of only 1 per cent in the acreage.

HAYES OUTPUT OF CAR BODIES 1,000 DAILY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Hayes Body Corporation is making 122 per cent more bodies this year than in the same period of a year ago and it is making more expensive and higher priced products than in the first half of 1928, which allows for a larger margin of profit.

The output is now more than 1,000 bodies a day; difficulty is being experienced in keeping up with the demands of customers and a continuation of the present rate of activity is assured for months to come.

The fact that net profit before taxes for the second half of 1928 was only $167,202 against $742,832 for the first half of the year was probably due to changes made in the company's largest customer from Willys-Overland to the Chrysler and Marmon companies.

THE last cars were shipped to Willys-Overland early in the fall and the output at that time was reduced by the fact that quantity production had not started on the new accounts. The change also made necessary the usual expenditures for experimentation, for new dies and for adjustments in the plant. Such a situation is not likely to be repeated in the latter part of the present year, since a continuation of business will be had from present customers.

Even after allowing for the unfavorable developments, the showing for 1928 reflected the progress and growth of the company. Sales in 1928 amounted to $17,526,132, compared with $12,604,101 in 1927. This year sales are expected to total substantially more than $25,000,000.

NET profits in 1927 after taxes and all other charges were $91,018. This was equivalent to 45 cents a share on the 200,000 shares of stock. In 1928 earnings were $884,528 or $3.53 a share on the 250,000 shares outstanding at that time. During the year stockholders were offered rights to subscribe for new stock at $45 a share.

As a result of its growth, Hayes Body is now one of the three largest independent body manufacturers. It has kept pace with the concentration of production in the industry into the hands of fewer larger manufacturers and has expanded its capacity to a point which allows it to handle the accounts of leading producers.

Following the tendency in the industry to pay more attention to design and appearance, the Hayes Body Corporation has obtained the services of Alexis de Sakhnoffsky, who won international fame as art director of Vanden Plas S. A. Brussels.

PRODUCTION and profits of the National-Erie Company so far this year have been far greater than in the same portion of 1928. The company was recently formed by the consolidation of the National Foundry Company, of Erie, with the Williams Foundry and Machine Company, of Akron, O., makers of machinery for rubber factories. The operations and part of the equipment of the latter are being moved from Akron to Erie, where production of both organizations will be centered.

Since the consolidation more machinery for rubber factories has been sold than ever before by the Williams Foundry and Machinery Company. The business of National Foundry also has been in a substantially better volume than a year ago.

THE National Foundry Company specializes in the production of high grade steel castings. It produces its own open hearth and electric furnace steel. It also operates a complete machine shop and gear-cutting works. A new plant is under construction to house the equipment of the Akron plant.

Application has been made for the listing of the 30,000 shares of Class A stock and the $750,000 of first mortgage 6½s on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange and several sales of the stock have been made on the unlisted market. The A stock of $25 par is cumulative at the rate of 8 per cent annually and shares equally with the 30,000 shares of Class B stock after both issues have received 8 per cent in dividends.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP.)—The curb market moved forward in an emphatic manner in the early transactions today, but wide gains in all sections of the list proved a strong temptation to take profits as the session progressed.

A call money renewal rate of 11 per cent, which was soon shaded to 10, gave definite evidence that the month-end credit crisis was passing, but a number of traders were apprehensive over the possible attitude of the Federal Reserve toward renewed bullish activity, with the weekly directors' meeting of the New York Bank this afternoon.

Electric Bond and Share was again a strong feature, opening with a block of 18,000 shares and moving up more than 3 points above 93, but losing most of its gain later. American Superpower A, after mounting about 2 points to 129⅝, reacted toward 120. Allied Power lost an early gain in selling resulting from denials that United Corporation plans to make it an operating subsidiary. Electric Investors recorded and retained a moderate gain and most of the utilities, while sagging from their best levels, held fairly steady.

Deere, a mercurial issue, tumbled nearly 20 points and Tubize lost 10 in a single sale. There were several strong points among the industrials, however, Niles Bement Pond and Caterpillar Tractor making wide gains, the latter reaching new high ground. Aluminum Company shot up 16 points, but lost some of its gain. Oils improved with the publication of last week's crude production estimates, showing a substantial decline. Humble and Gulf made fair gains. Illinois Pipe Line jumped 10 points. In the mines, Newmont sold moderately higher, but reacted under profit taking. Phelps Dodge was firm.

Aviation shares were less active, but generally firm. Fokker, National Aviation and Aviation Corporation of the Americas making small gains. In the motors, Ford of Canada B sold somewhat higher, then reacted, while the A stock held fairly steady.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Many States Pass Pension Laws; Industry's Problem

—By B. C. FORBES—

SINCE the abolition of poverty is authoritatively reported to be the main ambition of President Hoover, the country is likely to hear much about industrial co-operation and co-ordination to reduce unemployment, about measures to deal humanely with those thrown into idleness, about sickness insurance, old age pensions and other ways and means calculated to diminish poverty and to mitigate the evils thereof.

Did you know that old age pension systems have already been adopted, on a more or less modest scale, in no fewer than nine states and that other states are expected to fall into line this year?

PRESIDENT HOOVER, because of his training and his organizing ability, is more likely to address himself, first, to the complicated task of bringing about voluntary nation-wide industrial co-ordination to level the peaks and valleys of employment. He sees gross economic waste in the haphazard methods heretofore light-heartedly practiced by industry. It entails economic waste—and worse—to take an on abnormally large number of employes at one season of the year and then cast them on the street when the seasonal demand ends without giving a thought as to what becomes of them.

Some progress has already been made by certain industries, and still more progress by certain corporations, towards reducing temporary peak employment and spreading seasonal demands over a greater part of the year. In this way a larger permanent force can be maintained, to the benefit of all.

But infinitely more remains to be done. Whether American industrialists are alive to the gravity and urgency of this problem of leveling employment, of reducing unemployment and of taking care of those forced into idleness, is open to question. It may be that President Hoover will use every influence at his command to induce industry to co-operate voluntarily towards this vital end. If such efforts fail, then it may be that he contemplates governmental action.

The subject is one which should be taken up actively and earnestly by responsible business leaders.

VERY interesting information concerning old age pensions has been compiled for this column by Frank E. Hering, chairman of the old age pensions committee of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which has aggressively sponsored this whole movement. For example:

Last February Frank C. Emerson, of Wyoming, signed America's first state-wide compulsory old age pension law, passed 25 to 2 in the Senate and unanimously in the House.

Eight other states have passed county option old age pension bills. Montana and Nevada led the way in March, 1923. In May, 1925, Wisconsin enacted an O. A. P. law. Kentucky followed in 1926, and in 1927 Colorado and Maryland joined the list. Since the passage of the Wyoming law this year, Utah and Minnesota have passed O. A. P. bills.

In California the assembly has passed a bill which would make compulsory pensions to needy persons of 70 or older. Its advocates declare that passage of the law seems assured.

"As various boards of county commissioners try out the pension system, and learn how economical it is compared with the costly poor house system," says Mr. Hering, "we believe that more and more counties will discontinue their poor farms and turn to pensions for the aged as the solution of the problem of providing equitably and decently for the needy old folk. Eventually, we hope that the states that have passed county option laws will amend the measures to make them mandatory upon the counties.

"The opponents of old age pensions who have rallied to the political cry of 'prohibitive cost' are fighting a losing battle.'"

Then follow figures showing the relatively low cost of pensions.

SEVERAL business men have criticized me for urging social—some of them call it socialistic—legislation. But unless our existing industrial system can reasonably satisfy the rank and file of the people it cannot expect to last. And if industry itself refuses or neglects to accomplish the humane ends demanded by the people, it is not only logical but inevitable that the politicians will take a hand. Blinking the facts never yet solved any problem.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Columbia Gas Strong.

Columbia Gas was a strong feature today with important accumulation of the stock with expectation of valuable rights in near future. The business thus far in 1929 is running 20 per cent ahead of the corresponding period of last year. With more than $35,000,000 of new investment in facilities coming from profits in 1928 and projected for 1929, Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation is expected to capitalize this to some extent. Additional money may be obtained through the offering of common stock subscription privileges to common stockholders. An amount of about $15,000,000 is expected to be raised in this manner with a new stock offering at an attractive price level.

OP POSE COAL RATE RAISE

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP.)—Coal operators in West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss a petition of Ohio and Pennsylvania coal interests for increased lake cargo rates from southern territory.

The joint meeting of the southern producers was similar in terms to that filed by railroads serving the same territory earlier this week.

The Ohio-Pennsylvania operators have asked the commission to increase to 45 cents the present 35 per cent differential applying on lake cargo shipments from West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee as compared with lake cargo rates from Ohio and Pennsylvania. The southern coal petition today asserted that the 35 cent differential was fair and that the case should not be reopened.

CAPITAL OFFICE OPENS TO SPUR DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP.)—Democratic party leaders, intent upon recovering in the 1930 congressional elections ground lost last year, have decided to open permanent headquarters in Washington under the direction of Jouett Shouse, of Kansas, as chairman of the executive committee.

Formal announcement of this move was made here yesterday by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who at the same time said he had succeeded in reducing the party deficit of $1,550,000 to about $800,000, "with every indication of a further reduction to under $500,000 within the next fortnight."

Replying to questions put to him by newspaper correspondents after he had read his formal statement, the national chairman said he had no intention of relinquishing his post and expected to be active in party affairs.

CONFERS WITH SENATORS

Chairman Raskob said that after many conferences with members of the executive and advisory committees, he had reached the conclusion "that the party's interests can be advanced best by the opening of permanent and adequate headquarters in Washington, and the conducting of active organization work 365 days in the year."

The chairman's announcement was made after he had held an informal conference with a large number of Democratic senators, including Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, floor leader in the Senate, and party candidate for the vice presidency in the 1928 election, and Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, who had a prominent part in the last campaign.

Besides Mr. Shouse, other members of the committee are the chairman himself; former Senator Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island; Senators Harrison and Pittman, of Nevada; Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and F. J. Hoey, of New York.

PLAN VIGOROUS DRIVE

"Mr. Shouse, as chairman of the executive committee, will be in active contact with members of the national committee and members of Congress and in complete charge of relations between state organizations, their chairmen and members," said the Raskob statement.

"Mr. Shouse will devote his entire time to this work. He will call upon national committeemen and national committeewomen and party leaders both in Congress and in the several states for advice and counsel, and will ask them to contribute their effort and thought that will best promote the party's interests. He will surround himself with a competent staff for organization, publicity and research work.

"Office space will be provided for national committeemen and women as well as state chairmen and other Democratic officials visiting Washington. Everything will be done to build a strong, country-wide Democratic organization that will be a virile, going institution, functioning at all times in the interest of Democratic policies and doctrines as set forth by such great Democratic statesmen as Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson.

CO-OPERATION ASKED

"There will be regular meetings of the executive committee here in Washington every month in which both Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, chairman of the advisory committee, and I will participate.

"I bespeak for Mr. Shouse the cordial, unselfish and unqualified support of Democrats and Progressives of every section of the country in the important task that he has agreed to assume."

Mr. Shouse is widely known among the leaders and rank and file of the Democratic party as he has taken an active part in the last five Democratic national conventions. In 1920 and again in 1924, he was a leader in the movement to nominate William G. McAdoo for the presidency, and last year he gave his entire time to the campaign to elect the Smith-Robinson ticket.

While serving in Congress, Mr. Shouse was a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee, which framed the federal reserve and federal farm loan acts. After Carter Glass was appointed secretary of the treasury by Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Shouse was made assistant secretary at the request of the now Senator from Virginia.

10,000 Home Town Folk Hear New Opera Star

CLEVELAND, May 1.—(AP.)—Dreda Aves, daughter of a Norwalk (O.), minister, drew 10,000 residents of her home town to her Ohio debut last night when she sang the role of Santuzza in the New York Metropolitan Opera Company's presentation of Mascagni's opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Five hundred gathered about the newest soprano in grand opera in a reception after the performance, arranged by citizens of her home, who will greet her next week when she visits her childhood home.

CREDIT MENACE SEEN IN STOCK

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP.)—Calling the present credit situation "financial indigestion," Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, first president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told the seventeenth annual meeting of that organization yesterday that the only way to obviate present difficulties is to curtail the issuing of "innumerable shares of new stock" until the market has "digested" those already outstanding.

The financial situation held first place in discussions before the opening day's sessions. Julius H. Barnes, New York grain exporter, discussed it as one of American business' responsibilities and ranked it in importance with tariff, farm relief, reduction of taxation and conservation of exhaustible raw materials.

The approximately 2,500 convention delegates, representing more than 1,700 business groups, divided into round table gatherings after the opening session.

Chairman Hawley, of the House Ways and Means Committee, was to discuss the making of a tariff today. An open forum will be held on this problem, and the resolutions committee will take its concensus under consideration.

C. H. Cahan, member of the Canadian parliament, was to comment today on credit problems faced by both American and Canadian business. The present credit difficulty does not require a "major operation," Wheeler today told the conference, "provided that we can induce intelligent co-operation on the part of all who participate in granting and using credit."

REMUS' FRIEND SHOT DEAD IN HOTEL

CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—(INS.)—Guns of gangland roared in a fashionable hotel here today and August Bruck, 30, former lieutenant of George Remus in liquor operations and known as a Chicago gunman, wanted in Detroit for robbery, fell to his death with five bullet wounds in his back.

That Bruck died while attempting to defend himself was evident to police, as Bruck had a revolver with no bullets discharged, tight in his hand.

WOMEN SCURRY OUT

Two women, badly frightened, rushed from his room to the lobby and fled to the street shortly after the shooting.

The shooting was the climax of an alleged drinking party which was attended, police believe, by John Monahan, Chicago bootlegger and rum runner, and Joseph Plunkett, another former aid to Remus.

Two men, believed to be Monahan and Plunkett, followed the women to the street. Hotel attaches said all appeared to be greatly excited.

The dead gunman was lying on the floor, five bullets in his body had been fired behind his back, police stated.

AUTOGRAPHS FOUND

Pictures of boxers and women adorned the walls. A book of alleged "customers" found on the body contained names of Cincinnati and Dayton, O., lawyers and women.

One picture of a woman was signed "Joey" and the name "Good News Company, 1929." Another was evidently from a chorus girl signed "Ebbey."

Police, after a cursory investigation, were unable to ascertain a motive for the slaying.

DON'T WISH FOR A CAR—BUY ONE TODAY—THE PRICES ARE RIGHT—THIS IS YOUR CHANCE

This mark is found only on good used cars. "Hupp-Mark" cars can be bought only from Hupmobile dealers. Wherever you see this mark displayed you can be sure of receiving your money's worth and fair and courteous treatment.

WE WANT you to drive one of these fine cars and SEE why they have set a new standard for used cars in Pittsburgh.

EXCELLENT VALUES IN UNUSUALLY LOW PRICED CARS

We have many good cars on which the prices are so low that they cannot be given the same reconditioning as our "Hupp-Mark" cars, but which are sound car investments for anyone desiring good transportation at a small cost.

BUGS BAER Says

THERE GOES THE GREEN LIGHTS

WE have finally figured out the traffic problem and the future of Com. Byrd's new continent.

"Bugs" Baer

Let Congress put it aside as a safety zone.

The question of crossing a street is now a serious answer. Your life is no longer in your hands. It's in your shoes.

A stroll along the boulevard is now a series of convulsive leaps and bounds with reflex action being the better part of valor.

The hand is quicker than the eye. But don't forget to make your heels very sudden.

If you think that Chicago, New York or Los Angeles has traffic business, you should try to cross Boulevard Bassmann on a bargain Tuesday.

Paris has the same traffic regulations as a three-ring circus. When a taxicab smasks a pedestrian in Paris it knocks him so far that he can use a London bobby as a witness.

A scrambled jay-walker in America has rights. But in France law and order is a blindfold test. The pedestrian is guilty. You can sue the taxicab but the only thing you will recover is your health.

A Paris taxi does 50 miles an hour on eggshaped wheels and has fenders with claws on them. The French driver steers with his horn. Owing to the heavy demands on his services by loose jay-hoppers he has learned to play Beethoven's beautiful funeral March on his one-tube orchestra.

The same thing is true of London and Berlin. Except that accidents are so numerous that they have taken away the chauffeurs' horns and given them harps.

Madrid is a trifle easier on the vagrant tourist. A few lessons enable you to leap across the hoods of cars with all the grace of an epileptic matador.

Many people have succeeded in crossing the streets of Detroit or Pittsburgh on foot. But nobody ever did it in Venice.

There's an Italian town for the curb-loopers. It's the only town in the world where a careless pedestrian needs waterwings and safety zones are islands at low tide.

We left the Royal Danelli one dawn to catch the train for Vienna. You have never realized the dangers of light housekeeping until you have your trunk jiggering in a gondola with Gar Wood at the car.

Banking the corner into the Grand Canal under the famous Rialto we were sideswiped by a milk wagon at sea. Every milkman in Venice is an admiral. He sunk us with all on board and we want to state that the Grand Canal did not earn its name because of its flavor.

Europe has traffic problems that no American can translate. In all the big towns, the taxicabs and trucks run anti-clockwise, and the right-of-way is through St. Peter's pearly gates.

It is embarrassing to step off the curb and get flattened by a taxi that is coming from the right instead of the left.

We are used to being knocked down from the other side.

BULL-ETIN

(Interview.)

"For maintaining our industrial freedom, we always make our fights as much on behalf of the man that works with his hands as for employer" — President Edgerton of the National Association of Manufacturers.

BALLAD

News Item—U. S. Attorney Tuttle says there will be no further investigation of custom's report concerning Congressman Morgan of Ohio.. Inspector Crawford, who is said to have opened Morgan's baggage by mistake, refused to comment, as Congresmen are immune. Congressman Morgan is an ardent dry, and voted for the Jones law.

Congressman Morgan was an ardent dry.
He voted prohibition, didn't bat an eye;
Supporters in Ohio cheered him once again
When he up and voted for the Five and Ten.
A few months later, gettin' off'n a ship
A customs gudgeon tried to search his grip.
Inspector Crawford was the pokenose who Insisted Morgan had a quart or two.
Officials stuttered and officials boiled,
Was Morgan sober or was Morgan oiled?
But the regulations, plain as plain can be,
Grant all Congressmen immunity.
Get out your pencil and get out your pad
And jot down the moral of this story sad—
Very wise men write the nation's laws,
Otherwise there wouldn't be no loop-hole clause.

A movement is on foot among hard-of-hearing-clubs to protest against the exclusive production of talking pictures.

This makes it practically unanimous.

Mr. Porter Proposes World Calendar Parley

In presenting a resolution recommending that President Hoover invite nations of the world to participate in a conference to bring about simplification of the calendar, Representative Stephen G. Porter attempts to add official force to a widespread demand, especially among business firms, that the calendar be modernized and made more orderly.

Representative Porter is absolutely right in his impression that pronounced sentiment favorable to a change exists. Prominent individuals have urged it and organizations are in existence that have spread propaganda so effectively that a simplified calendar really is in existence under the surface. Many business concerns conduct their affairs on a four-week month basis. With them every business period ends on a Saturday and the succeeding one begins on a Monday.

As has been pointed out previously, the favored reformed calendar would include 13 months of four weeks each, thus permitting the first of the month and the first of the week always to fall on Monday. This would account for 364 days. The extra day would be taken care of between what now is December 31 and January 1 as the New Year holiday, a day without a date in the calendar. In leap years there would be another holiday without date between two other convenient months.

This is the coming calendar in the business world and there appears to be no good reason why it should not be adopted for general use.

Bankers to Co-operate In Local Farm Problems

Of much importance to Western Pennsylvania was the meeting attended by county farm agents of this region and the agricultural committee of Group 8, Pennsylvania Bankers' Association. It was important because a knotty farm problem was considered and a conclusion was reached.

It was decided there must be co-operation between financial and producing interests to develop a high quality standard for commodities and efficiency in distribution, with the aid of the bankers. Scientific farming and the reclamation to agricultural use of lands abandoned to other purposes were considered necessary. The bankers set themselves to the task of making a survey of waste land as a preliminary step.

The farm is the primary source of our sustenance. Anything done to make it more useful will be for the benefit of all.

Fire Prevention Better Than Extinguishing Fire

Several members of Council have been named as a special committee to confer with groups which are interested in the establishment of a bureau of fire prevention. Mayor Kline has told Council that he favors such a bureau and would like to see it in operation.

An ounce of prevention, the old saw states, is worth a pound of cure. Fire prevention, on the face of it, is much more desirable than fire extinguishing and there is no doubt that it could be made effective. We have an efficient fire-fighting force, but it serves us best when it is not working. Let us keep the firemen in idleness as much as possible.

Work Bonds Proposed For Rail-River Terminal

A bond ordinance before Council provides a sum of $252,000 for the beginning of the first unit of the proposed rail-river terminal, for which a site west of the Manchester Bridge has been designated. Tentative plans would have construction in progress at the time the canalization of the Ohio is celebrated in October.

This is another matter affecting the progress of Pittsburgh in which there will be public gratification that a step toward physical accomplishment has been taken. With adequate rail-river and aerial transportation facilities this great industrial center will be in position to care for traffic demands that are constantly enlarged.

Who Is Mr. Gibson?

Who Wrote His Message?

European countries, including Great Britain and France, give a most cordial welcome to a proposal from our Mr. Gibson to have the United States defense plans arranged on a European basis.

Europe and part of official Washington, it is said, are "elated."

Possibly, but American voters that protested by 7,000,000 plurality against any European League of Nations or World Court are NOT elated.

An editor asks concerning Mr. Gibson's plan for limiting American armaments to suit depleted European purses, "Has Mr. Gibson started something?"

Mr. Gibson has not started anything of his own motion. He has delivered a message written by somebody in this country.

Who told Mr. Gibson to deliver that message? Will he have power to overrule the expressed will of American citizens, voting by 7,000,000 plurality against any League of Nations, World Court or other entanglement with Europe?"

The Hearst Papers Advocate

1. An agreement on an equal basis of English speaking peoples to preserve peace between themselves and to promote the peace of the world, but no minority representation in foreign leagues.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate—no state to have less than two Senators.
3. Separate departments of Army and Navy and air forces, united under Secretary of National Defense.
4. Vigorous Federal action, under a Secretary of Education, to abolish illiteracy in the United States.
5. Installation of President and of Congress on first of January following election in November.
6. A Federal sales tax, the income from which to be used in reducing other Federal taxation.
7. A calendar year of thirteen months of four weeks each; all holidays to fall on Saturdays.
8. Construction of Nicaragua Canal for commerce and defense; advocated by Hearst papers since 1895.
9. The acquisition of the French West Indies as part payment for the French debt to the United States and of the English West Indies also, if agreeable to France and England.

SHADOWS

Tales That Are Told

The Last Straw

THE village sweet shop. The prospective customers, three small boys.

"Two penn'orth of bull's-eyes, please," said the first.

The sweets were on a top shelf, and the aged proprietor had to use the steps. He served the youth, and returned the bottle to the top shelf.

"And what do you want, my lad?" he inquired of the second lad.

"Two penn'orth of bull's-eyes, please."

Again the steps were climbed, and the customer served. Before replacing the bottle the shopkeeper turned to the third boy.

"I suppose," he said, "you want two cents worth of bulll's-eyes, too?"

The boy shook his head. Once again the sweets were returned to the top shelf.

"And what can I get for you?" the third lad was asked.

"A penn-orth of bull's-eyes, please," was the answer.

They'll Use It

"I'VE just finished writing a story about a man who had his liver cut out, whose stomach evaporated in a little green smoke, whose heart dropped three feet and is hanging by two arteries from the last rib, whose larynx is clogged by two overgrown white corpuscles, but who is living happily by eating a little purple pill each day."

"Who do you think is ever going to publish such an impossible story?"

"Oh, I'm sending it to an almanac."

Hoped It Wasn't His Fault

ONCE again the doorbell rang and, dropping her brush and pan, the maid ran to answer it.

"Good gracious me!" she exclaimed, on seeing a bearded hawker on the steps. "You again! That's about the fourth time I've answered the door to you in a month."

The hawker looked up at her slyly.

"Well," he retorted, "it's the first time I've ever called 'ere, miss. I 'ope it wasn't through me that you lost the other three places you was in."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

ONE of these girls that goes to India for the Calcutta sweepstakes and comes home and writes a book about social conditions was the big attraction at a tea that the publishers were giving for her. She was being asked all about this and that in India, and one of the travelers says to her, "And did you see the Taj Mahal?"

'See him? Why, sure. That guy wanted me to marry him after we'd been swimming in the Ganges a coupla times."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

BIG BILL BROWN'S been telling me about The Dear Little Woman at Home.

About what a Tartar she is—

How she's always crabbing about something and blaming him for something he hasn't done—

How she won't let him go off on fishing trips with the fellows or play golf Saturday afternoons or stay out late for a little game of poker—

And raises Cain generally.

"It's certainly surprising what a row a little bit of a woman like that can kick up," says Bill. "Of course, I don't mind it. That's the way women are and a man's a fool if he takes them serious. They can't see things the way men do. You gotta kind of humor them."

Bill smiles condescendingly as he says this. He wants you to believe that he's a great, big, patient, wise bimbo who's coddling along a pesty little weakling that can't help itself.

He's talked that way so often that he almost believes it himself. But you can see he's worried. For everyone knows that Bill Brown's the worst henpecked man in town and that no matter how hard he tries to please her the Missis gets meaner all the time.

The truth is, of course, that Bill's kidding himself with his weak-little-woman line.

Bill concludes that his wife is weak because she wears skirts and is about half his size. Also because it soothes his masculine vanity to pretend she's weak. As a matter of fact she has more energy in her little finger than he has in his whole spongey body. She goes through Bill's resistance like a dum-dum bullet through a piece of cheese.

Bill pretends he lets her get that way because he's big hearted and chivalrous. The truth is, he lets her get that way because he can't help himself. And it's a shame. It's a shame because he's spoiling her life as well as his own by his cowardice.

She needs trimming—does Mrs. Bill. And, in the mysterious depths of her heart, she WANTS trimming.

She WANTS to feel that Bill is a big, powerful brute who won't stand for her nonsense.

She WANTS him to hand her a wallop on the jaw or its psychological equivalent.

She'd treasure and boast about that wallop. She'd treasure and boast about it for exactly that same reason that the primitive squaw treasured and boasted about her busted nose and blackened eye—BECAUSE IT WOULD PROVE THAT HER HUSBAND WAS A REGULAR GUY. IT WOULD ESTABLISH HER RATING IN THE MATRIMONIAL DUN AND BRADSTREET.

She married with that idea in mind and Bill has bitterly disappointed her.

That's why she is always mad—that's why she acts as if she had a secret grievance. She has!

BILL HAS PROVED A WEAKLING!

He has cheated her—and she'll never forgive him.

He may not have lost her love, but he has certainly lost her respect, and every time he lets her put something over on him... goes deeper into the doghouse.

You ought to get wise to yourself, William.

If you've contracted to be a husband, BE ONE!

THE SILENT DRAMA

By Garrett P. Serviss

ONE person out of every four in the United States is suffering from hearing defects of some sort. That is the statement of Dr. Edward B. Dench, otologist. I have affirmed in these articles that deafness was alarmingly increasing, but that was a non-professional opinion, based only on amateur observation. Dr. Dench's statement is authoritative, made before a committee which is assisting the American Otological Society to obtain immediately half a million dollars for the study of diseases and affections of the ear in the hope of discovering methods of dealing with chronic progressive deafness.

Now, this question finds an intimate connection with the social interests and the personal well-being of millions of people through the threatened transformation of the "movie" drama into a "talkie" drama. The movies, with their silent "titles" taking the place of spoken conversation have been improved until thousands of good people from every region of society have become their patrons, finding in them not a substitute for the regular stage drama so much as a new, completely, modern form of dramatic entertainment, capable by its peculiar powers of producing effects utterly inaccessible to the ablest stage management, and introducing to the eye a mimic world of motion and color, partaking of the magic of an Arabian Nights dream.

Without necessary competition or conflict with the established drama of living, speaking actors, this novel form of entertainment (applied science's splendid gift to the amusement world) has rendered it possible to set forth before great audiences, with the vividness of actual life, romantic stories, scenes of exciting adventure, actual incidents of every day life in all parts of the world, and to reproduce the greatest and most significant events of past history by sea and by land so realistically that the spectator has seemed to become contemporary witness of the scenes before him.

Now, in all this the deaf and the hard-of-hearing have taken their share of enjoyment on an even footing with those blessed with perfect hearing.

The printed titles have not only served well in place of audible conversation, but they have in some instances been more effective in conveying the significance of certain incidents and actions than living voices could have been, and surely so if the voices were indistinctly heard. The printed title can sometimes convey to the audience a suggestion or an idea that would not be suitable for utterance by the living actors on the stage. It is a kind of Greek chorus, interpreting scenes for the spectator.

I do not wish to oppose the "talkies" in themselves. What I wish is to utter a protest, which I perceive from the action taken by various associations must find a wide approval, against the abolition of the simple, silent movies. Let us have both if necessary, and even both combined if no better can be done. But I appeal to the managers and the producers in behalf of the one-quarter of our millions of citizens whose hearing is imperfect. Their dollars are genuine, their appreciation of dramatic excellence is as fine as anybody's, and they have perhaps more need than others whose ears are acute for the rest, recreation and enheartenment which the silent drama of the animated screen affords.

Bible Passages

Testimony of John

(St. John 1; 18-34.

NO MAN hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

And this is the record of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, Who art thou?

And he confessed and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he said I am not. Art thou that prophet? And he answered, No.

Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?

He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias.

And they which were sent were of the Pharisees.

And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias, neither that prophet?

John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not;

He it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world.

This is he of whom I said, after me cometh a man which is preferred before me: for he was before me.

And I knew him not, but that he should be made manifest to Israel, therefore am I come baptizing with water.

And John bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him.

And I knew him not, but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.

And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God.

Ultimate Joy

NO man should ask for more if he can clasp
One bit of beauty in his eager hand.
If he can put the dream for which they grasp
In line or word his fellows understand,
If he can bring one breath of fresher air
To stagnant souls from realms serene and bright,
Can charm away the stupor reigning there
And fling wide windows open to the light.
That goal is set too high for common eyes,
And he who trudges towards its glow will find
Before his joy all lesser gladness dies,
Like candle-flames before a rushing wind.
Who voices truth or builds fresh loveliness
Has all of joy a mortal can possess.

Offal a la Carte

By Herbert Kaufman

HOTELS derive their sustaining revenues from room rental.

Restaurants are sacrifice hitters in the game—just as diners are the ablest ticket agents in railway employ.

Ripley, of the Santa Fe, ran his line into a perpetual melon patch, by constructively organizing his deficit on food sales. Travelers got such wonderful choice and lavish helpings on his trains, that they were crowded when competitive coaches went empty.

No efficiency sharp ever sold him a penny-wise and pound-foolish policy. Which observation is offered for the benefit of certain hotel proprietors, temporarily suffering from the hallucination that success works with a blackjack and under the "public-be-damned" sign.

Bigger business, reformed by the spanks of experience, long ago abandoned insolence and "hold up," to place liberalized service in charge of dividends.

But bright young men, who juggle statistics and make 'em do pretty tricks on paper, haven't yet learned that.

Instead, they are preaching that every kitchen should stand on its own fiscal feet, absorb the expense of dancing space, orchestras, professional entertainers, constant re-decoration, crockery breakage and depreciation, not to mention ground-floor overhead.

They've installed detective systems to sleuth the ice boxes, patrol the pastry trays and count the noodles.

They have also substituted quality-pinching formulas and essence-diluting recipes wherever inferior shortenings can be concealed in crust, and gravies made to hide theft of nourishment.

Single steaks, carved on the wedge to favor gristle and fat, must sell at $2.75. A double sirloin a la Stanley, garnished with a dab of horse-radish and fried banana, is procurable at $6.50.

Vermicelli fanciers may satisfy cravings at the rate of 70 cents per bird-bathful. And a scrap of toast, photographically plated with Russian caviar, is winsomely suggested for $1.75.

These rates prevail even in establishments with obsolete heating, ancient plumbing, pre-war ventilation and furnishings like grandfather used to admire.

In snootier caravansaries, profiteering has gone air-minded.

French cuisine is a dodo phrase. Chefs have graduated into laboratory hounds and percentage experts. They are specializing in hashes, horrors and by-products.

They've turned from Careme and Escoffier to follow chemistry, which understands how to kill the taint of stale fish, dope wilting greens, and concealingly season ripe poultry.

Offal in Tiffany settings, and almshouse fare on Limoges porcelain, are fast crossing the continent. Midas isn't rich enough to buy a square and wholesome meal when away from home.

He can feast his eyes on Old Masters, million dollar foyers and historic tapestries, but his revolting stomach must confine selection to such prepared entrees as stewed tripe, frankfurters and sauerkraut, boiled cabbage and pigs' knuckles, lambs' fries and other unmentionables, potted oxtail, swine kidneys, pickled calves' head and brains.

Meanwhile, balance sheets lugubriously note the steady diminishment of income, wonder why so many rooms are empty and so many old customers have checked out.

Plucked geese aren't laying so many golden eggs upstairs. Stupid avarice is slaughtering them downstairs.

Jesse James has seized the pantry and confiscated the cafe.

Highwaymen and garbage-vendors have invaded the field to strip it of fertility, and find, in the end, that Lincoln, not Barnum, correctly estimated public gullibility. And patience.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 1.—Another philandering romance, blooming under Broadway tungstens, reached a spectacular finish recently. The Romeo was a rich and apparently happily married patron of the theater. The Juliet was a lovely young girl he had met on various evenings away from the family hearth.

His interest in her became avuncular. That is, she called him "Uncle." From the obscurity of a cellar cabaret she was sent off to a finishing school for a polishing, and this was followed by a careful vocal training under celebrated masters in Europe.

A naturally pleasant voice developed a richness, and, following intense study in a dramatic school, she was "farmed out" to stock companies for further development. She came back to Broadway and took a place in a chorus, having worked earnestly and faithfully.

So when the time was ripe for a debut, the "uncle" appeared in the role of the generous angel and provided extravagantly for her appearance in the leading role of a musical comedy. During this seasoning process sly whispers of the attachments filtered to the columns of gossip weeklies.

He cautioned her to be extremely discreet. Any knowledge of their relations would be not only disastrous to him, but to her career. He loved his wife, you know, but was one of those misunderstood husbands. She shook her bobbed head in perfect understanding and meant it. His was the decorum and austerity moulded by tradition.

On the night of her appearance in her first featured part, a brilliant audience gathered at one of the select playhouses. The lady filled the promising predictions made for her, and so captivated her audience that at the end of the first act enthusiasm became riotous.

She went before the curtain, made a well-chosen speech and was called back for a total of 12 bows. In her triumph she turned her robinbright eyes to her "Uncle" who sat with his wife in a stage box and blew him an appreciative kiss. The audience craned to see a face gone suddenly white. He never spoke to her again.

Hat manufacturers are catching at their thumbs at the spread of the hatless fad. Many, pessimistically inclined, believe the hat will go the way of the bicycle. The records show the first man to roam Broadway hatless was Earle Carroll. He was advised to do this as a remedy for baldness, and followed the prescription for several seasons but, continuing to lose his hair, dropped the notion. Many go hatless as a symbol of quasi-Bohemianism, others to be rid of hat checking annoyance, but the huge majority to show off.

One of the biggest art collectors is John Ringling, the circus man. At every auction he sits inconspicuously in the background, thumbing a catalog and little interested until the treasure he seeks comes up. Among his most recent purchases was the bathtub in which Marat was lolling when stabbed by Charlotte Corday. He paid $400 for the relic, which was a part of the Napoleonic collection of the late Rodman Wanamaker. Mr. Ringling, by the way, has one of the five biggest individual fortunes in the world.

My idea of a regular hairy-chested job is displayed by a lower East Side employment agency: "Wanted—Bouncer for downstairs cabaret near Chatham square."

And a movie theater on Second avenue heralds a clarinet-playing trained seal, which shows how low a seal can fall.

There is, incidentally, a trained seal act that may be presented at private parties for $50 an evening and they furnish their own feeding fish.

Frisco, the stuttering comedian, is employing leisure time "at liberty," he says, training eagles to deliver mail for those hill-top mansions of movie actors in Beverly Hills.

From a theatrical magazine: "Many seek to criticise the New York theater box office man. They object to what they call his smug superiority. The truth is he is the target for an avalanche of foolish questions and has to be slightly aloof to check them. He has a good head and knows how to keep it."

I've seen better heads on dollar umbrellas.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU doubtless know some old persons for whom the time passes slowly.

Not many callers, not many friends who go to see them.

About all they can do is think of the past, present and future.

At present they have little to look upon with pleasure.

They are old and they may think that aside from their near relatives they are forgotten.

Alive, but still dead to a number of people, who should be kind, to say the least.

These elderly shut-ins whom you know would greatly appreciate a visit from you. Why don't you go?

You could give pleasure and leave a pleasant memory.

It is encouraging to feel that you are not forgotten.

It is precious to be remembered by those out in the busy world.

It would be such a little thing to number certain elderly persons on your regular calling list.

You might be surprised at the pleasure you would give and that you would get out of it—the blessing and the benediction of the aged.

It is such a little thing to do to visit the aged—and what a lot it means to such persons!
